Global Gold

Marking-to-market gold exposure, steady FCF offsets near-term headwinds

CITI'S TAKE

Consolidation in gold prices from the peak in Jan'26 has led upto 25% correction for gold stocks. Near-term earnings risk from lower gold prices are somewhat offset by the steady operational performance delivered for Q1'26 by both gold stocks in our coverage, which should be supportive of continued steady cash generation in 2026. Despite near term caution, Citi house views are constructive for gold price in outer years with expectations for $5,000/oz in 2027 vs spot at c$4,350. We have updated our estimates with latest gold prices leading to net upgrades to our EBITDA estimates. However, we have lowered the target multiples used to set TPs for both the stock, but still maintain our views that elevated earnings and cash generation should help stocks to re-rate vs their long-term averages. We maintain Buy ratings on both the stocks.

Cash generation likely to remain solid for ANG/GFI — Gold stocks have strong balance sheets, and we expect significantly higher excess cash over the next 12 months. Potential volume growth is likely to further help enhance cash generation with peak capex likely already behind. ANG/GFI have 81%/85% R2 with gold price, while Citi house views on gold prices are constructive for $5,000/oz in 2027. ANG is currently trading at a 1 YF EV/EBITDA of 4.7x which is in-line with its own long-term average but lower than global gold peers, while FCF yield at 10.5% is attractive. GFI currently trades at 1 YF EV/EBITDA of 3.6x, lower than its own long-term and global peers, while FCF yield at 12% remain attractive. We have now revised our target multiple for the stocks to 7x EBITDA (vs 8x earlier) for ANG and 6x (vs 8x earlier) for GFI, reflecting our expectations for continued re-rating ahead of their long-term averages. We maintain our Buy ratings on the stocks. We now update the TPs for ANG at $130/ZAR2,100, slightly up from $120/ZAR1,950 earlier. The TPs for GFI have however, come down to $58/ZAR950 vs $65/ZAR1,100 earlier.

Operational performance is likely to be key in near term amid gold price volatility — among the gold equities in our coverage, we would look for production ramp-up at Obuasi mine and progress at Nevada project as key catalysts for AngloGold. Moreover, for Gold Fields we watch for progress of Windfall project in addition to the shared risk from regulatory uncertainty in Ghana for both stocks. Cost inflation pressure from higher energy prices is a macro risk, that could play out should the oil prices remains higher for longer.

Earnings changes — We update our models by incorporating latest commodity prices with positive revisions by 8%/25%/13% for 2026/2027/2028 respectively, together with marking to market our assumptions for forex major operational drivers. The net result is +1%/+24%/+9% changes to our 2026/2027/2028 EBITDA estimates for ANG and +2%/+24%/+6% changes to our FY26/27/28 EBITDA estimates for GFI (Details inside).

Anglogold Ashanti PLC (AU.N)

Buy | TP US$130.00 from US$120.00 | Price US$84.12 (05 Jun 26 16:00)

Recommendation (s) — We maintain our Buy rating on AngloGold. The balance sheet is very strong with a net cash position of c$0.9bn by 1Q'26 end, and we expect substantial excess cash over the next 12 months. This excess cash generates further growth (Nevada projects) and cash returns optionality. Assets are well-capitalized and will likely reap maximum benefit from higher gold prices - AU/ANG have an 81% R2 with gold price and Citi house views on gold prices are bullish in outer years, $5,000/oz for 2027 vs spot at c$4,350. On our estimates company is currently trading at a 1 yr fwd EV/EBITDA multiple of 4.7x (in line with LT avg, but lower vs global peers) and FCF yield of c10.5% (mining stocks have historically traded on an average of 8% FCF yield).

What to look out for — (i) production ramp-up at Obuasi mine; (ii) progress at Nevada project; (iii) regulatory risks in Ghana, and (iv) cost inflation pressures.

Maintain Buy with TP at $130 — We update our model by incorporating latest commodity prices (link, resulting in +8%/+25%/+13% changes to gold prices estimates for CY26/27/28e), marking to market fx and revisiting our operational assumptions. The net result is +1%/+24%/+9% changes to our FY26/27/28 EBITDA estimates. Citi house views on gold prices are bullish in outer years, $5,000/oz for 2027 vs spot at c$4,350 leading to upwards revision for our EBITDA forecasts. We lower our valuation multiple for the company, but still maintain at higher to their respective long-term averages. Valuation multiple used for ANG is now at 7x EBITDA (vs 8x earlier), ahead of its long-term average at 4.7x. We raise our TP to $130 (from $120) driven by higher gold price estimates, partially offset by lower multiple. At our TP AU offers c60% ETR and we maintain Buy rating on the stock.

Anglogold Ashanti PLC

Company description

AngloGold is the 6th-largest gold producer in the world (and the 4th-largest listed) with a diversified asset base. Currently, it owns 11 producing assets located across the globe and is in the process of developing the North Bullfrog project in Nevada, US. In 2024, c.60% of production came from Africa, c.20% from Australia, and c.20% from Americas. In 2025, the company is expected to produce c3.1mn oz of gold.

Investment strategy

We rate AngloGold as Buy. The company accounts for only 2% of gold production (top-10 gold producers around 28% of gold production on our calculations) and appears well-placed to benefit from the scarcity of large listed gold miners in a rising gold price environment. With increased production from Sukari and longer-term expansion in Nevada (starting with North Bullfrog as a platform for growth in the Beatty district), the AISC profile should improve, and the jurisdictional risk (c.65% of production and c.75% of NAV currently from Africa) should reduce. There is also organic growth potential led by the ramp-ups of the Obuasi mine and North Bullfrog project.

Valuation

Our target price of $130/share for AngloGold is based on the average of a DCF-based NPV valuation and an EV/EBITDA valuation. Our DCF analysis uses a Weighted Average Cost of Capital (WACC) of 5% for gold mining operations. Our NPV is calculated based on real long-term equilibrium commodity prices. We believe this is appropriate given the volatility of the cash flows through the cycle and project capex, which at times can be front-loaded. For EV/EBITDA, we use a multiple of c7x on 1 yr fwd EBITDA.

Risks

We identify the downside risks to our investment case and TPs for AngloGold as below:

General sector-wide risk

Commodity prices: Revenue is largely dependent on gold prices, so a key risk to our forecast would be adverse changes to its price. Furthermore, as a relatively high-cost producer, margins have less space to fall.

Labour relations: Labour disputes are endemic in the mining industry and could negatively impact volumes and costs.

Company-specific risks

Capex over run: ANG is currently in the process of developing its Nevada projects and Obuasi ramp up. If the capex/cost estimates come in higher than our estimates (which is based on a feasibility study), our NPV and PT might be negatively impacted.

Depleting reserves: Out of 11 assets, seven have a life of mine of less than eight years (based on reserves and FY24 production only). We have assumed that some portion of resources will be converted into reserves in the medium to longer term, which would increase life of mine of some of these assets (based on historical trends). If the company fails to do so or incurs more capex than our estimates, TP/NPV will be negatively impacted.

Regulatory Risks: About 65% of production comes from African countries, which have relatively higher regulatory risks (vs countries such as Australia/US). Furthermore, the federal and Nevada permitting processes are underway for the North Bullfrog project in the US.

Further delay in Obuasi mine (Phase 3) ramp-up: ANG encountered difficult ground conditions in high-grade areas during 2024, thus delaying phase 3 by nine months. This resulted in the company adopting a hybrid mining approach in 2024: sub-level open stopes (SLOS) in lower-grade areas and UHDF in higher-grade areas. Any issues/delays in implementing these new approaches will likely be negative for our TP.

Cost escalation: We are expecting broadly flat AISC over the next 3–4 years due to low-cost incremental production (Sukari and North Bullfrog project). Cost escalation beyond our expectations is negative for our TP/NPV.

Gold Fields Ltd

Company description

Gold Fields is the 8th largest gold producer in the world (and the 6th largest listed) with a diversified asset base. Currently, it owns 10 assets (both producing and project) which are located across the world. In 2024, 46% of production came from Australia, 31% from West Africa, 12% from South Africa and 11% from South America. In 2024, the company produced c2.4mn oz of gold at an AISC of $1,612/oz.

Investment strategy

We rate Gold Fields as Buy. The company accounts for only 2% of gold production (top-10 gold producers around 28% of gold production on our calculations) and is well placed to benefit from the scarcity of large listed gold miners in rising gold price environment. With production relatively balanced across four continents (Australia, Africa and Americas), the risk from adverse jurisdictional/geopolitical events is diversified. Gold Field's production likely to increase by c25% by '26e and 30% by '29e vs '24. This growth is enabled by the ramp-up of Salares Norte, the Windfall project and the acquisition of Gold Road Resources. The incremental production is expected to be at lower costs.

We believe GFI should trade at higher multiples due to (i) well capitalized assets now which means unlike the previous gold bull cycles, benefits of higher gold prices should lead to higher FCF generation rather than increase in capex, (ii) GFI is trading at discount to the global peers despite production growth over the next five years.

Valuation

Our target price of ZAR950/share for Gold Fields is based on average of DCF-based NPV valuation and EV/EBITDA valuation. Our DCF analysis uses a Weighted Average Cost of Capital (WACC) of 5% for gold mining operations. Our NPV is calculated based on real long-term equilibrium commodity prices. We believe this is appropriate volatility of the cash flows through the cycle and project capex, which at times can be front loaded. For EV/EBITDA, we use a multiple of c7x on 1yr fwd EBITDA.

Risks

We identify the following downside risks to our investment thesis and TP:

General sector-wide risk

Commodity prices: Revenue is largely dependent on gold prices so a key risk to our forecast is adverse changes to its price. Furthermore, as a relatively high-cost producer, margins have less space to fall.

Labour relations: Labour disputes are endemic in the mining industry and could negatively impact volumes and costs.

Company-specific risks

Capex over run: GFI is currently in the process of developing Windfall project and is currently in the process of getting environmental approval. Company will provide updated details and project economics most likely in 2026. If the capex/cost estimates come higher than our estimates (which is based on feasibility study), our NPV and PT might be negatively impacted.

Higher debt levels: a steep decline in the gold prices might result in higher for longer net debt levels.

Project delays: Further delay in ramp of Salares Norte mine could result in higher costs and negatively impact our estimates.

Regulatory risks: c45% of production comes from African countries which have relatively higher regulatory risks (vs. countries such as Australia and in South America).

Analysts' compensation is determined by Citi Research management and Citigroup's senior management and is based upon activities and services intended to benefit the investor clients of Citigroup Global Markets Inc. and its affiliates (the "Firm"). Compensation is not linked to specific transactions or recommendations. Like all Firm employees, analysts receive compensation that is impacted by overall Firm profitability which includes investment banking, sales and trading, and principal trading revenues. One factor in equity research analyst compensation is arranging corporate access events between institutional clients and the management teams of covered companies. Typically, company management is more likely to participate when the analyst has a positive view of the company.

For financial instruments recommended in the Product in which the Firm is not a market maker, the Firm is a liquidity provider in such financial instruments (and any underlying instruments) and may act as principal in connection with transactions in such instruments. The Firm is a regular issuer of traded financial instruments linked to securities that may have been recommended in the Product. The Firm regularly trades in the securities of the issuer(s) discussed in the Product. The Firm may engage in securities transactions in a manner inconsistent with the Product and, with respect to securities covered by the Product, will buy or sell from customers on a principal basis.

Unless stated otherwise neither the Research Analyst nor any member of their team has viewed the material operations of the Companies for which an investment view has been provided within the past 12 months.

Guide to Citi Research Fundamental Research Investment Ratings:

Citi Research stock recommendations include an investment rating and an optional risk rating to highlight high risk stocks.

Risk rating takes into account both price volatility and fundamental criteria. Stocks will either have no risk rating or a High risk rating assigned.

Investment Ratings: Citi Research investment ratings are Buy, Neutral and Sell. Our ratings are a function of analyst expectations of expected total return ("ETR") and risk. ETR is the sum of the forecast price appreciation (or depreciation) plus the dividend yield for a stock within the next 12 months. The target price is based on a 12 month time horizon. The Investment rating definitions are: Buy (1) ETR of 15% or more or 25% or more for High risk stocks; and Sell (3) for negative ETR. Any covered stock not assigned a Buy or a Sell is a Neutral (2). For stocks rated Neutral (2), if an analyst believes that there are insufficient valuation drivers and/or investment catalysts to derive a positive or negative investment view, they may elect with the approval of Citi Research management not to assign a target price and, thus, not derive an ETR. Citi Research may suspend its rating and target price and assign "Rating Suspended" status for regulatory and/or internal policy reasons. Citi Research may also suspend its rating and target price and assign "Under Review" status for other exceptional circumstances (e.g. lack of information critical to the analyst's thesis, trading suspension) affecting the company and/or trading in the company's securities. In both such situations, the rating and target price will show as "—" and "—" respectively in the rating history price chart. Prior to 11 April 2022 Citi Research assigned "Under Review" status to both situations and prior to 11 Nov 2020 only in exceptional circumstances. As soon as practically possible, the analyst will publish a note re-establishing a rating and investment thesis. Investment ratings are determined by the ranges described above at the time of initiation of coverage, a change in investment and/or risk rating, or a change in target price (subject to limited management discretion). At times, the expected total returns may fall outside of these ranges because of market price movements and/or other short-term volatility or trading patterns. Such interim deviations will be permitted but will become subject to review by Research Management. Your decision to buy or sell a security should be based upon your personal investment objectives and should be made only after evaluating the stock's expected performance and risk.

Catalyst Watch/Short Term Views ("STV") Ratings Disclosure:

Catalyst Watch and STV Upside/Downside calls: Citi Research may also include a Catalyst Watch or STV Upside or Downside call to indicate the analyst expects the share price to rise (fall) in absolute terms over a specified period of 30 or 90 days in reaction to one or more specific near-term catalysts or events impacting the company or the market. A Catalyst Watch will be published when Analyst confidence is high that an impact to share price will occur; it will be a STV when confidence level is moderate. A Catalyst Watch or STV Upside/Downside call will automatically expire at the end of the specified 30/90 day period. The Catalyst Watch will also be automatically removed if share price performance (calculated at market close) exceeds 15% against the direction of the call (unless over-ridden by the analyst). The analyst may also remove a Catalyst Watch or STV call prior to the end of the specified period in a published research note. A Catalyst Watch/STV Upside or Downside call may be different from and does not affect a stock's fundamental equity rating, which reflects a longer-term total absolute return expectation. For purposes of FINRA ratings-distribution-disclosure rules, a Catalyst Watch/STV Upside call corresponds to a buy recommendation and a Catalyst Watch/STV Downside call corresponds to a sell recommendation. Any stock not assigned to a Catalyst Watch Upside, Catalyst Watch Downside, STV Upside, or STV Downside call is considered Catalyst Watch/STV No View. For purposes of FINRA ratings distribution-disclosure rules, we correspond Catalyst Watch/STV No View to Hold in our ratings distribution table for our Catalyst Watch/STV Upside/Downside rating system. However, we reiterate that we do not consider No View to be a recommendation. For all Catalyst Watch/STV Upside/Downside calls, risk exists that the catalyst(s) and associated share-price movement will not materialize as expected.
