Two-day Healthcare Tour takeaways: Rising innovation bar, smarter BD, and verifiable AIDD revenue

On 18-19 May, we visited a number of Chinese healthcare companies spanning the AI drug discovery (AIDD), Biotech, and Medtech spaces. During our tour of these Beijing and Shanghai-based companies, we came away more positive on the sector driven by four key trends: 1) AI platforms are moving from concept to tangible commercialization, with biotechs stepping up in AI drug discovery adoptions; 2) biotech pipelines are advancing beyond simple fast-following toward deeper innovation and meeting differentiated medical needs; 3) companies continue to conduct business development deals to get funding support and global expansion; and 4) hospital end-markets are accelerating the adoption of advanced technologies spanning surgical robotics and biomarker-driven oncology. We believe these shifts are shaping treatment paradigms and improving the sector's global appeal.

- AI platforms are delivering tangible commercial monetization, and biotech companies are increasingly integrating AIDD workflows to support internal pipelines. XtalPi (2228.HK, Not Covered) has expanded its discovery engine to multiple key drug modalities such as multi-specific antibodies, peptide and siRNAs, deploying a few hundred AI models, 10,000+ AI agents and securing a major US$345 million collaboration with Eli Lilly in Nov. 2025. We think work by Xtalpi and other AIDD companies clearly demonstrates that AI is scaling from pilot projects to a core revenue driver. Concurrently, traditional biotechs are actively adopting these tools; Harbour BioMed (2142.HK, NC) noted it is integrating an "AI-native discovery engine" under Nona Biosciences to accelerate pre-clinical filtering and support its proprietary pipeline generation. The newly listed METiS (7666.HK, NC) leverages its AiLNP, AiRNA, and AiTEM platforms to both advance internal mRNA drug assets, develop better drug delivery approaches, and secure out-licensing deals. It appears that AI is becoming part of workflow integration, which could support clearer earnings visibility. As for Deep Intelligent Pharma (private), it is using LLM and MAS (multi-agent system) to drive clinical CRO business with 1Q26 net profit exceeding 2025 profit.
- Biotech pipelines are moving beyond simple fast-following toward deeper innovation. The siRNA biotech Sirius Therapeutics (private) believes it has a differentiated pipeline: it has demonstrated best-in-class knockdown profiles with 90-95% Factor XI reduction for SRSD107 and plans to conduct Ph3 trials for SRSD107, which not many siRNA companies are working on. Furthermore, GluBio (private) is advancing a robust pipeline of novel molecular glues (including GLB-005 and GLB-007) targeting sickle cell disease and beta-thalassemia, highlighting a strong pivot toward differentiated biology and novel MoA (mechanism of action). We also visited InnoCare (9969.HK, NC), which posted strong 1Q26 revenue growth of 38.65%. Management considers the company well-positioned in both blood cancer and autoimmune disease. Its BCL-2 inhibitor is running multiple monotherapy and combo trials in blood cancer. Its oral inhibitors for TYK2, TYK2/JAK1, and IL-17 will have key data catalysts later this year.

- Business development is becoming a standard mandate for China biotech. Instead of funding costly global trials alone, Chinese biotech companies are actively mitigating financing risks through global partnerships, license-outs, and “NewCo” structures. For example, Syneron (private), a biotech developing macrocyclic peptide therapies, completed a global R&D collaboration deal with AstraZeneca last year. It is currently maintaining a highly efficient annual R&D burn rate of US$60-70 million, according to management, supported by AstraZeneca and Pfizer Ventures. Harbour BioMed emphasized pre-clinical out-licensing deals (with AstraZeneca and BMS) and option-fee economics via its Nona platform. The company plans to announce CLDN18.2xCD3 TCE Ph1 global data and its long-acting TSLP mAb Ph1 data. We believe these disciplined BD structures allow certain companies to preserve a cash runway.
- Hospital end-markets are accelerating the adoption of advanced technologies, spanning surgical robotics and biomarker-driven oncology regimens. On the Medtech front, per management, MicroPort MedBot (2252.HK, OW) reiterated its guidance for 200 new robot installations in 2026 and highlighted over 800 remote procedures via its Toumai Remote system, which we think demonstrates that hospitals are recognizing the concrete ROI of Medbot’s platforms. Concurrently, a seasoned lung cancer expert noted that real-world cancer treatment is increasingly dictated by NGS (next-generation sequencing) panels and targeted therapies, such as AK112 (PD-1/VEGF) and TROP2 ADCs. We believe this clinical shift validates the pipeline rationale of Chinese biotech companies developing next-generation bispecific antibodies and conjugates, as clinicians increasingly judge new therapies on survival data, precise patient selection and sequencing rather than response rates alone. However, the expert continues to focus on drug safety for 1L use.

Important Disclosures

Company-Specific Disclosures: J.P. Morgan does and seeks to do business with companies covered in its research reports. As a result, investors should be aware that the firm may have a conflict of interest that could affect the objectivity of this report. Investors should consider this report as only a single factor in making their investment decision. Important disclosures, including price charts and credit opinion history tables (if applicable), are available for compendium reports and all J.P. Morgan–covered companies, and certain non-covered companies, by visiting <https://www.jpmm.com/research/disclosures>, calling 1-800-477-0406, or e-mailing research.disclosure.inquiries@jpmorgan.com with your request.

Explanation of Equity Research Ratings, Designations and Analyst(s) Coverage Universe:

J.P. Morgan uses the following rating system: Overweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will outperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst’s, or the Research Analyst’s team’s, coverage universe); Neutral (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will perform in line with the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst’s, or the Research Analyst’s team’s, coverage universe); and Underweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst’s, or the Research Analyst’s team’s, coverage universe. NR is Not Rated. In this case, J.P. Morgan has removed the rating and, if applicable, the price target, for this stock because of either a lack of a sufficient fundamental basis or for legal, regulatory or policy reasons. The previous rating and, if applicable, the price target, no longer should be relied upon. An NR designation is not a recommendation or a rating. Some stocks under coverage have a rating but no price target; in these cases, we expect the stock will outperform/perform in line/underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst’s, or the Research Analyst’s team’s, coverage universe of the relevant duration of the region. In our Asia (ex-Australia and ex-India) and U.K. small- and mid-cap Equity Research, each stock’s expected total return is compared to the expected total return of a benchmark country market index, not to those Research Analysts’ coverage universe. If it does not appear in the Important Disclosures section of this report, the certifying Research Analyst’s coverage universe can be found on J.P. Morgan’s Research website, <https://www.jpmmarkets.com>.

The opinions and recommendations herein do not take into account individual client circumstances, objectives, or needs and are not intended as recommendations of particular securities, financial instruments or strategies to particular clients. This material may include views on structured securities, options, futures and other derivatives. These are complex instruments, may involve a high degree of risk and may be appropriate investments only for sophisticated investors who are capable of understanding and assuming the risks involved. The recipients of this material must make their own independent decisions regarding any securities or financial instruments mentioned herein and should seek advice from such independent financial, legal, tax or other adviser as they deem necessary. J.P. Morgan may trade as a principal on the basis of the Research Analysts' views and research, and it may also engage in transactions for its own account or for its clients' accounts in a manner inconsistent with the views taken in this material, and J.P. Morgan is under no obligation to ensure that such other communication is brought to the attention of any recipient of this material. Others within J.P. Morgan, including Strategists, Sales staff and other Research Analysts, may take views that are inconsistent with those taken in this material. Employees of J.P. Morgan not involved in the preparation of this material may have investments in the securities (or derivatives of such securities) mentioned in this material and may trade them in ways different from those discussed in this material. This material is not an advertisement for or marketing of any issuer, its products or services, or its securities in any jurisdiction.
