AI and Industrial Themes Extend Their Lead

CITI'S TAKE

Citi's Global Theme Machine evaluates the investment appeal of 83 global themes across nearly 3,600 listed companies, informed by insights from over 170 Citi Fundamental Analysts. As part of our regular annual process, we have refreshed our thematic review and stock mappings. Our latest publication, Global Theme Machine: Reassessment of Themes for 2026, outlines the current framework used for this analysis. If you are interested in the full dataset, please contact us—we would be delighted to discuss it in greater depth.

Theme Model Performance — The Theme Model showed significant dispersion, with top-performing themes including Greening the Home and Cloud Computing generating returns in excess of 10%, while laggards declined between 1–2%. Despite this, the spread between the top and bottom quintiles of model performance remained contained, with overall performance only modestly higher over the month.

Theme Style Rankings — Theme leadership changes for the month is being driven by a combination of Earnings and Price Momentum, with the largest improvers (Wearable Technology, Virtual Reality, Cloud Computing) seeing an uplift on these factors. At the top end, persistent leaders such as Risky Business, Pension Shortfall remain supported by Valuations alongside stronger Quality and Low Risk characteristics.

Top Performing Themes — Relative outperformance versus the MSCI World Index was concentrated in structural growth thematics, with excess returns led by Greening the Home (+8.8%), Cloud Computing (+6.5%), Wearable Technology (+5.2%), AI Enablers (+4.6%), and Manufacturing Onshoring (+3.7%), reflecting a sustained bias toward digitisation and industrial transformation.

Global Theme Machine Insights

First introduced in 2013, Citi's Global Theme Machine is a differentiated research framework that integrates global fundamental analyst insights with a robust quantitative methodology to assess the relative attractiveness of long-term investment themes across multiple financial dimensions. The framework currently maps more than 3,600 equities globally to 83 distinct themes, resulting in over 20,000 individual stock-theme linkages.

As part of our annual update cycle, we have recently completed a comprehensive thematic reassessment and stock remapping, reflected in our latest publication, Global Theme Machine: Reassessment of Themes for 2026. Leveraging tools refined over many years, we apply a systematic and data-driven approach to analyze themes, enabling investors to rigorously compare thematic opportunities and integrate them into a broader investment framework.

Our monthly Global Theme Machine publication provides ongoing updates on the relative fundamental attractiveness of each theme, incorporating the latest underlying company fundamentals. In addition, we assess theme crowdedness and macroeconomic sensitivities, helping investors contextualize themes within the broader macro environment and gauge market positioning and sentiment.

What are the themes we cover?

Theme Rankings for June

While the latest rankings indicate that theme leadership scores being driven by a mix of factors, the largest rank improvers for the month were primarily driven through improved momentum (earnings and price) characteristics. Cloud Computing improved to overall rank 4 from 7, supported by stronger price momentum at 35 from 44, improved quality at 8 from 13, and sustained earnings momentum at 2 from 3. Wearable Technology also strengthened materially, rising to 11 from 25, with earnings momentum improving to 4 from 14 and price momentum to 25 from 40. Virtual Reality advanced to 9 from 19, driven primarily by a significant improvement in earnings momentum to 6 from 26.

More broadly, the higher-ranked cohort continues to benefit from a combination of quality, valuation support, and improving earnings visibility rather than relying solely on technical strength. Risky Business remains near the top at 2 from 3, while FinTech holds rank 5 from 4 and ranks 1 when price momentum is excluded, highlighting the resilience of its broader factor profile. Artificial Intelligence Enablers remains highly ranked at 6 from 6, supported by strong growth and improved price momentum.

At the weaker end, Luxury Spend, Global Tourism, and Solar Energy have deteriorated meaningfully, largely reflecting weaker earnings momentum and less supportive low-risk characteristics, suggesting that the market is increasingly penalizing themes where price strength is not matched by improving fundamentals.

Model Performance

Top quintile themes rose 3.6% in the latest month, modestly ahead of the 3.4% return from bottom quintile themes, although both lagged the MSCI World's 4.6% gain. The narrow spread suggests that thematic ranking provided only limited differentiation over the month, with broader market strength dominating returns. Even so, the slight lead of the top quintile remains consistent with the model's longer-term ability to identify relatively stronger thematic exposures.

Which Themes Delivered the Best/Worst Returns Last Month?

Last month's performance was characterized by a pronounced rotation into growth-oriented technology and industrial transformation themes, with several portfolios materially outperforming the MSCI World benchmark, which rose 4.6%. Greening the Home led returns with a gain of 13.4%, followed by Cloud Computing at 11.1%, Wearable Technology at 9.8%, and Artificial Intelligence Enablers at 9.2%. Other strong performers included Manufacturing Onshoring, Additive Manufacturing, Software as a Service, and Green Mobility, reinforcing continued investor preference for AI infrastructure, digital enablement, and capex-linked industrial themes.

At the weaker end of the spectrum, performance lagged across resource-linked, traditional energy, and more defensive consumption exposures. Nuclear Energy declined 2.5%, while Agriculture Demand and Fossil Fuels fell 2.4% and 2.2%, respectively. Consumer-facing themes such as Beautiful People, Consumer Health and Wellness, and Top Brands also underperformed the broader market.

Changes in Fundamental Attractiveness

The latest factor rankings were by improving fundamentals, with the most notable advances concentrated in cyclical, industrial, and selected transition themes. The strongest overall improvements were seen in Fossil Fuels, which rose to rank 13 from 64, Supply Chain Solutions, which improved to 39 from 76, and Greening the Home, which advanced to 35 from 66. These moves were supported primarily by stronger earnings momentum, with Fossil Fuels improving to 10 from 83, Supply Chain Solutions to 15 from 84, and Biofuels to 17 from 80, indicating a meaningful recovery in analyst expectations and near-term fundamentals.

The growth factor also showed renewed support for industrial and infrastructure-linked themes. Energy Storage improved to 35 from 79, Additive Manufacturing to 34 from 72, and Greening the Home to 28 from 59, while Automation/Robotics remained strong at 13 from 34. In price momentum, leadership broadened to include more cyclical areas, with Fossil Fuels improving to 5 from 22 and Green Mobility to 14 from 24.

At the weaker end, deterioration was concentrated in themes where earnings momentum weakened sharply. Luxury Spend, Global Tourism, and Nuclear Energy all saw material declines, suggesting that the market is becoming less willing to reward structural narratives without near-term earnings support.

Which Themes are Crowded?

Given the sustained rise in flows into thematic ETFs and related instruments, investor positioning has become an increasingly important consideration in assessing thematic exposures. Citi Quant's Crowding Model provides a composite measure of crowding by aggregating five underlying positioning indicators across stocks within regional benchmarks. While there is no clear consensus on whether crowding should be viewed as a risk or a tailwind, it remains a useful framework for identifying where investor consensus is most concentrated and which themes are attracting the greatest market attention. For further detail, see our latest Quant Crowding report, Measuring the Crowded Trade in Global Equities: Technology remains crowded as Software catches up, and for stock-level crowding scores, refer to Measuring the Crowded Trade - Global Scores: 02-June 2026 Interim Update (Excel)

Idiosyncratic Risk and Relative Macro Exposures

Given the persistent influence of macro variables on equity return dispersion, we overlay the Global Theme Machine with Citi's Global Risk Model (GRAM) to assess themes through both stock-specific and macro-sensitive risk lenses. Figure 23, highlights the top and bottom 15 themes by idiosyncratic risk relative to the MSCI World benchmark and shows their corresponding exposures to key GRAM macro factors. This framework helps distinguish themes driven primarily by stock-specific fundamentals from those more sensitive to broader macro conditions.

Guide to Citi Research Fundamental Research Investment Ratings:

Citi Research stock recommendations include an investment rating and an optional risk rating to highlight high risk stocks. Risk rating takes into account both price volatility and fundamental criteria. Stocks will either have no risk rating or a High risk rating assigned.

Investment Ratings: Citi Research investment ratings are Buy, Neutral and Sell. Our ratings are a function of analyst expectations of expected total return ("ETR") and risk. ETR is the sum of the forecast price appreciation (or depreciation) plus the dividend yield for a stock within the next 12 months. The target price is based on a 12 month time horizon. The Investment rating definitions are: Buy (1) ETR of 15% or more or 25% or more for High risk stocks; and Sell (3) for negative ETR. Any covered stock not assigned a Buy or a Sell is a Neutral (2). For stocks rated Neutral (2), if an analyst believes that there are insufficient valuation drivers and/or investment catalysts to derive a positive or negative investment view, they may elect with the approval of Citi Research management not to assign a target price and, thus, not derive an ETR. Citi Research may suspend its rating and target price and assign “Rating Suspended” status for regulatory and/or internal policy reasons. Citi Research may also suspend its rating and target price and assign "Under Review" status for other exceptional circumstances (e.g. lack of information critical to the analyst's thesis, trading suspension) affecting the company and/or trading in the company's securities. In both such situations, the rating and target price will show as “—“ and “-“ respectively in the rating history price chart. Prior to 11 April 2022 Citi Research assigned “Under Review” status to both situations and prior to 11 Nov 2020 only in exceptional circumstances. As soon as practically possible, the analyst will publish a note re-establishing a rating and investment thesis. Investment ratings are determined by the ranges described above at the time of initiation of coverage, a change in investment and/or risk rating, or a change in target price (subject to limited management discretion). At times, the expected total returns may fall outside of these ranges because of market price movements and/or other short-term volatility or trading patterns. Such interim deviations will be permitted but will become subject to review by Research Management. Your decision to buy or sell a security should be based upon your personal investment objectives and should be made only after evaluating the stock's expected performance and risk.

Catalyst Watch/Short Term Views (“STV”) Ratings Disclosure:

Catalyst Watch and STV Upside/Downside calls: Citi Research may also include a Catalyst Watch or STV Upside or Downside call to indicate the analyst expects the share price to rise (fall) in absolute terms over a specified period of 30 or 90 days in reaction to one or more specific near-term catalysts or events impacting the company or the market. A Catalyst Watch will be published when Analyst confidence is high that an impact to share price will occur; it will be a STV when confidence level is moderate. A Catalyst Watch or STV Upside/Downside call will automatically expire at the end of the specified 30/90 day period. The Catalyst Watch will also be automatically removed if share price performance (calculated at market close) exceeds 15% against the direction of the call (unless over-ridden by the analyst). The analyst may also remove a Catalyst Watch or STV call prior to the end of the specified period in a published research note. A Catalyst Watch/STV Upside or Downside call may be different from and does not affect a stock's fundamental equity rating, which reflects a longer-term total absolute return expectation. For purposes of FINRA ratings-distribution-disclosure rules, a Catalyst Watch/STV Upside call corresponds to a buy recommendation and a Catalyst Watch/STV Downside call corresponds to a sell recommendation. Any stock not assigned to a Catalyst Watch Upside, Catalyst Watch Downside, STV Upside, or STV Downside call is considered Catalyst Watch/STV No View. For purposes of FINRA ratings distribution-disclosure rules, we correspond Catalyst Watch/STV No View to Hold in our ratings distribution table for our Catalyst Watch/STV Upside/Downside rating system. However, we reiterate that we do not consider No View to be a recommendation. For all Catalyst Watch/STV Upside/Downside calls, risk exists that the catalyst(s) and associated share-price movement will not materialize as expected.

Investing in non-U.S. securities, including ADRs, may entail certain risks. The securities of non-U.S. issuers may not be registered with, nor be subject to the reporting requirements of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission. There may be limited information available on foreign securities. Foreign companies are generally not subject to uniform audit and reporting standards, practices and requirements comparable to those in the U.S. Securities of some foreign companies may be less liquid and their prices more volatile than securities of comparable U.S. companies. In addition, exchange rate movements may have an adverse effect on the value of an investment in a foreign stock and its corresponding dividend payment for U.S. investors. Net dividends to ADR investors are estimated, using withholding tax rates conventions, deemed accurate, but investors are urged to consult their tax advisor for exact dividend computations.
