

Americas Healthcare: Generic Pharmaceuticals: 2Q EPS preview

Ahead of 2Q earnings (TEVA 7/29, AMRX 7/30, VTRS 8/6), we refresh our estimates for the latest script data and recent company commentary (representing overall incremental changes). While we expect broadly in-line reports across the group on the top- and bottom-line, we highlight the potential for an AMRX beat on stronger margins (with top-line risk also skewed to the upside), albeit positioning likely reflects this to a certain degree given the recent out-performance (+44% YTD). With reports, beyond updates on the key commercial products/dynamics, we are most focused on branded portfolio execution, pipeline progress, and capital allocation strategies.

From a broader outlook perspective, the group has continued to out-perform both the healthcare sector (+18% vs. XLV) and broader market (+12% vs. S&P 500) in recent months (Exhibit 9), driven, in our view, by both: (i) fundamentals (e.g., earnings and pipeline execution, alongside strategic and meaningful BD), as well as (ii) macro/rotational dynamics where the broadening-out (AI/momentum unwind) trade has been a tailwind for healthcare, particularly therapeutics - where generic pharma continues to screen well from a valuation perspective (we highlight VTRS; Exhibit 10). Looking ahead, while macro/fund flow dynamics will likely create volatility, we continue to expect the fundamental drivers of stock performance to be earnings growth and pipeline optionality - where we see a highly favorable set-up into a catalyst-rich 2H26+ for the group (Exhibit 8). In particular, we highlight the set-up for TEVA, where the recent pull-back in shares represents a compelling entry point.

See our initial take here on President Trump's post on Truth Social regarding potential tariffs on generic pharmaceuticals.

TEVA (Buy): Expect in-line quarter ahead of catalyst-rich 2H26+

TEVA shares have underperformed YTD (-8% vs. S&P 500; -2% vs. XLV) and been generally range-bound ($30-35) this year in our view due to a mix of (i) the quieter event path in 1H26 (despite the Street taking a highly positive view of the Emalex acquisition; we see the recent positive IL-15 data as kicking off a catalyst-rich 2H26+; Exhibit 8), (ii) geopolitical dynamics (given Israel-based, although exposure is very limited in reality), and (iii) valuation (despite trading at premium to recent history, the stock trades at a significant discount to broader biopharma given growth outlook - we expect TEVA to trade more in-line with broader group as branded pipeline expands further over the next 6-12 months; Exhibit 10). Overall, we remain highly constructive as continued execution (both commercial and pipeline) increasingly de-risks the long-term growth outlook and should support both upward estimate revisions and further multiple expansion heading into 2H26+. We note limited inbounds regarding the quarter (investor questions more focused on recent IL-15 data and trading dynamics), and continue to see positioning as broadly positive.

Ahead of the quarter, we make minimal changes to our estimates, which remain broadly in-line with consensus in FY26-27, and expect an overall in-line quarter (note the recent Emalex acquisition is not fully reflected in consensus expenses/earnings metrics). While we look for an updated outlook on the commercial business, including key branded growth drivers (Austedo, Ajovy, and Uzedo) and the generic segment across geographies, and FY26 guidance, we are primarily focused on:

- Branded drug pipeline, including:
 - LAI olanzapine (FY26 launch - remain positive into October PDUFA)
 - Ecopipam (FY27 launch - strategy on the back of the recent FDA filing)
 - DARI (FY28 launch - potential Ph3 data by YE)
 - TL1A (initiation of two PoC studies and several competitors' read-outs later this year),
 - IL-15 (initial PoC Ph2a celiac disease data later this year; we view the vitaligo profile as highly differentiated)
- Capital allocation - including additional BD on the back of the recent Emalex acquisition, a potential share repurchase program, while deleveraging remains a priority.

VTRS (Neutral): Expect in-line quarter ahead of key pipeline updates in YE26+

VTRS shares have outperformed YTD (+30% vs. S&P 500; +36% vs. XLV) driven, in our view, by (i) an improving outlook for the underlying commercial business (supported by the longer-term guidance provided at the Investor Day earlier this year), (ii) clinical catalysts in 2H26+ (Exhibit 8), (iii) attractive risk-reward, given shares trade at a meaningful discount to the broader group, into the aforementioned catalysts, and (iv) macro dynamics (i.e., broadening-out trade as the AI/momentum trade has weakened – where VTRS screens well from a valuation perspective). We note generally positive expectations into 2Q earnings (alongside a pick-up in inbounds as the stock has outperformed), and continue to see positioning as mixed more broadly.

Ahead of the quarter, we make minimal changes to our estimates, which remain broadly in-line with consensus, and expect an overall in-line quarter. While commercial execution remains the key focus, where we look for an updated outlook on the commercial business, including both the generic and branded segment performances across geographies, and FY26 guidance, we will also be monitoring: (1) branded pipeline updates (e.g., timelines/outlook for fast-acting meloxicam, selatogrel, and cenerimod), (2) capital allocation commentary (e.g., appetite for business development vs. share repurchases, particularly in the context of recent deal activity for the group more broadly), (3) cadence of new product launches (NPLs) and how this is tracking vs. the FY guide (note the back-half weighted dynamic), (4) China dynamics and outlook (given the recent strong out-performance of that segment, which has emerged as an important growth driver), (5) update on the Nashik manufacturing facility (i.e., whether this is back at full capacity and implications for the FY guide), (6) F/X trends (given this was a significant tailwind in 1Q), (7) the enterprise-wide review (per management, we expect minimal updates here), and (8) update on the ongoing CFO search (per management, this is progressing well - with both internal and external candidates, but no specific timeline has been yet disclosed).

AMRX (Buy): Building commercial momentum as we monitor additional levers AMRX shares have outperformed YTD (+34% vs. S&P 500; +40% vs. XLV), driven, in our view, by: (i) positive commentary at and following our June conference regarding the commercial business and pipeline - including commercial momentum for the generics segment (e.g., estrogen patch demand) and branded segment (Crexont and Brekiya), key upcoming launches (e.g., lanreotide and lohexal), and the pipeline (new men's health specialty product and update to the PFE GLP-1 partnership to be announced in 2H26), (ii) gradual appreciation for the recently announced acquisition of Kashiv Biosciences (which vertically integrates the biosimilars segment), as well as (iii) macro dynamics (i.e., broadening-out trade as the AI/momentum trade has weakened - where AMRX likely also screens well from a valuation/growth perspective). Overall, we continue to see a compelling diversified growth outlook driven by generics segment momentum, specialty product launches/pipeline, and an emerging obesity/GLP-1 franchise via the PFE partnership.

Ahead of the quarter, we make minimal changes to our estimates, which remain broadly in-line with consensus in FY26-27, but see the potential for a bottom-line beat in 2Q on stronger margins. We look for an updated outlook on the commercial business, including key specialty product launches (Crexont and Brekiya) and the generic segment dynamics (e.g., estrogen patch demand), and FY26 guidance, and will also be focused on: (1) key generic launches (lanreotide Q3 or earlier approval on track - AMRX expects limited competition over the next 2 years; additional dosages of Iohexol recently approved with expectations to be the only generic on the market for the foreseeable future); (2) PFE-partnered obesity portfolio (management has expressed further conviction post the recent ADA updates and sees the partnership as a major growth lever not included in the long-term guidance; update on the partnership structure expected over the coming months); (3) key specialty launches (expect continued momentum for Crexont and Brekiya, where management has noted confidence in the upper-end of their respective long-term revenue targets; AMRX also expects to disclose a new men's health product over the near-term), as well as (4) Kashiv Biosciences integration progress (and updates on the biosimilars pipeline) and capital allocation strategy post the deal.

Model changes, valuation, and risks

TEVA (Buy). We update for the 10Q, recently closed Emalex acquisition (~$700mn of IPR&D), and refresh our estimates based on the latest script data and recent company commentary, resulting in FY26/FY27 EBITDA estimates of $4.3bn/$5.7bn vs. $5.0bn/$5.7bn prior. Our 12-month price target of $50 (unchanged) is based on a 100% EV/EBITDA valuation methodology with a target EV/EBITDA multiple of 12.3x (vs. 12.1x prior to reflect, in-part, the Emalex acquisition and positive IL-15 data in vitiligo - we do not include sales for either asset in our model), which we apply to NTM estimates 12-months out. Risks: (1) higher-than-expected price erosion in the generics business driven either by greater-than-expected price deflation in the US or emerging markets or failure to execute on new product launches within this segment; (2) commercial setbacks in the branded business, including weaker-than-expected growth for Austedo, Ajovy, or Uzedly; (3) clinical or regulatory setbacks, including negative clinical readouts, delays in clinical development programs, or failure/delays in regulatory approvals; and (4) litigation risks, including settlement agreements or the inability to launch certain products when expected due to patent litigation.

VTRS (Neutral): We refresh our estimates based on the latest company commentary, resulting in FY26/FY27/FY28 EBITDA estimates of $4.4bn/$4.6bn/$4.7bn vs. $4.5bn/$4.6bn/$4.8bn prior. Our 12-month price target of $18 (vs. $17 prior) is based on a 100% EV/EBITDA valuation methodology with a target EV/EBITDA multiple of 7.2x (vs. 7.0x prior, given consistent progress/clarity on core business growth), which we apply to NTM estimates 12-months out. Risks to our price target and rating: Downside risks include: (1) higher-than-expected price erosion (within legacy or branded); (2) clinical or regulatory setbacks, such as negative clinical readouts, delays in clinical development programs, or failure/delays in regulatory approvals; (4) extended or additional manufacturing issues; and (5) litigation risk. Upside risks: (1) greater-than-expected growth in the generics or branded segments; (2) clinical or regulatory pipeline success, including positive clinical readouts or acceleration of clinical development programs; and (3) margin expansion.

AMRX (Buy). We refresh our estimates based on the latest company commentary, resulting in FY26/FY27/FY28 EBITDA estimates of $755mn/$845mn/$924mn vs. $759mn/$845mn/$924mn prior. Our 12-month price target of $19 (vs. $17 prior) is based on a 100% EV/EBITDA valuation methodology with a target EV/EBITDA multiple of 10x (vs. 9.5x prior, to reflect increasing confidence around the growth outlook), which we apply to NTM estimates 12-months out. Downside risks to our price target and rating, include: (1) higher-than-expected price erosion in the generics business driven either by greater-than-expected price deflation in the US or failure to execute on new product launches within this segment (e.g., biosimilars); (2) commercial setbacks in the branded business (e.g., weaker-than-expected growth for Crexont, Brekya, or Unithroid); (3) clinical or regulatory setbacks (e.g., negative clinical readouts, delays in clinical development programs, or failure/delays in regulatory approvals); and (4) litigation (e.g., settlement agreements or the inability to launch certain products when expected due to patent litigation - both of which would impact future cash flows).

GS Factor Profile

The Goldman Sachs Factor Profile provides investment context for a stock by comparing key attributes to the market (i.e. our universe of rated stocks) and its sector peers. The four key attributes depicted are: Growth, Financial Returns, Multiple (e.g. valuation) and Integrated (a composite of Growth, Financial Returns and Multiple). Growth, Financial Returns and Multiple are calculated by using normalized ranks for specific metrics for each stock. The normalized ranks for the metrics are then averaged and converted into percentiles for the relevant attribute. The precise calculation of each metric may vary depending on the fiscal year, industry and region, but the standard approach is as follows:

Growth is based on a stock's forward-looking sales growth, EBITDA growth and EPS growth (for financial stocks, only EPS and sales growth), with a higher percentile indicating a higher growth company. Financial Returns is based on a stock's forward-looking ROE, ROCE and CROCI (for financial stocks, only ROE), with a higher percentile indicating a company with higher financial returns. Multiple is based on a stock's forward-looking P/E, P/B, price/dividend (P/D), EV/EBITDA, EV/FCF and EV/Debt Adjusted Cash Flow (DACF) (for financial stocks, only P/E, P/B and P/D), with a higher percentile indicating a stock trading at a higher multiple. The Integrated percentile is calculated as the average of the Growth percentile, Financial Returns percentile and (100% - Multiple percentile).

Financial Returns and Multiple use the Goldman Sachs analyst forecasts at the fiscal year-end at least three quarters in the future. Growth uses inputs for the fiscal year at least seven quarters in the future compared with the year at least three quarters in the future (on a per-share basis for all metrics).

M&A Rank

Across our global coverage, we examine stocks using an M&A framework, considering both qualitative factors and quantitative factors (which may vary across sectors and regions) to incorporate the potential that certain companies could be acquired. We then assign a M&A rank as a means of scoring companies under our rated coverage from 1 to 3, with 1 representing high (30%-50%) probability of the company becoming an acquisition target, 2 representing medium (15%-30%) probability and 3 representing low (0%-15%) probability. For companies ranked 1 or 2, in line with our standard departmental guidelines we incorporate an M&A component into our target price. M&A rank of 3 is considered immaterial and therefore does not factor into our price target, and may or may not be discussed in research.

Quantum

Quantum is Goldman Sachs' proprietary database providing access to detailed financial statement histories, forecasts and ratios. It can be used for in-depth analysis of a single company, or to make comparisons between companies in different sectors and markets.

Ratings, coverage universe and related definitions

Buy (B), Neutral (N), Sell (S) Analysts recommend stocks as Buys or Sells for inclusion on various regional Investment Lists. Being assigned a Buy or Sell on an Investment List is determined by a stock's total return potential relative to its coverage universe. Any stock not assigned as a Buy or a Sell on an Investment List with an active rating (i.e., a stock that is not Rating Suspended, Not Rated, Early-Stage Biotech, Coverage Suspended or Not Covered), is deemed Neutral. Each region manages Regional Conviction Lists, which are selected from Buy rated stocks on the respective region's Investment Lists and represent investment recommendations focused on the size of the total return potential and/or the likelihood of the realization of the return across their respective areas of coverage. The addition or removal of stocks from such Conviction Lists are managed by the Investment Review Committee or other designated committee in each respective region and do not represent a change in the analysts' investment rating for such stocks.

Total return potential represents the upside or downside differential between the current share price and the price target, including all paid or anticipated dividends, expected during the time horizon associated with the price target. Price targets are required for all covered stocks. The total return potential, price target and associated time horizon are stated in each report adding or reiterating an Investment List membership.

Coverage Universe: A list of all stocks in each coverage universe is available by primary analyst, stock and coverage universe at <https://www.gs.com/research/hedge.html>.

Not Rated (NR). The investment rating, target price and earnings estimates (where relevant) are removed pursuant to Goldman Sachs policy when Goldman Sachs is acting in an advisory capacity in a merger or in a strategic transaction involving this company, when there are legal, regulatory or policy constraints due to Goldman Sachs' involvement in a transaction, and in certain other circumstances. Early-Stage Biotech (ES). An investment rating and a target price are not assigned pursuant to Goldman Sachs policy when this company has neither a drug, treatment or medical device that has passed a Phase II clinical trial nor a license to distribute a post-Phase II drug, treatment or medical device. Rating Suspended (RS). Goldman Sachs Research has suspended the investment rating and price target for this stock, because there is not a sufficient fundamental basis for determining an investment rating or target price. The previous investment rating and target price, if any, are no longer in effect for this stock and should not be relied upon. Coverage Suspended (CS). Goldman Sachs has suspended coverage of this company. Not Covered (NC). Goldman Sachs does not cover this company.
