We add S-Oil to the APAC Conviction List in this month's update. In addition, we highlight the upcoming catalysts for all the stocks on our APAC Conviction List, as well as key strategy and sector reports across Agentic Economy, Global Refining, and China Consumer.

S-Oil - Nikhil Bhandari's positive view on S-Oil is based on: 1) Potential strong free cash flow inflection (18% FCF yield in 2027E); 2) Favourable middle distillates exposure (diesel & jet fuel; ~56% of product yield) positioning the company well in a market where product tightness is likely to persist; 3) Consensus earnings upgrade to accelerate; and 4) Attractive valuation with shares discounting a combination of below mid-cycle diesel/jet cracks in 2027E and lower for longer chemical spreads for the upcoming Shaheen project (effectively assuming negative IRR on the new chemical project).

Core Thesis: Nikhil Bhandari's positive view on S-Oil is based on: 1) Potential strong free cash flow inflection (18% FCF yield in 2027E) driven by a significant decline in capex next year with the company on track to complete the US$7bn capex expansion by mid-2026. 2) Favourable middle distillates exposure (diesel & jet fuel; ~56% of product yield) positioning the company well in a market where product tightness is likely to persist. He views middle distillates as the key bottlenecks in the refining system, which he expects to remain tight over the medium term especially in longer disruption scenarios where refined product inventories could decline to historical lows by 4Q (see our recent Global Refining note). 3) Consensus earnings upgrade to accelerate with 1Q OP already having accounted for a significant portion of 2026 Bloomberg consensus operating profit, while 2Q could shape up as another strong quarter. S-Oil's crude premiums and logistical cost (freight/insurance) have remained under control, while product cracks could be supported by other Asian refiners who are more marginal on the cost curve. 4) Attractive valuation with shares discounting a combination of below mid-cycle diesel/jet cracks in 2027E and lower-for-longer chemical spreads for the upcoming Shaheen project (effectively assuming negative IRR on the new chemical project).

Nikhil thinks that S-Oil's share price may remain volatile in the near-term especially with the ongoing oil price volatility. That said, Nikhil sees good opportunity to buy on dips given the market likely underestimates the more lasting impact of the refined product market disruption as compared to the crude market.

Key debates & GS views:

- Refining margins to remain strong even in near-term de-escalation scenarios: Nikhil's updated refining framework suggests that refining margins should remain robust in 2H even in a scenario of a near-term de-escalation in the Middle East conflict, with his balances pointing to persistent product tightness in 2H (especially diesel/jet) even if Hormuz flows fully recover by end-June and refinery runs normalize in August (accounting for transit time). OECD product inventories could even fall to historical lows in longer disruption scenarios, which could imply greater demand destruction than in Nikhil's base case of flat yoy demand or incentives for underutilized Chinese refineries to ramp, both requiring higher product cracks. Based on the inventory-to-crack relationship, Nikhil estimate Singapore complex GRM fair value at c.US$14/bbl by end-2026 (vs. mid-cycle levels at US$8/bbl) in the base case (which assumes Gulf exports normalize by end-June), with ranges up to US$18/bbl in longer disruption scenarios.

- Middle distillates to lead refining margins strength: The largest refined product supply disruption has been in middle distillates on a volume basis, reflecting the high middle distillate yield of Middle Eastern crude grades. At the same time, diesel demand is the most price inelastic and correlated with industrial activities, given its essential role in heavy transport, mining, and agriculture, hence requiring much higher prices for demand destruction to occur. Nikhil's sees S-Oil's earnings and cash flows as strongly leveraged to higher middle distillate cracks given its high middle distillates exposure (~56% of product yield) where every US$1/bbl higher diesel/jet crack drives ~6% higher 2027E EBITDA, whilst alongside a significant moderation in capex could drive 18% FCF yield in 2027E.
- Attractive valuation: The stock is currently discounting a combination of below mid-cycle diesel/jet cracks in 2027E and lower-for-longer chemical spreads for the upcoming Shaheen project (effectively assuming negative IRR on the new chemical project), which in Nikhil's view, leaves the market underestimating both the duration of elevated product cracks and the potential cyclical recovery in petchem margins. While Nikhil's base case assumes below mid-cycle petchem margins in 2027E, he notes that the petchem industry would be in its 6th year of down-cycle next year when the Shaheen project starts up. Hence, the possibility of a faster-than-expected cyclical recovery in the petchem industry comes at a free optionality, which would imply significantly higher fair value of S-Oil's stock.

Catalysts: 1) Longer duration of Hormuz disruption or greater permanent scarring of upstream and refining capacities; (2) Delays to commissioning timelines for large upcoming refineries (eg. Dos Bocas); and (3) Faster-than-expected ramp up of Shaheen project.

Valuation & TP: 12m TP of W147,000 based on 6.5x 2028E EV/EBITDA (2028E implied value discounted back to 2027E based on 10% cost of equity).

Exhibit 8: We believe S-Oil's shares are now discounting below mid-cycle diesel cracks in 2027

		Shaheen project scenarios
		Lower for longer chemical spreads	Mid-cycle long-term chemical spreads
		-5% IRR scenario	5% IRR scenario
Diesel/Jet crack, US$/bbl (2027E)	$34 (severely adverse scenario implied)	182%	277%
	$28 (forward curve)	131%	226%

Spotlight - Global Macro & Strategy, Asia Strategy, Agentic Economy, Global Refining, China Consumer

Global Macro & Strategy – Momentum risks yielding to bonds (Link, Link). Jan Hatzius, Peter Oppenheimer

Our economists have lowered their 12-month US recession probability by 5 percentage points to 25%, though they still anticipate below-trend growth and rising unemployment. They expect these conditions to eventually prompt the FOMC to deliver two final 25-basis-point normalization cuts, which have been delayed to December 2026 and March 2027 due to reduced recession risks and higher near-term core PCE inflation. Additionally, our economists project the ECB will execute two 25-basis-point hikes in June and September 2026 before reversing course in early 2027. Meanwhile, they observe that China maintains solid growth, although a severe imbalance between robust goods production and weak domestic demand persists.

Our strategists expect global equities to continue pushing higher, supported by resilient global growth and strong earnings upgrades led by the technology and energy sectors. However, they note that momentum is becoming increasingly concentrated and positioning appears stretched, with the Risk Appetite Indicator rising above 1.1, leaving markets more vulnerable to negative surprises. Furthermore, our strategists believe interest rates are becoming a key constraint, as higher bond yields begin to weigh on valuations and equities exhibit greater sensitivity to rate movements. Despite near-term correction risks if the growth and inflation mix deteriorates, they remain optimistic about opportunities to generate alpha by identifying emerging pockets of value within the growth space and growth opportunities within value segments.

Asian Equity Perspectives – Stay the course (Link). Timothy Moe

Our strategists remain positive on North Asia and key structural themes, raising 2026 earnings growth forecasts for tech-heavy Korea (to +300%) and Taiwan (+45%). Driven by stronger earnings, they have increased their KOSPI target to 9,000 and their 12-month MXAPJ index target to 990, implying 13% and 16% USD price and total returns, respectively. Their core view emphasizes structural themes resilient to or bolstered by the Iran conflict, including energy security, defense, US re-industrialization, and the semiconductor memory cycle. Our strategists retain an overweight stance on Korea, Japan, and China, and a constructive marketweight view on Taiwan. They also introduce a regional HALO basket and screens for oil supply shock winners and losers. Following sharp rebounds from March lows, they view derivative overlays as tactically attractive for hedging pullback risk, favoring zero-cost put spread collars on the KOSPI200 and TWSE indices.

US Technology – Decoding the Agentic Economy (Link). Jim Schneider, Eric Sheridan, Gabriela Borges

Our analysts expect Agentic AI to catalyze a step-function change in token consumption, projecting global demand to surge 24-fold to 120 quadrillion tokens per month by 2030. Concurrently, they anticipate an inflection in token economics for hyperscalers and model providers, driven by a 60% to 70% annualized decline in compute costs and stabilizing token prices. Our analysts believe these improving unit economics will lead to a positive gross margin inflection over the next 3 to 12 months, making elevated AI infrastructure spending more sustainable. Across the value chain, they highlight Buy-rated Broadcom, Nvidia, and AMD in semiconductors; Alphabet, Amazon, and Meta in internet; and Microsoft, Cloudflare, and Accenture in software.

Global Refining – The Product Supply Challenge Even in a De-Escalation Scenario (Link). Nikhil Bhandari et al

The global refining system was already operating near capacity prior to the Middle East disruption, constrained by aging infrastructure and limited net additions. Even if refinery utilization normalizes in a de-escalation scenario, their updated balances indicate persistent product tightness in the second half of 2026. In response, our analysts have updated their refining framework with a base case and three alternative scenarios for run normalization, introducing monthly product-level supply-demand balances. Within Asia, they favor merchant refiners such as S-Oil and Thai Oil due to free cash flow inflection and strong middle distillate exposure. They also highlight Buy-rated Reliance, noting that its flexible crude sourcing has mitigated throughput downside during recent disruptions.

China Consumer – Pulse Check: 1Q26/Post-holiday tour wrap-up (Link). Michelle Cheng

Our analysts observe broadly healthy domestic consumption in the first quarter of 2026 following a challenging second half of 2025. However, sequential moderation since March and a measured Labor Day holiday have lowered expectations for the second quarter. While pricing stabilization is encouraging, our analysts note that cost headwinds from the Middle East conflict remain a significant swing factor. They also highlight increased uncertainties for companies with overseas exposure due to demand slowdowns, margin pressures, or foreign exchange losses, though structural share gain opportunities remain intact. Consequently, our analysts have updated their sector preferences, turning incrementally positive on Dairy due to bottoming-out potential, adding it to their preferred list alongside restaurants, sportswear, condiments, and food and beverage value retailers. Conversely, they have removed prepared food from the preferred list and downgraded Pet Food to least preferred, reflecting intensifying domestic competition and volatile overseas operations. Top Buy-rated ideas include Haitian-H, Yum China, Guming, Mao Geping, Midea, Nongfu Spring, Anta, WH Group, Laopu Gold, Busy Ming, Wanchen, Mengniu, Li Ning, Anjoy Foods-H, Hisense, Nine Bot, Miniso, Yankershop, and Yihai. We add S-Oil to the APAC Conviction List.

As discussed in previous updates, there are many reasons a stock could be removed from the list. They can include (but are not limited to), analysts no longer having conviction in their idea (e.g. a downgrade), price realization, the passage of catalysts or the subcommittee believing there are better opportunities elsewhere. In short, names will be removed if the committee determines a name is no longer a top investment idea across the APAC coverage.

Importantly, inclusion on this list is not a stock rating and addition to or removal from this list does not necessarily represent a change in the analyst's investment rating for such stock.

Appendix II - Conviction List Explained

On December 4th 2023, we introduced a new investment list highlighting a selection of fundamental Buy-rated Asia-Pacific stocks across the Goldman Sachs Global Investment Research department. This new "APAC Conviction List - Directors' Cut" is designed to provide investors with a curated and active list of 20-30 stocks of what we believe to be differentiated fundamental Buy ideas across our Asia-Pacific stock coverage. We intend to refresh and publish this list monthly in an easily digestible format that focuses on 1) the analyst's core investment thesis, 2) key debates and where we are different, 3) upcoming catalysts, and 4) financials/valuation.

A subcommittee designated by the Asia-Pacific Investment Review Committee will select stocks for the "APAC Conviction List - Directors' Cut" from the Buy recommendations of Asia-Pacific stocks. The subcommittee will collaborate with each sector analyst to identify top ideas that offer a combination of conviction, a differentiated view and high risk-adjusted returns. The subcommittee will then choose what they view as the top 20-30 ideas across the department for the list.

We intend to refresh and publish the list monthly. Any new names added to the APAC Conviction List - Directors' Cut will include a concise description detailing the key drivers of the analyst's Buy thesis, with a focus on where these views are different and relevant market debates, as well as links to their recent reports. All additions to the list will be captured in this monthly note. Removals (discussed below) may occur intra-month should a material event occur that requires an adjustment to the list.

Reasons for removal can include (but are not limited to) analysts no longer having conviction in their idea (e.g. a downgrade), price realisation, the passage of catalysts or the subcommittee believing there are better opportunities elsewhere. In short, names will be removed if this committee determines a name is no longer a top investment idea across our coverage.

Additional information. This list should not be seen as a portfolio, as we will not attempt to weight the included stocks or ensure diversification across our stock coverage. Inclusion on this list is not a stock rating and addition to, or removal from, this list does not necessarily represent a change in the analyst's investment rating for such stock.

Appendix III - Price Target, Risks and Methodologies

Ticker	Company Name	PTMR
BABA	Alibaba Group	We are Buy rated on BABA/9988.HK, with SOTP-based 12-month target prices of US$186/HK$180 per ADS/share (FY27E-based). Key risks: (1) Lower-than-expected GMV growth due to macro/competition; (2) Slower-than-expected monetization in China retail; (3) Weaker-than-expected execution in key strategic investments; and (4) Cloud revenue growth deceleration.
ALQ.AX	ALS Ltd.	Our 12-month target price of A$28.30 is based on an equally-weighted blend of: (1) DCF valuation, which values ALQ at ~A$26.70/share; and (2) NTM EV/EBIT which values ALQ at ~A$29.30/share. We assume a WACC of 7.9% with a terminal growth rate of 2.5%. Key risks include the timing, pace, and duration of the commodities upcycle, commodities volume and pricing, and worse-than-expected demand dynamics in the Life Sciences.
278470.KS	APR Corp.	We are Buy-rated on APR with a target price of W460,000. We derive our APR target price based on a discounted P/E valuation using 2028E EPS and discounted back to 12-month fwd. We use 2028E EPS, by when we expect the company to have closed the gap in sales channel mix with the global Beauty market. On 2028E EPS, we apply a 25x target P/E which is mid-level between 20x current trading average for Korea MNCs and 30x for Global MNCs. We believe this reflects APR's substantially faster earnings growth outlook vs. Korea MNCs while also accounts for limited brand/product portfolio vs. Global MNCs. Our discount rate of 10% is based on WACC assuming 3.3% risk-free rate (GVSK 10-year yield) and 6.5% equity risk premium (GSe). Key downside risks include operational failure to achieve solid brand life cycle management or offline expansion, potential shift in management strategy toward capital allocation, higher-than-expected marketing budget pressure, higher competition within K-Beauty, and limited SKU expansion.
FPH.AX	Fisher & Paykel Healthcare Corp.	Our 12-month price target of A$42.30 is based on a 50%/50% blended 10-year DCF (8.4% WACC and 4.0% TGR) and EV/EBIT valuation methodology. Our DCF valuation is based on a 10-year forecast of FPH's current business and new opportunities which include the US NHFT home market. Our EV/EBIT multiple for FPH is based on the stock's history relative to the index (ASX200) and relative to its peers, normalizing for differences in growth. Over the last 10 years, FPH's premium to the ASX200 has ranged from 1.5x-4.5x. We adopt a premium which is towards the top end of this range driven by the expansion in the company's TAM from the opportunity in anaesthesiology. Our EV/EBIT multiple reflects a growth adjusted ratio which is comparable to other MedTech growth stocks. Key risks include: (1) Material slowdown in US hospitals purchasing, (2) Market share decline and (3) Failure of NHFT US home clinical trial.
1364.HK	Guming Holdings Ltd.	We are Buy rated on Guming with a 12-m TP of HK$36.0, based on 23X 2026E P/E. Our 12-month TP of HK$47.3 for the H-share is based on a 30.4x 2027E P/E with 2% H-A share valuation discount to A-share multiple referring the avg. last 3M discount of BYD/Midea. Key risks: Downside risks: 1) Slower-then-expected catering sales recovery; 2) Fiercer industry competition; 3) Raw material costs swings; 4) Food quality and adverse publicity. Upside risks: 1) Faster-than-expected successful business reform to drive sales growth; 2) Stronger-than-expected 2B growth; 3) Cost deflation benefits.
0012.HK	Henderson Land	We are Buy rated on Henderson Land. Our 12m target price of HK$41.0 is FY26E NAV-based (target NAV discount of -40%). Key downside risks include: 1) Less active policy support than we expect, which could significantly erode property buyer confidence and lead to lower-than-expected market recovery. 2) Federal Reserve rate cuts falling short of expectations, meaning the Fed maintains a tighter monetary policy for longer than anticipated, could directly impact buyer affordability by increasing borrowing costs and reducing the purchasing power of prospective homeowners. 3) Slower-than-expected farmland resumptions, which are often crucial for urban expansion and new development projects, could delay the supply of new land and infrastructure. Concurrently, insufficient Northern Metropolis policy support (e.g., for specific regional development initiatives) could hinder investment in those areas, leading to weaker demand for property and slower project execution. 4) Worse-than-expected Hong Kong IP portfolio performance driven by factors such as a worse-than-expected retail recovery and office oversupply, reduced business activity, or shifts in investor sentiment towards the region.

JARD.SI	Jardine Matheson	We are Buy rated on Jardine Matheson with a 12-month target price of US$95.5. Our TP is NAV-based with a -25% holdco discount applied. Key risks: (1) Weaker-than-expected passenger vehicle demand and intensifying competition in Indonesia and potential increase in fuel prices as well as fluctuation in FX and commodity prices leading to higher earnings uncertainty for Astra; (2) Greater-than-expected competition from new quality office supply, thus longer-than-expected office rental market downcycle in HK and further weakening residential market in mainland China could weigh on HKLand earnings; (3) Slower-than-expected business improvement at Dairy Farm even with the disposal of loss-making Yonghui Supermarket; (4) Slower-than-expected recovery of HK retail sales and HK inbound tourists as well as soft consumption sentiment in mainland China to impact on retail rents of HKLand and hotel business of Mandarin Oriental.
6920.T	Lasertec	Our 12-month target price of ¥55,000 is based on the global SPE sector average EV/EBITDA of 18X and our FY6/27-6/28 estimates (implies FY6/27E P/E of 51X and P/B of 15X). We then apply a sector-relative premium of 50%. Key risks: Decline in market share due to new entrants, lack of progress in ACTIS adoption by wafer fabs, weaker customer investment appetite for leading-edge process nodes, rapid appreciation of the yen against the US dollar.
8046.TW	NYPCB	Our 12-month target price of NT$1115 for NYPCB is based on 19.0x 2027 P/E, which is +1.2x STDV higher than the past upcycle average P/E (13.3x). Key downside risks: (1) Slower-than-expected PC demand recovery, (2) Slower-than-expected ABF substrates pricing upgrading outlook, and (3) Slower-than-expected NYPCB new high-end capacity qualification progress.

Haitian A-share is rated Neutral.

GS Factor Profile

The Goldman Sachs Factor Profile provides investment context for a stock by comparing key attributes to the market (i.e. our universe of rated stocks) and its sector peers. The four key attributes depicted are: Growth, Financial Returns, Multiple (e.g. valuation) and Integrated (a composite of Growth, Financial Returns and Multiple). Growth, Financial Returns and Multiple are calculated by using normalized ranks for specific metrics for each stock. The normalized ranks for the metrics are then averaged and converted into percentiles for the relevant attribute. The precise calculation of each metric may vary depending on the fiscal year, industry and region, but the standard approach is as follows:

Growth is based on a stock's forward-looking sales growth, EBITDA growth and EPS growth (for financial stocks, only EPS and sales growth), with a higher percentile indicating a higher growth company. Financial Returns is based on a stock's forward-looking ROE, ROCE and CROCI (for financial stocks, only ROE), with a higher percentile indicating a company with higher financial returns. Multiple is based on a stock's forward-looking P/E, P/B, price/dividend (P/D), EV/EBITDA, EV/FCF and EV/Debt Adjusted Cash Flow (DACF) (for financial stocks, only P/E, P/B and P/D), with a higher percentile indicating a stock trading at a higher multiple. The Integrated percentile is calculated as the average of the Growth percentile, Financial Returns percentile and (100% - Multiple percentile).

Financial Returns and Multiple use the Goldman Sachs analyst forecasts at the fiscal year-end at least three quarters in the future. Growth uses inputs for the fiscal year at least seven quarters in the future compared with the year at least three quarters in the future (on a per-share basis for all metrics).

For a more detailed description of how we calculate the GS Factor Profile, please contact your GS representative.

M&A Rank

Across our global coverage, we examine stocks using an M&A framework, considering both qualitative factors and quantitative factors (which may vary across sectors and regions) to incorporate the potential that certain companies could be acquired. We then assign a M&A rank as a means of scoring companies under our rated coverage from 1 to 3, with 1 representing high (30%-50%) probability of the company becoming an acquisition target, 2 representing medium (15%-30%) probability and 3 representing low (0%-15%) probability. For companies ranked 1 or 2, in line with our standard departmental guidelines we incorporate an M&A component into our target price. M&A rank of 3 is considered immaterial and therefore does not factor into our price target, and may or may not be discussed in research.

Ratings, coverage universe and related definitions

Buy (B), Neutral (N), Sell (S) Analysts recommend stocks as Buys or Sells for inclusion on various regional Investment Lists. Being assigned a Buy or Sell on an Investment List is determined by a stock's total return potential relative to its coverage universe. Any stock not assigned as a Buy or a Sell on an Investment List with an active rating (i.e., a stock that is not Rating Suspended, Not Rated, Early-Stage Biotech, Coverage Suspended or Not Covered), is deemed Neutral. Each region manages Regional Conviction Lists, which are selected from Buy rated stocks on the respective region's Investment Lists and represent investment recommendations focused on the size of the total return potential and/or the likelihood of the realization of the return across their respective areas of coverage. The addition or removal of stocks from such Conviction Lists are managed by the Investment Review Committee or other designated committee in each respective region and do not represent a change in the analysts' investment rating for such stocks.

Total return potential represents the upside or downside differential between the current share price and the price target, including all paid or anticipated dividends, expected during the time horizon associated with the price target. Price targets are required for all covered stocks. The total return potential, price target and associated time horizon are stated in each report adding or reiterating an Investment List membership.

Coverage Universe: A list of all stocks in each coverage universe is available by primary analyst, stock and coverage universe at https://www.gs.com/research/hedge.html.

Not Rated (NR). The investment rating, target price and earnings estimates (where relevant) are removed pursuant to Goldman Sachs policy when Goldman Sachs is acting in an advisory capacity in a merger or in a strategic transaction involving this company, when there are legal, regulatory or policy constraints due to Goldman Sachs' involvement in a transaction, and in certain other circumstances. Early-Stage Biotech (ES). An investment rating and a target price are not assigned pursuant to Goldman Sachs policy when this company has neither a drug, treatment or medical device that has passed a Phase II clinical trial nor a license to distribute a post-Phase II drug, treatment or medical device. Rating Suspended (RS). Goldman Sachs Research has suspended the investment rating and price target for this stock, because there is not a sufficient fundamental basis for determining an investment rating or target price. The previous investment rating and target price, if any, are no longer in effect for this stock and should not be relied upon. Coverage Suspended (CS). Goldman Sachs has suspended coverage of this company. Not Covered (NC). Goldman Sachs does not cover this company.
