China Banks

Diverging views on JSBs post China Summit and Financial Tour

We met with four joint-stock banks during our recent Financial Tour and the J.P. Morgan Global China Summit. The meetings confirmed the prevailing industry trends on weak loan demand (particularly in retail), a recovering NIM trajectory, stable fee income growth, and a continuing drag from retail asset quality. At the individual bank level, however, our views are mixed. We turn more positive on SPDB (OW): the bank guided for high-single-digit profit growth in FY26, implying a meaningful acceleration from the modest +1% y/y recorded in 1Q26. Takeaways from PAB and Citic meetings are more neutral, as Citic guidance remains largely unchanged from earlier in the year. PAB reiterated its profit turnaround, but highlighted headwinds on investment income growth on base effects. Takeaways from our meeting with Minsheng are more negative, as management indicated they are still in the early stages of recognizing retail asset quality deterioration and expect subdued profit growth given persistently high retail NPL formation and low NPL coverage.

Loan demand and growth

- Weak loan demand, particularly on retail segment: April loan contraction in the system is partly due to seasonality. One bank commented that the PBOC hosted meetings with banks in April but did not give hard quota or loan growth targets; instead, the focus was on smoothing the pace of loan growth. In general, retail demand has been weak. For mortgages, banks we spoke with believe the use of provident fund is not the reason for weak mortgages, despite recovery in transaction volume; rather, there could be a rise in downpayment (cash payment).
- At an individual bank level, Citic is more confident on achieving its loan growth target for the full year, mainly supported by corporate loans. New corporate loans reached ~RMB230bn in 1Q26 (some pipeline was pulled forward from 4Q25), with strength concentrated in the Greater Bay Area and Yangtze River regions. SPDB said the new loan amount is targeted to be ~RMB300bn in 2026, vs ~RMB320bn in 2025, implying slowing loan growth (from 5.8% in 2025 to 5.3% in 2026). SPDB wants to be more balanced between corporate and retail but actual results depend on demand. Minsheng saw corporate loan demand exceed expectations in 1Q26, but April saw some retreat in loan growth and May remains weak. Retail loans have been contracting across all lines since mid-2025, including mortgages in 2026. PAB achieved positive retail loan growth in 1Q26 (one of the few in the industry), but overall loan growth is under pressure, with a full-year expectation of only low-single-digit growth, while the structure is “corporate-led, retail-supplementary”.

NIM

- Banks are in general more optimistic on NIM trends: Citic guided for NIM to be largely flattish q/q for the remainder of 2026. On a full-year basis, NIM contraction is likely to be 3-5bps in 2026 (vs -13bps in 2025). SPDB saw NIM improve +2bps q/q to 1.44% in 1Q26 (from 1.42% in 4Q25) and aims to maintain stable or mildly improving NIM y/y in FY26. Minsheng expects NIM to rebound y/y in 2026, even under the scenario of one symmetrical rate cut. PAB expects a low-single-digit bps contraction in NIM in 2026. The bank is focused on structural optimization (more loans, less bills).

Non-NII

- Most remain optimistic on fees: Citic is confident fee growth will be better this year, driven by wealth business (WMP distribution, custody). SPDB targets positive fee income growth in FY26. The growth will likely be driven by wealth (wealth management +12-14% y/y in 2025), while the competition is still intense. DCM drag is easing on base effects, but bank card fees remain a headwind. Minsheng expects fee income to be “stable and improving”, driven by wealth, settlement, and custodian fees. PAB saw strong 1Q fee growth driven by bancassurance, and is optimistic on wealth management recovery as it rebuilds its retail team and product shelf. But PAB also commented on lower investment income due to a high base in 2Q25 and 3Q25 (when the bond market was strong), which will pressure revenue growth in the middle quarters.

Asset quality and provisions

- Retail asset quality remains a drag, while NPL formation trends diverge: Banks in general commented that retail asset quality remains a drag, attributing this to the weak macro conditions. At an individual bank level, comments on NPL formation trends varied, with PAB and SPDB guiding NPL formation trending down, Citic bank guiding flattish credit costs, while Minsheng commented it is still in the early stages of recognizing retail asset quality deterioration.
- Citic: Mortgage NPL formation is declining; however, personal business loans, credit cards, and consumption loans continue to see pressure. CRE NPL formation ratio is declining. Credit cost is expected to be similar to prior years, with pressure concentrated in retail.
- PAB: The NPL ratio is stable, with NPL formation rate significantly improved, leading to lower write-off pressure and declining credit costs. The full-year NPL coverage ratio is expected to decline ~20ppts (after -30ppts in 2025, with 200% as the floor). Credit card remains the primary risk concern. It is targeting a virtuous cycle of “lower NPL formation → less write-off → lower provisioning → profit accretion”. Internet loans (~RMB100bn, 4-5% of total) have manageable risk.
- SPDB: Overall NPL formation will decline y/y, likely leading to lower impairment charges. The coverage ratio, >200% in 1Q26, will be stable or mildly increase. Credit costs are on an improving trend. Off-BS WMP fully brought on-BS and over-provisioned by end-2025; confident that asset quality clearing has concluded. AQ is at the best level of the past 10 years. Retail NPLs are concentrated in mortgages and credit cards; credit card NPL formation dropped notably and is stabilizing; mortgage NPL formation has peaked but is still at a high level.
- Minsheng: Has no confidence to call an inflection point in retail AQ. Credit card is the key concern (NPL formation still high with no clear improvement).

Personal business loan NPL formation rebounded in 1Q26 but is not above the 2025 peaks. Mortgage AQ is showing some improvement. Impairment charges are expected to be slightly higher than in 2025 (mainly due to retail). NPL coverage is only ~140%, and management prioritizes rebuilding coverage to 150%. Corporate NPLs (including CRE) are being managed through scheduled write-offs; no further large-scale problematic loan recognition expected in CRE (RMB20bn in 2024 vs RMB15bn in 2025).

Revenue and profits

- Diverging guidance on profits growth: On the positive side, SPDB guided for high-single-digit profit growth in FY26, implying a meaningful acceleration from the modest +1% y/y recorded in 1Q26. PAB and Citic are largely in line with expectations, as their guidance remains mostly unchanged from earlier in the year. On the negative side, Minsheng expects subdued profit growth given persistently high retail NPL formation and low NPL coverage.
- SPDB: Expects low-single-digit growth for revenue, high-single-digit growth for profits. 1Q26 profit growth was only 1% due to the high base in 1Q25 (which contributed 35% of FY25 profits); it has been deliberately reducing the 1Q profit contribution to full year. It targets ROE of 7% in 2026 (up from 6.7% in 2025). CIR to decline to ~26% in 2026 from 28.5% in 2025.
- Minsheng: Impairment is a drag on profits growth. Management disclosed that Minsheng will focus on building the provision and expects there to be no ROE rebound before provision coverage reaches 150%.
- PAB: The full-year revenue target is “relatively stable”, with low-single-digit percentage profit growth. 2Q-3Q revenue growth will face pressure as the investment income base normalizes. CET1 at 9.5%, ROE ~9%, no external capital needs; payout ratio at 27% with no plan to exceed 30% near-term.
- Citic: Management has set a 5/3/3 growth target earlier this year (i.e. assets, revenues and profits to achieve 5%/3%/3% growth, respectively, in 2026). Management said they will keep this target unchanged in 1H and may review it in 2H.

J.P. Morgan ratings or designations: OW = Overweight, N= Neutral, UW = Underweight, NR = Not Rated

Explanation of Equity Research Ratings, Designations and Analyst(s) Coverage Universe:

J.P. Morgan uses the following rating system: Overweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will outperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); Neutral (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will perform in line with the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); and Underweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe. NR is Not Rated. In this case, J.P. Morgan has removed the rating and, if applicable, the price target, for this stock because of either a lack of a sufficient fundamental basis or for legal, regulatory or policy reasons. The previous rating and, if applicable, the price target, no longer should be relied upon. An NR designation is not a recommendation or a rating. Some stocks under coverage have a rating but no price target; in these cases, we expect the stock will outperform/perform in line/underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe of the relevant duration of the region. In our Asia (ex-Australia and ex-India) and U.K. small- and mid-cap Equity Research, each stock's expected total return is compared to the expected total return of a benchmark country market index, not to those Research Analysts' coverage universe. If it does not appear in the Important Disclosures section of this report, the certifying Research Analyst's coverage universe can be found on J.P.
