Developers: booking decline and margin pressure

We estimate Chinese developers' 1H26 earnings to decline by 26% YoY due to a decline in revenue booking and margin pressure. Earnings divergence among developers remains, depending on 1) investment property portfolio, 2) disposal gains, and 3) impairment. Among developers, we expect the best performer is CR Land with 1H26 earnings flattish YoY supported by disposal gains, followed by C&D International (-8% YoY), COLI (-10% YoY), Seazen (-16% YoY). (See Figure 2 for details). We revise down C&D International, Longfor, Jinmao, Greentown China, Seazen and Yuexiu Property's 2026-2028E earnings on the back of this 1H26 earnings preview.

Managers: Residential property management pressure remains

For CR Mixc, we expect +10% earnings growth in 1H26E, based on 8% same mall retail sales growth, and accelerated expansions of third-party mall management contracts, whilst we expect its property management business to remain largely stable. Excluding CR Mixc, we expect residential property managers under our coverage to decline by 1% YoY, vs 0%/ -1% in 1H25/ FY25, due to property management (PM) margin pressure, weaker cash collection, terminated GFA and slower value-added services (VAS) growth. We forecast Greentown Service to outperform at 13% YoY earnings growth, followed by Poly Property Services (+5%), Onewo (-5%), Country Garden Services (-8%), and COPH (-15%). We lower COPH 2026-2028E earnings by 23-31%.

Our view on property developers and managers

We suggest investors look through 2026E earnings as they mainly reflect 2025 presales where property prices declined by 15% during the year. We remain positive on developers as early signs show improvement, eg 1) tier 1 cities' property prices have stabilized in 1H26 with declining listing, 2) tier 2 cities' property price YoY decline narrowed vs 2025, with slower listing growth, and 3) rental prices in tier 1 cities have stabilized. On residential property managers (excluding CR Mixc), we remain conservative due to declining industry completion and given that vacant property remains an issue for managers' cash collection and margin.

Valuation and stock implications

COLI and CR Land remain our top picks among developers, and CR Mixc remains our preferred name among property managers, due to market share gain and dividend yield support (2026E dividend yield at 5.6%). We cut our PT of COPH by 29% to HK$3.90, based on 9x 2027E PE. We also cut our PT of Greentown China by 13% to HK$13.00, based on 7x normalized earnings; and cut our PT of Seazen by 30% to HK$2.30, based on a 42% NAV discount.

Developers' 1H26 earnings preview

On average, we expect developers' 1H26 earnings to decrease 26% YoY, compared to an 18% decline in 1H25 and a 41% decline in FY2025. For developers' 1H26 earnings, we expect CRL to outperform with core profit stable YoY, as lower booking contribution and inventory impairment are largely offset by a one-off disposal gain from the mall spin-off in 1H26. For the remaining other developers we cover, we expect declining DP bookings and inventory impairment to continue weighing on earnings. We forecast earnings declines of 8% YoY for C&D International, followed by COLI (-9%), Seazen (-16%), Jinmao (-19%), Poly Developments (-47%), CMSK (-60%), Greentown China (-73%), Yuexiu Property (-93%) and Longfor (-96%).

Against this earnings pressure backdrop, developers remain cautious on land investment. In 1H26, ten major developers' land acquisitions declined by 18% YoY, on average (Figure 3). Developers' newly acquired saleable resources over contract sales ratio was 0.54x, on average (Figure 4). Looking ahead, we think land acquisition shrinkage may negatively impact developers' contract sales in 2H26.

Managers' 1H26 earnings preview

For 1H26 earnings, we expect property managers under our coverage to deliver weighted-average earnings growth of 4% YoY, slowing from 8% in 1H25 and 6% in FY25. The deceleration is primarily driven by declining property management (PM) margins, lower cash collection rates, as well as slower growth and margin compression in value-added services (VAS).

Among the major property managers, we expect Greentown Service to outperform, with earnings growth of 13% YoY, supported by double-digit PM revenue growth and a 0.5ppt improvement in PM margin. We expect CR Mixc's earnings to increase 10% YoY, driven by 15% YoY growth in commercial segment revenue and a 1ppt margin improvement, while earnings from its residential segment are expected to remain broadly flat YoY. Among the remaining residential managers, we forecast Poly Property Services to deliver 5% YoY earnings growth, broadly in line with company guidance, followed by Onewo (-5%), Country Garden Services (-8%), and China Overseas Property Holdings (COPH) (-15%).

Price Target and Earnings Estimates Changes

C&D International: We cut our 2026-28E revenue forecasts by 12-18% on lower DP bookings. In addition, we increase our SG&A expense assumptions to reflect higher inventory impairment provisions, as we expect the company will continue to prioritize inventory destocking in 2026-27. Consequently, we cut 2026-28E earnings by 18-29%. Our estimates are now 15-18% below consensus.

China Overseas Property Holdings (COPH): Given the weaker outlook for the residential PM business, we reduce our 2026-28E revenue forecasts by 0-4% and roll forward our model to incorporate 2025 actual results. We also cut our 2026-28E gross margin assumptions by 2.7-3.2ppt, reflecting 1) lower PM margins on weaker cash collection, and 2) VAS margin compression amid softer consumption and service demand. As a result, we lower our 2026E/27E/28E earnings forecasts by 23%/29%/31%, respectively. Our revised estimates are now 12-23% below consensus. Accordingly, we cut our price target by 29% to HK$3.90 (from HK$5.50), broadly in line with our earnings revisions. Our new price target is based on an unchanged target PE multiple of 9x 2027E earnings.

Greentown China: We lower 2026-28E contracted sales forecasts by 11%, reflecting a slower pace of land replenishment, and thus reduce 2026-28E revenue forecasts by 0-11%. We also lower gross margin assumptions and increase inventory impairment provisions, as we expect the company to continue prioritizing inventory destocking. Consequently, we cut 2026-28E earnings forecasts by 30-94%. Our estimates are now 27-94% below consensus. As Greentown China narrowly makes a profit in the near term, we try to gauge its valuation based on the normalized earnings. We expect the company to add attri. saleable resources of Rmb80bn per annum, which would generate a normalized earnings of Rmb40bn, assuming 5% net margin. Using 7x PE (sector 15-year historical average), this implies a price target of HK$13.00.

Jinmao: We lower our 2027-28E revenue forecasts by 8%, reflecting weaker DP sales booking. We also reduce our 2026-28E gross margin assumptions, as we expect vintage inventory to continue to weigh on booking margins. In addition, we revise down our PCS distribution assumptions following the repayment of US$500mn of perpetual securities. Consequently, we lower our 2026E/27E/28E earnings (core profit minus PCS distributions) forecasts by 0%/44%/45%, respectively.

Longfor: We lower our 2027-28E contract sales by 15% due to limited land acquisition, and therefore we revise down 2027-28E revenue forecasts by 15% to reflect weaker DP bookings. We also assume continued price cuts to support sell-through rate and therefore revise our 2027-28E DP booking margin assumption to -15%. In addition, we raise our 2027-28E interest expense forecasts to Rmb1.2bn–2.8bn, reflecting a lower interest capitalization ratio as the company's development projects gradually reach completion. As a result, we cut our 2026-28E core profit forecasts by 3-70%, resulting in core losses of Rmb0.5bn-1.6bn in 2027-28E.

Due to loss making in 2026-28E, we use a SOTP method to value Longfor's recurring business and loss making DP segment separately. We value Longfor's IP business at Rmb79bn NAV, assuming a 56% EBIT margin and 5.5% cap rate, and value its PM business at Rmb19bn, based on 10x 2026E PE. For Longfor's DP business, we use the book value of DP equity plus the present value of future profit from its land bank, which amounts to Rmb21bn. In total, we estimate Longfor's group NAV is at Rmb119bn, and we then apply a 47% NAV discount (unchanged) to arrive at our unchanged price target of HK$10.20 per share.

Seazen Group: Given the slower growth of IP income of 2% YoY in 1H26 (1H25: 12%) and contract sales decline of 36% YoY in 1H26, we reduce our 2026-28E revenue forecasts by 9-22% and roll forward our model to incorporate 2025 actual results. We also cut our gross margin assumptions for DP, reflecting our expectation that the company will continue to prioritize inventory destocking. As a result, we lower our 2026-28E earnings forecasts by 53-61%, leaving our estimates 42-67% below consensus. Due to lower IP income growth, we revise our cap rate assumption from 6.0% to 6.5%, and revise down IP business valuation to Rmb107bn. Our revised SOTP-based 2026E NAV is HK$4.0 per share, and therefore, we cut our PT by 30% to HK $2.30, based on a 42% NAV discount (unchanged).

Yuexiu Property: We lower our 2026-28E contracted sales forecasts by 6% on slower land replenishment, leading us to reduce our 2026-28E revenue forecasts by 6-10%. We also cut our gross margin assumptions, reflecting our expectation that the company will continue to prioritize inventory destocking. As a result, we lower our 2026-28E earnings forecasts by 62-79%, leaving our estimates 74-78% below consensus.

UBS Research THESIS MAP a guide to our thinking and what´s where in this report

PIVOTAL QUESTIONS

Q: Will COPH's property management expansion pressure persist?
Yes. Against the backdrop of a prolonged downturn in the residential property market, we expect COPH to receive fewer management contracts from its associated developers and face intensifying competition in third-party project expansion. In addition, the company is likely to continue exiting low-profitability projects and projects with deteriorating cash collection rates, which we believe will further weigh on net GFA additions. We expect a moderate 5% GFA growth CAGR for COPH in 2026-28E.

Q: Will the existing housing market be the main GFA growth driver?
Yes, due to a shrinking primary residential market, we believe property management companies are expanding into existing housing. We think this trend may be sustainable with the increasing penetration of property owners' associations. Compared with non-residential properties, which need particular qualifications and experience, we think the existing housing market has lower entry barriers. In our view, housing in urban areas built after 2000 could be a profitable market for property managers given a prospective market size of 12.85bn sqm, by our estimates.

UBSVIEW

We maintain a Neutral rating on COPH and cut our price target by 29% to HK$3.90 (from HK$5.50). Given the weaker GFA expansion, lower cash collection and weaker margin outlook, we lower our 2026E/27E/28E earnings forecasts for COPH by 23%/29%/31%, respectively. Accordingly, we cut our price target by 29% to HK$3.90 (from HK$5.50), broadly in line with our earnings revisions. Our new price target is based on an unchanged target PE multiple of 9x 2027E earnings.

EVIDENCE

1) COPH have exited 55.6mn sqm GFA in 2025, vs 44.5mn sqm in 2024.

2) In 2025, COPH's property management gross margin recorded 14.3%, -1.6ppt from 2024 level.

WHAT´S PRICED IN?

COPH is trading at 9x 2027E PE and 5% 2027E dividend yield. Given the stock price has corrected 21% YTD, we think the market has fully priced in COPH's earnings downward revision and drag from residential property downturns. We remain Neutral on the stock.

COMPANY DESCRIPTION

China Overseas Property Holdings' (COPH) history dates back to 1986, when the company's first subsidiary was incorporated in Hong Kong to complement China Overseas Land and Investment's (COLI) property development business in Hong Kong. Later, its China business began in 1991. COPH was established in 2006, and listed in Hong Kong in October 2015 after its spin-off from COLI. As of end-2019, the company had a presence in 104 cities in China (including Hong Kong and Macau), with total gross floor area (GFA) under management of 151m sqm from 806 projects. Over 90% of its GFA under management is developed by COLI.

PIVOTAL QUESTIONS

Q: Could private REITs accelerate developers to spin-off their assets?
Likely. Public REITs targeting retail investors have more restrictions and regulatory approval requirements than private REITs (eg, restrictions on use of proceeds, asset types (office is not allowed), sponsor and asset quality subject to regulatory approval. These restrictions have discouraged developers from spinning off their assets. As such, most public CREITs are sponsored by state owned developers (SOE) instead of non-SOE. As private REITs target institutional investors, they face less restrictions than public REITs (eg, no restrictions on use of proceeds, asset types, sponsor nor asset quality, as these are subject to negotiation with investors). We think the main challenge for private REITs is asset valuation and real estate cycle.

Asia Property "APAC Focus: the rise of private REITs in China" 8/14/2025

Q: Will Seazen be able to repay its outstanding bonds?
Yes. Seazen recently issued a US$300m offshore bond and subsequently repurchased offshore bonds worth US$300m/US$50m due July/October 2025. In addition, Shanghai Stock Exchange has been reviewing Seazen's Rmb6bn onshore bond issuance for the repayment of a Rmb1.1bn onshore bond and Rmb2bn of ABS (asset-backed securities). After those arrangements, Seazen will hold total outstanding bonds (including ABS) of US$1.3bn, due by 2026. We expect it to utilise its shopping mall assets for further refinancing.

UBSVIEW

We cut our price target of Seazen by 30% to HK$2.30. Given the slower growth of IP income of 2% YoY in 1H26 (1H25: 12%) and contract sales decline of 36% YoY in 1H26, we reduce our 2026-28E revenue forecasts by 9-22% and cut our gross margin assumptions for DP. As a result, we lower our 2026-28E earnings forecasts by 53-61%. Due to Seazen's lower IP income growth and weak performance of general REITs market, we expect a valuation de-rating of Seazen's IP business and slow down of IP spin-off. We revise our cap rate assumption from 6.0% to 6.5%, and revise down IP business valuation to Rmb107bn. Our revised SOTP-based 2026E NAV is HK$4.0 per share, and therefore, we cut our PT by 30% to HK$2.30, based on a 42% NAV discount (unchanged).

EVIDENCE

1) 1H26 contract sales were Rmb6.4bn, down 38% YoY.

2) 1H26 rental income recorded Rmb7.1bn, up 2% YoY.

WHAT´S PRICED IN?

Seazen is trading at 0.19x 2026E P/BV. We think the key market debate has shifted from liquidity to earnings, but the market has not fully priced in less drag from the DP business and potential to unlock value from IP, in our view. We remain Buy on the stock.

Valuation Method and Risk Statement

We base our valuations of China's property developers and managers, including COLI, CR Land, Jinmao, CR Mixc and COPH, on PE or P/BV multiples. We believe key downside risks related to the Chinese property market include: 1) government administrative policies that restrict demand and mortgage lending; 2) tight financing for China's developers; 3) lower-than-expected residential growth in China's economy. We believe key upside risks include: 1) material policy loosening that effectively boosts residential property sales, investments and prices to positive YoY growth; 2) large-scale asset disposals at fair prices by some developers to ease liquidity pressures.

Investing in structured investments involves significant risks. For a detailed discussion of the risks involved in investing in any particular structured investment, you must read the relevant offering materials for that investment. Structured investments are unsecured obligations of a particular issuer with returns linked to the performance of an underlying asset. Depending on the terms of the investment, investors could lose all or a substantial portion of their investment based on the performance of the underlying asset. Investors could also lose their entire investment if the issuer becomes insolvent. UBS does not guarantee in any way the obligations or the financial condition of any issuer or the accuracy of any financial information provided by any issuer. Structured investments are not traditional investments and investing in a structured investment is not equivalent to investing directly in the underlying asset. Structured investments may have limited or no liquidity, and investors should be prepared to hold their investment to maturity. The return of structured investments may be limited by a maximum gain, participation rate or other feature. Structured investments may include call features and, if a structured investment is called early, investors would not earn any further return and may not be able to reinvest in similar investments with similar terms. Structured investments include costs and fees which are generally embedded in the price of the investment. The tax treatment of a structured investment may be complex and may differ from a direct investment in the underlying asset. UBS and its employees do not provide tax advice. Investors should consult their own tax advisor about their own tax situation before investing in any securities.

Important Information About Sustainable Investing Strategies: Sustainable investing strategies aim to consider and incorporate environmental, social and governance (ESG) factors into investment process and portfolio construction. Strategies across geographies approach ESG analysis and incorporate the findings in a variety of ways. Incorporating ESG factors or sustainable investing considerations may inhibit the portfolio manager's ability to participate in certain investment opportunities that otherwise would be consistent with its investment objective and other principal investment strategies. The returns on a portfolio incorporating ESG factors or sustainable investing considerations may be lower or higher than portfolios where ESG factors, exclusions, or other sustainability issues are not considered by the portfolio manager, and the investment opportunities available to such portfolios may differ.
