Key takeaways and implications

Mobileye reported 2Q results above the Street excluding a new Israeli government R&D incentive (which was a $93 mn tailwind in the quarter), and the company raised its 2026 guidance for both revenue and adjusted EBIT (though EBIT guidance ex the R&D incentive is now slightly lower at the midpoint). The R&D benefit has no scheduled expiration date. Specifically, 2Q revenue/EBIT/non-GAAP EPS of $508 mn/$155 mn/$0.19 was above FactSet consensus at $481 mn/$43 mn/$0.06 and GS at $481 mn/$43 mn/$0.05. Implied 2H revenue and core EBIT guidance (ex. the R&D incentive) of $929 mn/$48 mn are below the Street at $946 mn/$77 mn.

The company also announced that its CEO and Founder, Professor Amnon Shashua informed the board of his intention to step down at CEO upon the appointment of a successor.

We maintain our Neutral rating on the stock. Positively, Mobileye's awards suggest its eyes-on ADAS business will improve, with the cloud-enhanced ADAS award with Stellantis following recent awards for Surround ADAS at VW and GM, and we expect this to support improved ASPs especially from 2028 onward. In addition, Mobileye has opportunities in eyes-off consumer vehicles, AVs, and humanoid robotics that could be material over the medium to longer-term. However, we believe there is increased execution risk for Mobileye as it now plans to enter the robotaxi business directly (which will put it into competition with VW, although Mobileye also suggested VW could benefit from the added resources for the effort). In addition, award activity for Mobileye's advanced ADAS products (e.g. SuperVision, Chauffeur) continues to be limited. We believe the company's ability to execute on its opportunities in AVs and humanoids, and award activity in autonomy/ADAS, will be key for how the stock trades.

Results

Mobileye reported 2Q26 revenue of $508 mn (down 9% qoq and about flat yoy), which was above both GS and the Street (FactSet) at $481 mn. The company commented that revenue reflected an increase in volume of systems shipped, offset by a lower EyeQ ASP due to higher than expected China OEM export volumes.

Adjusted gross margin in the quarter decreased by ~300 bps yoy to ~65.6%, compared to GS at 66.1%. The company commented that the yoy decrease was primarily due a reduction in the EyeQ ASP due to higher China OEM volumes and a higher portion of SuperVision related revenue.

Adjusted operating margin in the quarter was up yoy from 20.9% to ~30.5%, compared to GS and the Street at 8.9%. The company commented that the yoy increase was primarily due to a new R&D incentive passed into law recently in Israel, and the company recognized the entire 1H26 amount in 2Q which totaled ~$93 mn (with the amount attributable to Q1 and Q2 roughly equivalent). We estimate that the operating margin excluding the R&D offset would have been 12.2%. Per the company, the R&D law benefit has no scheduled expiration date.

Non-GAAP EPS (ex. SBC) was $0.19, compared to GS at $0.05 and the Street at $0.06. Excluding the R&D expense incentive, we estimate non-GAAP EPS would have been ~$0.08-$0.09.

Including SBC, EPS was $0.08 vs. GS at -$0.07.

The company ended 2Q26 with $1.4 bn in cash and cash equivalents and repurchased $24 mn in shares in the quarter.

Business updates

In a separate press release, Mobileye announced that its CEO and Founder Professor Amnon Shashua informed the board of his intention to step down as CEO upon the appointment of a successor. Prof. Shashua will remain a director of the company, and the Board has offered Prof. Shashua the role of Chairman once a new CEO has been appointed.

For robotaxis, Mobileye highlighted its recent plan to launch its vertically integrated robotaxi fleet in 2027 starting with 100 vehicles in a major US metro and then expand to ~17,000 vehicles over the following five years. Recall in June the company announced its intention to utilize its AV technology (Mobileye Drive) to enter the robotaxi business more directly. Also, recall Mobileye would leverage its Moovit subsidiary for aspects such as its consumer facing application, fleet management, and teleoperation support.

The company also commented that its preparations for commercial robotaxi services with VW and MOIA continued on-track throughout the quarter with MOIA recently beginning public user testing in Hamburg, Germany with safety drivers in vehicles equipped with Mobileye's self-driving-system. Per management, VW remains on track for its 2H26 launch in Orlando, though Los Angeles is now expected to start in 2027 (from by the end of 2026 prior).

Mobileye also discussed its recent win with Stellantis to integrate Mobileye's REM production, which is its crowdsourced mapping technology that creates HD digital maps, with the first planned application expected in select US models next and additional integration to follow.

On Mentee, the company believes it is on track for a 2028 commercial launch of its v4 robot (expecting ~500 units), with v3 expected later this year and v4 production intent units in 1Q27.

Guidance

Mobileye increased its FY26 revenue guidance to $1,970-$2020 mn (up 4% to up 7% yoy) from $1,935-$2,015 mn (up 2% to up 6% yoy) prior, which is slightly above both GS prior at $1,985 mn and the Street at $1,984 mn at the midpoint. 3Q revenue is expected be down 5-6% yoy.

SuperVision shipments in 2Q were 20k, above company expectations, but Mobileye maintained its just under 60k outlook for the full year, citing potential inventory build in the quarter. The company now expects 2026 EyeQ shipments to be around 39 mn (up from 38 mn prior) reflecting the 2Q upside (with the company guiding 3Q EyeQ shipments to 9.3-9.5 mn, which implies 8.6-8.8 mn in 4Q).

Mobileye also increased its FY26 adjusted operating income guidance to $365-$425 mn from $185-$235 mn prior, which is above GS prior at $212 mn and above the Street at $215 mn. The implied operating margin at the midpoint is 19.8% vs 10.6% prior which compares to GS at 10.7% and the Street at 10.8%.

The new guide includes $180-200 mn of a full year R&D incentive, and the new EBIT guidance at the midpoint excluding this would have been at $205 mn at the midpoint vs. the Street at $215 mn (and compared to the prior midpoint of $210 mn).

On the R&D incentive, management noted that the cash inflow from the refund would be on a lag, with the company expecting cash for its 2026 incentives to start in 2028.

Updated estimates, valuation, and price target

We increase our EPS estimates including SBC to $0.05/$0.05/$0.10 from -$0.20/-0.20/-0.10 prior, reflecting lower R&D tied to the government incentive. Our EPS estimates excluding SBC are now $0.48/$0.50/$0.55.

We remain Neutral rated on MBLY shares. Our 12-month price target is still $9, which is based on 12X (from 18X prior, reflecting the degree of EBIT/earnings coming from government R&D incentives, and higher capex for the direct AV effort) applied to our updated Q5-Q8 EBITDA estimate (ex. SBC).

Key risks relate to: 1) the success it has (positively or negatively) with new design wins and if the company is able to secure more or fewer wins than we anticipate this could lead to more/less upside than our current expectations; 2) the rate of ADAS/AV penetration in the market with more penetration potentially driving more upside and less penetration potentially driving more downside, 3) more or less growth in auto production relative to our expectations could lead to more or less chip shipments from Mobileye than we expect, 4) Financials - lower or higher ASPs/margins, and 5) corporate actions, including potential stock sell down by its controlling shareholder.

GS Factor Profile

The Goldman Sachs Factor Profile provides investment context for a stock by comparing key attributes to the market (i.e. our universe of rated stocks) and its sector peers. The four key attributes depicted are: Growth, Financial Returns, Multiple (e.g. valuation) and Integrated (a composite of Growth, Financial Returns and Multiple). Growth, Financial Returns and Multiple are calculated by using normalized ranks for specific metrics for each stock. The normalized ranks for the metrics are then averaged and converted into percentiles for the relevant attribute. The precise calculation of each metric may vary depending on the fiscal year, industry and region, but the standard approach is as follows:

Growth is based on a stock's forward-looking sales growth, EBITDA growth and EPS growth (for financial stocks, only EPS and sales growth), with a higher percentile indicating a higher growth company. Financial Returns is based on a stock's forward-looking ROE, ROCE and CROCI (for financial stocks, only ROE), with a higher percentile indicating a company with higher financial returns. Multiple is based on a stock's forward-looking P/E, P/B, price/dividend (P/D), EV/EBITDA, EV/FCF and EV/Debt Adjusted Cash Flow (DACF) (for financial stocks, only P/E, P/B and P/D), with a higher percentile indicating a stock trading at a higher multiple. The Integrated percentile is calculated as the average of the Growth percentile, Financial Returns percentile and (100% - Multiple percentile).

Financial Returns and Multiple use the Goldman Sachs analyst forecasts at the fiscal year-end at least three quarters in the future. Growth uses inputs for the fiscal year at least seven quarters in the future compared with the year at least three quarters in the future (on a per-share basis for all metrics).

For a more detailed description of how we calculate the GS Factor Profile, please contact your GS representative.

M&A Rank

Across our global coverage, we examine stocks using an M&A framework, considering both qualitative factors and quantitative factors (which may vary across sectors and regions) to incorporate the potential that certain companies could be acquired. We then assign a M&A rank as a means of scoring companies under our rated coverage from 1 to 3, with 1 representing high (30%-50%) probability of the company becoming an acquisition target, 2 representing medium (15%-30%) probability and 3 representing low (0%-15%) probability. For companies ranked 1 or 2, in line with our standard departmental guidelines we incorporate an M&A component into our target price. M&A rank of 3 is considered immaterial and therefore does not factor into our price target, and may or may not be discussed in research.

Ratings, coverage universe and related definitions

Buy (B), Neutral (N), Sell (S) Analysts recommend stocks as Buys or Sells for inclusion on various regional Investment Lists. Being assigned a Buy or Sell on an Investment List is determined by a stock’s total return potential relative to its coverage universe. Any stock not assigned as a Buy or a Sell on an Investment List with an active rating (i.e., a stock that is not Rating Suspended, Not Rated, Early-Stage Biotech, Coverage Suspended or Not Covered), is deemed Neutral. Each region manages Regional Conviction Lists, which are selected from Buy rated stocks on the respective region’s Investment Lists and represent investment recommendations focused on the size of the total return potential and/or the likelihood of the realization of the return across their respective areas of coverage. The addition or removal of stocks from such Conviction Lists are managed by the Investment Review Committee or other designated committee in each respective region and do not represent a change in the analysts’ investment rating for such stocks.

Total return potential represents the upside or downside differential between the current share price and the price target, including all paid or anticipated dividends, expected during the time horizon associated with the price target. Price targets are required for all covered stocks. The total return potential, price target and associated time horizon are stated in each report adding or reiterating an Investment List membership.

Coverage Universe: A list of all stocks in each coverage universe is available by primary analyst, stock and coverage universe at <https://www.gs.com/research/hedge.html>.

Not Rated (NR). The investment rating, target price and earnings estimates (where relevant) are removed pursuant to Goldman Sachs policy when Goldman Sachs is acting in an advisory capacity in a merger or in a strategic transaction involving this company, when there are legal, regulatory or policy constraints due to Goldman Sachs’ involvement in a transaction, and in certain other circumstances. Early-Stage Biotech (ES). An investment rating and a target price are not assigned pursuant to Goldman Sachs policy when this company has neither a drug, treatment or medical device that has passed a Phase II clinical trial nor a license to distribute a post-Phase II drug, treatment or medical device. Rating Suspended (RS). Goldman Sachs

Research has suspended the investment rating and price target for this stock, because there is not a sufficient fundamental basis for determining an investment rating or target price. The previous investment rating and target price, if any, are no longer in effect for this stock and should not be relied upon. Coverage Suspended (CS). Goldman Sachs has suspended coverage of this company. Not Covered (NC). Goldman Sachs does not cover this company.
