

Americas Retail: Specialty Hardlines: Analyzing the impact of Best Buy and Meta's partnership on eyewear retailers

On June 8th, Best Buy announced a partnership with Meta to open Meta Labs across more than 50 store locations. These experiential spaces provide customers the opportunity to explore Meta's AI glasses and VR headsets through interactive demos, smart mirrors, personalized fittings, and more. In this note, we assess the partnership's potential impact on eyewear retailers (EYE, WRBY, ESLX) by analyzing each retailer's product offerings, store proximity to Best Buy locations, and IR commentary following the announcement.

Bottom line: We are encouraged to see Best Buy and Meta's partnership, and its potential to expand adoption of AI smart glasses across the industry. For EYE, we do not view the partnership as a meaningful risk, given National Vision's differentiation vs. Best Buy with its seamless eye exam, prescription, lens, and frames offering for the Ray-Ban Meta glasses. For WRBY, we believe the announcement will increase focus on the company's ability to capture traffic ahead of its AI glasses launch this fall. We do not view the partnership as a risk given WRBY's integrated prescription and lens capabilities and broad store distribution across ~337 owned locations and digital channels. For ESLX, we view the announcement favourably - expanding distribution and providing additional resources to support consumer education is a helpful step to broadening adoption of smart glasses.

Details on the Best Buy and Meta partnership

On June 8th, Best Buy announced a partnership with Meta to open Meta Labs across more than 50 store locations. These 900 sq. ft experiential spaces will provide customers the opportunity to explore Meta's AI product lineup, including the Ray-Ban Meta, Meta Ray-Ban Display, Oakley Meta, Meta Quest 3, and Meta Quest 3S VR headsets. Each Meta Lab will also feature dedicated Meta Sales Specialists to help guide the customer experience. Customers can engage with the assortment through a variety of methods, including immersive demos, built-in prompts, and tech-forward displays that allow shoppers to virtually try on different frames and styles.

Best Buy noted that over 50% of their customers want to see Meta's AI glasses in person before making a purchase, and these labs will offer a hands-on experience that cannot be found at other retailers. The first few Meta Lab locations will launch in Best Buy stores this June, with additional locations rolling out through the summer and into the holiday season.

We spoke with management following the announcement, who noted they are excited about the expanding partnership with Meta, and plan to test the initial 50 locations before committing to a broader store rollout. Within the labs, management expects a wide assortment of styles and colors, given the large ~900 sq. ft. format. They also highlighted that they would expect to work with additional vendors in the future to expand the assortment for smart glasses and related AI products.

Implications for the eyewear retailers

We evaluate the partnership's potential impact by analyzing the store proximity between Best Buy and each retailer. In our analysis, we assess store base proximity across all Best Buy locations, assuming that Meta Labs are eventually rolled out across the full fleet. While Best Buy plans to implement the Meta Labs in only 50 stores initially, we note management only disclosed a list of five locations on the press release.

Among the three eyewear retailers, Warby Parker had the highest share of stores within a three-mile radius of a Best Buy and continued to have the highest store penetration beyond that radius. Specifically, 49% of ESLX's stores, 53% of EYE's stores, and 54% of WRBY's stores are within three miles of a Best Buy location. For stores within a one mile radius of Best Buy, EYE had the highest penetration. In contrast, Best Buy has the highest percentage of its store base near an EYE location and the lowest percentage of its store base near a Warby Parker location.

We also looked at Google search trends around AI glasses at Best Buy, America's Best, and Warby Parker. Searches for Best Buy AI glasses have largely outpaced peers for the majority of 2025/26, though the searches have been steadily declining since its Dec 2025 peak. Meanwhile, we have observed an uptick in searches for Warby Parker AI glasses in recent weeks.

EYE

National Vision initially launched Ray-Ban Meta glasses in 50 of its stores in 2Q25, before completing a full roll-out across all locations by April 2026. Management highlighted in March that the Meta glasses are the fastest turning SKUs in their assortment, with sell-through exceeding expectations. Additionally, they noted that Ray-Ban Meta consumers carry some of the highest average transaction values within their portfolio.

In our conversations with management, they noted that they are not concerned about Best Buy's partnership with Meta, as National Vision is able to offer a seamless shopping experience that Best Buy cannot replicate. Specifically, National Vision can fulfill the eye exam, lenses, and frames for the customer all within a single visit. In contrast, if a Best Buy customer requires different lenses, they have to send their glasses off to a lab, creating an inconvenient process. National Vision highlighted that they offer demo experiences in their stores as well, and are expanding associate training for Meta glasses across the full customer journey (purchase through pick-up).

WRBY

We believe the Meta x Best Buy partnership is positive for the intelligent eyewear category in aggregate, as expanded distribution and consumer education efforts help broaden awareness and adoption of smart glasses. That said, as we move into the holiday season, this announcement will increase focus on WRBY's ability to capture share of traffic as the company prepares to launch its AI glasses in partnership with Google and Samsung in Fall 2026.

In our conversations with the company, WRBY noted the product will be sold only through WRBY's ~337 owned stores (across 103 markets / 256 cities) and select digital channels on launch (no initial wholesale to third party retailers). This enables sharp control over the consumer experience and initial introduction to the product, and also provides an opportunity for WRBY to offer holistic visioncare services and drive prescription / lens attachment rates. WRBY has invested in its store and customer experience teams to drive a smooth rollout of the product this year. Importantly, WRBY's store fleet footprint is broad-based across 44 states, in all major cities, and accessible to the majority of the US population. Economics by channel are also a consideration. Over time, management has indicated an interest in scaling distribution over time to potential wholesale doors, but has indicated they will be thoughtful in their approach.

We expect investor focus to remain centered on the company's upcoming fall product launch, consumer receptivity to the WRBY product vs. competitor items (Gentle Monster / Ray Ban and Oakley Meta), the pace at which unit sales can scale, and the broader halo that these intelligent eyewear products can provide on the broader WRBY ecosystem (traffic / conversion / fixed cost leverage).

ESLX

From the perspective of EssilorLuxottica, we view the announcement between Meta and Best Buy favourably. Expanding distribution and providing additional resources to support consumer education is a helpful step to broadening adoption of smart glasses – especially for Rayban Meta Display for availability of product demonstrations appointments had been a bottleneck for growth in recent quarters. We do see incremental benefits from selling through EssilorLuxottica's DTC network or specialist optical retailer rather than a retail such as Best Buy – for instance higher attachment rates of prescription or photochromic lenses which come with more favourable economics vs frames – but also note that management had pointed to third party sales of AI glasses as incremental.

Valuations & Risks

BBY

We are Sell rated on BBY. Our 12-month price target is $62 with downside/base/upside case EV/EBITDA multiples at 5.0x/5.5x/6.0x.

Upside risks include if the company receives incremental sales from pull-forward purchases and tax refunds; if the company is able to mitigate memory supply shortages better than expected; if the company's marketplace and advertising initiatives more than offset memory margin pressure; if more consumers trade up to premium devices, improving product margin; if the housing market improves, and BBY's appliances sales improves; if BBY gains share relative to other retailers; if innovation in consumer electronics and mobile phones / computing helps accelerate the top line.

EYE

We are Neutral rated on EYE. Our 12-month price target is $24 with downside/base/upside case EV/EBITDA multiples of 8.5x/9.5x/10.5x.

Upside risks include better-than-expected demand for eye care and eyeglasses following softer trends in recent years; a meaningful acceleration in trade down trends; if margins recover faster than expected; and the potential for a multiple re-rating if sentiment improves following better-than-expected top line results and a clear pathway to margin recovery.

Downside risks include a slower-than-expected top line recovery as lower-income and uninsured customers defer demand, or if certain consumers exit the market altogether; less-than-expected trade down; continued exam capacity headwinds; margin headwinds due to higher wages; increased competition; and the risk that certain costs remain elevated.

WRBY

We are Buy rated on WRBY with a 12-month price target of $31 based on 22.0x Q5-Q8 EV/EBITDA valuation methodology.

Downside risks include: (1) Slow growth of new customers or limited in-network utilization; (2) Slower growth in e-commerce; (3) Terminal margin uncertainty; and (4) Weaker store productivity.

ESLX

Our 12-month price target of €260 is derived using an equal blend of a DCF and a multiples-based valuation (using our annualised Q5-Q8 estimates). Our DCF implies an intrinsic value of €264 per share and uses a WACC of 8.3% and terminal growth rate of +3.5%. Our multiples-based approach applies a 34x P/E multiple to our annualised Q5-Q8 EPS estimates and implies a value of €255 per share.

Downside risks: (1) Slowdown in new launches or delayed rollout; (2) Lower-than-expected operational leverage; (3) Retail network disruption; and (4) Weaker-than-expected consumer confidence.

GS Factor Profile

The Goldman Sachs Factor Profile provides investment context for a stock by comparing key attributes to the market (i.e. our universe of rated stocks) and its sector peers. The four key attributes depicted are: Growth, Financial Returns, Multiple (e.g. valuation) and Integrated (a composite of Growth, Financial Returns and Multiple). Growth, Financial Returns and Multiple are calculated by using normalized ranks for specific metrics for each stock. The normalized ranks for the metrics are then averaged and converted into percentiles for the relevant attribute. The precise calculation of each metric may vary depending on the fiscal year, industry and region, but the standard approach is as follows:

Growth is based on a stock's forward-looking sales growth, EBITDA growth and EPS growth (for financial stocks, only EPS and sales growth), with a higher percentile indicating a higher growth company. Financial Returns is based on a stock's forward-looking ROE, ROCE and CROCI (for financial stocks, only ROE), with a higher percentile indicating a company with higher financial returns. Multiple is based on a stock's forward-looking P/E, P/B, price/dividend (P/D), EV/EBITDA, EV/FCF and EV/Debt Adjusted Cash Flow (DACF) (for financial stocks, only P/E, P/B and P/D), with a higher percentile indicating a stock trading at a higher multiple. The Integrated percentile is calculated as the average of the Growth percentile, Financial Returns percentile and (100% - Multiple percentile).

Financial Returns and Multiple use the Goldman Sachs analyst forecasts at the fiscal year-end at least three quarters in the future. Growth uses inputs for the fiscal year at least seven quarters in the future compared with the year at least three quarters in the future (on a per-share basis for all metrics).

For a more detailed description of how we calculate the GS Factor Profile, please contact your GS representative.

M&A Rank

Across our global coverage, we examine stocks using an M&A framework, considering both qualitative factors and quantitative factors (which may vary across sectors and regions) to incorporate the potential that certain companies could be acquired. We then assign a M&A rank as a means of scoring companies under our rated coverage from 1 to 3, with 1 representing high (30%-50%) probability of the company becoming an acquisition target, 2 representing medium (15%-30%) probability and 3 representing low (0%-15%) probability. For companies ranked 1 or 2, in line with our standard departmental guidelines we incorporate an M&A component into our target price. M&A rank of 3 is considered immaterial and therefore does not factor into our price target, and may or may not be discussed in research.

Ratings, coverage universe and related definitions

Buy (B), Neutral (N), Sell (S) Analysts recommend stocks as Buys or Sells for inclusion on various regional Investment Lists. Being assigned a Buy or Sell on an Investment List is determined by a stock's total return potential relative to its coverage universe. Any stock not assigned as a Buy or a Sell on an Investment List with an active rating (i.e., a stock that is not Rating Suspended, Not Rated, Early-Stage Biotech, Coverage Suspended or Not Covered), is deemed Neutral. Each region manages Regional Conviction Lists, which are selected from Buy rated stocks on the respective region's Investment Lists and represent investment recommendations focused on the size of the total return potential and/or the likelihood of the realization of the return across their respective areas of coverage. The addition or removal of stocks from such Conviction Lists are managed by the Investment Review Committee or other designated committee in each respective region and do not represent a change in the analysts' investment rating for such stocks.

Total return potential represents the upside or downside differential between the current share price and the price target, including all paid or anticipated dividends, expected during the time horizon associated with the price target. Price targets are required for all covered stocks. The total return potential, price target and associated time horizon are stated in each report adding or reiterating an Investment List membership.

Coverage Universe: A list of all stocks in each coverage universe is available by primary analyst, stock and coverage universe at <https://www.gs.com/research/hedge.html>.

Not Rated (NR). The investment rating, target price and earnings estimates (where relevant) are removed pursuant to Goldman Sachs policy when Goldman Sachs is acting in an advisory capacity in a merger or in a strategic transaction involving this company, when there are legal, regulatory or policy constraints due to Goldman Sachs' involvement in a transaction, and in certain other circumstances. Early-Stage Biotech (ES). An investment rating and a target price are not assigned pursuant to Goldman Sachs policy when this company has neither a drug, treatment or medical device that has passed a Phase II clinical trial nor a license to distribute a post-Phase II drug, treatment or medical device. Rating Suspended (RS). Goldman Sachs Research has suspended the investment rating and price target for this stock, because there is not a sufficient fundamental basis for determining an investment rating or target price. The previous investment rating and target price, if any, are no longer in effect for this stock and should not be relied upon. Coverage Suspended (CS). Goldman Sachs has suspended coverage of this company. Not Covered (NC). Goldman Sachs does not cover this company.
