US Consumer Pulse Survey: Summer Spending Kickoff - World Cup Buzz Meets Healthy Travel Demand

AlphaWise

While elevated gasoline prices continue to pressure consumer sentiment and bifurcation among cohorts persists, our Economics team has turned more neutral on the US consumer and expects positive consumer activity overall this year. Our survey work reveals a positive set up into summer as consumers plan to spend on the World Cup and travel.

- Inflation Concerns Continue to Rise. Concern about inflation trended up to 59% this wave from the low of 53% in January and 57% last month. The U.S. political environment continues to rank as the second most cited concern, mentioned by 39% of consumers vs. 42% last wave. Concern about geopolitical conflicts further declined to 24% from 29% last month and 33% two months ago. Consumers also remain concerned about the ability to repay debts (23%) and pay for rent/mortgage (22%); both metrics in-line with the last wave of the survey.
- World Cup Engagement Presents Spending Opportunity. With the 2026 FIFA World Cup coming to the U.S., 44% of consumers plan to engage with matches or related events, primarily through TV/streaming (30%) and social media (23%). Engagement skews higher among males, younger consumers, and upper-income households. Notably, 70% of engaged consumers expect to increase spending across at least some categories, including food and non-alcoholic beverages (32%), food takeout/delivery (28%), and streaming services (28%).
- Most Consumers Plan to Travel this Summer. Overall, 62% of consumers plan to travel this summer, modestly above last year's levels (60%), led by road trips (42%), domestic air travel (20%), and camping (16%). Travel demand continues to skew toward upper-income households. Spending expectations also remain healthy, with 45% of travelers planning to spend more this summer versus 13% planning to spend less, resulting in a net spending outlook of +32% (in-line with the prior two years).

This report provides a full breakdown of data from our 76th survey of ~2,000 consumers in the U.S., which ran May 21st to May 25th, to gauge consumer behavior, attitudes and outlook.

Survey Highlights

Sentiment

• Inflation Concerns On the Rise. Concern about inflation trended up to 59% this wave from the low of 53% in January and 57% last month. The U.S. political environment continues to rank as the second most cited concern, mentioned by 39% of consumers vs. 42% last wave. Concern about geopolitical conflicts further declined to 24% from 29% last month and 33% two months ago. Consumers also remain concerned about the ability to repay debts (23%) and pay for rent/mortgage (22%); both metrics in-line with the last wave of the survey.

Macro Outlook

• Consumer Confidence in the U.S. Economy & Household Finances Improves Marginally. Consumer confidence in the U.S. economic outlook ticked up relative to the last month; 33% of consumers expect the economy to get better in the next six months, while 47% expect the economy to get worse and 20% believe it will remain the same. This results in a net outlook score (percentage expecting the economy to improve minus those expecting it to worsen) of -14% vs. -18% last month and -6% in May 2025. Similar upward trend is posted for household finances, with the NET score up to +19% from +12% last month and vs. +14% same time last year.

Spending Intentions

• Resilient Spending Outlook. Consumers' short-term spending outlook points to an increase in spending driven by upper and mid-income cohorts. In this wave, 36% of consumers expect to spend more next month, while 13% expect to spend less, resulting in a net spending outlook of +23% (vs. +17% last month and +16% at the same time last year). Longer-term spending sentiment also remains constructive, holding broadly stable month over month across the categories tested.

World Cup

• World Cup Engagement Presents Spending Opportunity. With the 2026 FIFA World Cup coming to the U.S., 44% of consumers plan to engage with matches or related events, primarily through TV/streaming (30%) and social media (23%). Engagement skews higher among males, younger consumers, and upper-income households. Notably, 70% of engaged consumers expect to increase spending across at least some categories, including food and non-alcoholic beverages (32%), food takeout/delivery (28%), and streaming services (28%).

Summer Travel

• Consumers Prioritize Summer Travel. Overall, 62% of consumers plan to travel this summer, modestly above last year's levels (60%), led by road trips (42%), domestic air travel (20%), and camping (16%). Travel demand continues to skew toward upper-income households. Spending expectations also remain healthy, with 45% of travelers planning to spend more this summer versus 13% planning to spend less, resulting in a net spending outlook of +32% (in-line with the prior two years).

Sentiment: Top Concerns by Income

Inflation is now the top concern across all income segments.

Lower-income consumers are more focused on their ability to cover rent or mortgage payments and manage debt, while higher-income consumers over-index on concerns related to their investments. Concerns about the U.S. political environment and geopolitical conflicts are also more prevalent among upper-income consumers.

Bill / Loan Payments

Overall, 31% of consumers reported a missed or late payment on any bill/loan tested in the past three months (trending slightly lower MoM and on par with last year). Low-income (38%) and mid-income (30%) consumers are more likely to have missed or made late payments vs. high-income (21%) consumers.

A clear priority for consumers continues to be their cell phone bill. Among the ~90% of consumers who have the payment obligation, only 13% reported a missed or late payment. Another priority for consumers is their mortgage: ~40% have a mortgage and, among those, 90% are on time with payments. Household utility, car and internet bills are also important and tend to be mostly paid on-time.

Student (25%), BNPL (23%) and personal loans (26%) are more likely to be missed/paid late, but fewer consumers have these types of loans.

Global Research Conflict Management Policy

Morgan Stanley Research has been published in accordance with our conflict management policy, which is available at www.morganstanley.com/institutional/research/conflictolicies. A Portuguese version of the policy can be found at www.morganstanley.com.br

Important Regulatory Disclosures on Subject Companies

The equity research analysts or strategists principally responsible for the preparation of Morgan Stanley Research have received compensation based upon various factors, including quality of research, investor client feedback, stock picking, competitive factors, firm revenues and overall investment banking revenues. Equity Research analysts' or strategists' compensation is not linked to investment banking or capital markets transactions performed by Morgan Stanley or the profitability or revenues of particular trading desks.

Morgan Stanley and its affiliates do business that relates to companies/instruments covered in Morgan Stanley Research, including market making, providing liquidity, fund management, commercial banking, extension of credit, investment services and investment banking. Morgan Stanley sells to and buys from customers the securities/instruments of companies covered in Morgan Stanley Research on a principal basis. Morgan Stanley may have a position in the debt of the Company or instruments discussed in this report. Morgan Stanley trades or may trade as principal in the debt securities (or in related derivatives) that are the subject of the debt research report.

Certain disclosures listed above are also for compliance with applicable regulations in non-US jurisdictions.

STOCK RATINGS

Morgan Stanley uses a relative rating system using terms such as Overweight, Equal-weight, Not-Rated or Underweight (see definitions below). Morgan Stanley does not assign ratings of Buy, Hold or Sell to the stocks we cover. Overweight, Equal-weight, Not-Rated and Underweight are not the equivalent of buy, hold and sell. Investors should carefully read the definitions of all ratings used in Morgan Stanley Research. In addition, since Morgan Stanley Research contains more complete information concerning the analyst's views, investors should carefully read Morgan Stanley Research, in its entirety, and not infer the contents from the rating alone. In any case, ratings (or research) should not be used or relied upon as investment advice. An investor's decision to buy or sell a stock should depend on individual circumstances (such as the investor's existing holdings) and other considerations.

Global Stock Ratings Distribution

(as of April 30, 2026)

The Stock Ratings described below apply to Morgan Stanley's Fundamental Equity Research and do not apply to Debt Research produced by the Firm.

For disclosure purposes only (in accordance with FINRA requirements), we include the category headings of Buy, Hold, and Sell alongside our ratings of Overweight, Equal-weight, Not-Rated and Underweight. Morgan Stanley does not assign ratings of Buy, Hold or Sell to the stocks we cover. Overweight, Equal-weight, Not-Rated and Underweight are not the equivalent of buy, hold, and sell but represent recommended relative weightings (see definitions below). To satisfy regulatory requirements, we correspond Overweight, our most positive stock rating, with a buy recommendation; we correspond Equal-weight and Not-Rated to hold and Underweight to sell recommendations, respectively.

Stock Rating Category	Coverage Universe		Investment Banking Clients (IBC)			Other Material Investment Services Clients (MISC)
	Count	% of Total	Count	% of Total IBC	% of Rating Category	Count	% of Total Other MISC
Overweight/Buy	1546	42%	467	51%	30%	709	44%
Equal-weight/Hold	1568	43%	358	39%	23%	715	44%
Not-Rated/Hold	4	0%	0	0%	0%	1	0%
Underweight/Sell	555	15%	84	9%	15%	202	12%
Total	3,673		909			1627

Data include common stock and ADRs currently assigned ratings. Investment Banking Clients are companies from whom Morgan Stanley received investment banking compensation in the last 12 months. Due to rounding off of decimals, the percentages provided in the "% of total" column may not add up to exactly 100 percent.

Analyst Stock Ratings

Overweight (O). The stock's total return is expected to exceed the average total return of the analyst's industry (or industry team's) coverage universe, on a risk-adjusted basis, over the next 12-18 months.

Equal-weight (E). The stock's total return is expected to be in line with the average total return of the analyst's industry (or industry team's) coverage universe, on a risk-adjusted basis, over the next 12-18 months.

Not-Rated (NR). Currently the analyst does not have adequate conviction about the stock's total return relative to the average total return of the analyst's industry (or industry team's) coverage universe, on a risk-adjusted basis, over the next 12-18 months.

Underweight (U). The stock's total return is expected to be below the average total return of the analyst's industry (or industry team's) coverage universe, on a risk-adjusted basis, over the next 12-18 months.

Unless otherwise specified, the time frame for price targets included in Morgan Stanley Research is 12 to 18 months.

Morgan Stanley Research does not provide individually tailored investment advice. Morgan Stanley Research has been prepared without regard to the circumstances and objectives of those who receive it. Morgan Stanley recommends that investors independently evaluate particular investments and strategies, and encourages investors to seek the advice of a financial adviser. The appropriateness of an investment or strategy will depend on an investor's circumstances and objectives. The securities, instruments, or strategies discussed in Morgan Stanley Research may not be suitable for all investors, and certain investors may not be eligible to purchase or participate in some or all of them. Morgan Stanley Research is not an offer to buy or sell or the solicitation of an offer to buy or sell any security/instrument or to participate in any particular trading strategy. The value of and income from your investments may vary because of changes in interest rates, foreign exchange rates, default rates, prepayment rates, securities/instruments prices, market indexes, operational or financial conditions of companies or other factors. There may be time limitations on the exercise of options or other rights in securities/instruments transactions. Past performance is not necessarily a guide to future performance. Estimates of future performance are based on assumptions that may not be realized. If provided, and unless otherwise stated, the closing price on the cover page is that of the primary exchange for the subject company's securities/instruments.

The fixed income research analysts, strategists or economists principally responsible for the preparation of Morgan Stanley Research have received compensation based upon various factors, including quality, accuracy and value of research, firm profitability or revenues (which include fixed income trading and capital markets profitability or revenues), client feedback and competitive factors. Fixed Income Research analysts', strategists' or economists' compensation is not linked to investment banking or capital markets transactions performed by Morgan Stanley or the profitability or revenues of particular trading desks.

The "Important Regulatory Disclosures on Subject Companies" section in Morgan Stanley Research lists all companies mentioned where Morgan Stanley owns 1% or more of a class of common equity securities of the companies. For all other companies mentioned in Morgan Stanley Research, Morgan Stanley may have an investment of less than 1% in securities/instruments or derivatives of securities/instruments of companies and may trade them in ways different from those discussed in Morgan Stanley Research. Employees of Morgan Stanley not involved in the preparation of Morgan Stanley Research may have investments in securities/instruments or derivatives of securities/instruments of companies mentioned and may trade them in ways different from those discussed in Morgan Stanley Research. Derivatives may be issued by Morgan Stanley or associated persons.
