Raising RF semi PTs on new business, share gains

We see stronger-than-smartphone industry revenue growth in 2Q26 for both WIN Semi and AWSC. However, we remain UW due to relatively limited growth vs. purer AI proxies.

WIN Semi sees revenue growth from newer businesses such as AI datacenter and satellite... China smartphone demand weakened into 2Q26, but WIN Semi is growing faster than the industry (2Q26 revenue could rise by teens % Q/Q), driven by AI datacenter and satellite, vs. smartphone weakness seen at MediaTek and OmniVision. These drivers lift UTR to ~60–70% for 1H26. Against this, we raise our estimates and PT for WIN Semi, and expect the company to expand both capacity and UTR in 2026-28.

...but we remain cautious on WIN Semi amid high expectations from investors; stay UW: We believe investor expectations are overly bullish on WIN Semi's InP (Indium Phosphide) business, as AI datacenter still only accounts for mid-single digits of 2026 revenue. Key InP updates:

- PD (photodiodes) for major customer (Broadcom, covered by Joe Moore): Management plans to start small production by 2Q26 and ramp strongly in 2H26 with added capacity. However, we believe InP substrate could cap 2H26 PD shipments due to China export controls. As our Greater China Tech analyst, Sharon Shih, noted in her 1 May 2026 VPEC report, the InP substrate export ban in China remains the swing factor.
- LD (laser diode) not seeing meaningful revenue until 2027/28: On its earnings call, WIN Semi said it doesn't see meaningful near-term LD revenue due to longer reliability testing. This echoes our view that Lumentum (covered by Meta Marshall) won't outsource CW (continuous wave) lasers or EML (electro-absorption modulated laser) to WIN Semi soon, contrary to Street expectations of mass production by 2027.
- We also don't expect significant 6-inch InP production sooner than 2028 or 2029: The company has been vocal about its 6-inch InP development, but we don't expect significant production sooner than 2028 or 2029 due to technology difficulties and a lack of 6-inch InP substrate supply.

AWSC also see stronger 2Q26/2026 revenue growth from smartphone market share gains: We expect AWSC 2Q26 revenue to grow 10–15% Q/Q on continued smartphone share gains vs. WIN Semi and Sanan (non-covered). We now forecast AWSC 2026 revenue will grow >20% Y/Y with UTR at 75% or above, leading us to raise our earnings estimates and PT. However, compared to purer AI proxies within our coverage, we see a limited revenue CAGR in the coming years for AWSC, reflecting already high smartphone share, less optical/AI exposure, and a lack of engineers to push UTR to 80% or above. We therefore remain UW.

WIN Semi and AWSC seeing better-than-smartphone industry growth; AI/datacenter revenue still limited

WIN Semi should benefit from newer businesses such as AI datacenter and satellite, but expectations for InP business are excessive, in our view.

We are seeing stronger demand and development for WIN Semi from newer businesses such as AI datacenter, optical, and satellite, leading to 60-70% UTR in 1H26 vs. half a year ago, better than our initial expectation. Against this backdrop, we raise our earnings estimates and PT for WIN Semi and expect the company to expand both capacity and UTR in the coming years to fulfill potentially fast-growing demand. The company has also guided 2026 capex to be above NT$2bn for InP and GaN capacity expansion.

However, we remain cautious on WIN Semi amid high expectations from investors; stay UW: We believe expectations for WIN Semi's InP (Indium Phosphide) business are too bullish, as AI datacenter still only accounts for mid-single digits % of revenue.

WIN Semi's satellite-related business could account for mid teens % of 2026 revenue:

We expect WIN Semi's satellite-related business to emerge as the company's primary growth driver in 2026, supported by increasing demand for satellite communications infrastructure and continued expansion of low-earth-orbit (LEO) satellite deployments. As global satellite operators accelerate network rollouts, WIN Semi appears well positioned to benefit from rising RF front-end content and higher GaAs wafer demand, particularly in power amplifiers and related high-frequency applications. We believe satellite will contribute a meaningfully larger portion of revenue in 2026 (around mid-teens %) and serve as a key offset to the more mature smartphone market.

AWSC is gaining share in Android smartphones, but we expect limited growth in the coming years vs. other AI or ASIC proxies within our coverage.

Although China smartphone demand weakened into 2Q26, AWSC is growing faster than the industry and 2Q26 revenue could grow 10-15% Q/Q, unlike the Q/Q smartphone declines expected at MediaTek and OmniVision. We think such growth would be driven mostly by market share gains in Android smartphones, including Samsung, due to its perceived better quality than Sanan and its lower pricing than WIN Semi. We now forecast AWSC 2026 revenue will grow >20% Y/Y with UTR at 75% or above, leading us to raise our earnings estimates and PT. However, compared to other purer AI proxies within our coverage, we see a limited revenue CAGR in the coming years for AWSC, reflecting already high smartphone share, less optical/AI exposure, and a lack of engineers to push UTR to 80% or above. We therefore stay UW on the stock now.

Where could there be upside? Where could we be wrong?

We believe WIN Semi is working to qualify with Lumentum or major Japanese IDM customers on CW laser and EML. We could turn more positive once it secures qualification and meaningful orders. If WIN Semi can secure more InP substrate supply, we wouldn't rule out potential for its PD shipment to grow robustly in the coming years amid strong demand, but this remains in our bull case assumptions, not base case.

For AWSC, although its smartphones still account for >70% of total revenue, it has also been developing non-PA business such LEO satellite and 400G/800G datacom. If these non-PA business could grow stronger than we expect with capacity expansion (company UTR is likely to be capped at 75-80%), we could turn more positive on the stock.

Additionally, we also don't rule out the possibility of a smartphone replacement cycle in 2027 and beyond given increasing Agentic AI/inferencing demand, as AWSC could be at a good position by then due to high market share in China Android smartphones.

WIN Semi: Estimate Revisions And Quarterly Financials

We raise our 2026, 2027, and 2028 EPS estimates by 60%, 60%, and 55%, respectively: We increase our revenue forecasts for 2026-28 due to stronger non-smartphone business contribution. Our margin assumptions rise slightly owing to ramping optical business and infrastructure.

WIN Semi: Valuation Methodology

Our price target (base case value) increases from NT$130 to NT$300: This factors in our EPS forecast changes for 2026 to 2028, as well as increases in our valuation methodology assumptions.

We continue to derive our price target from a residual income model, as we believe it best presents the value of the company. We raise our valuation key assumptions as we believe the company is enjoying stronger revenue growth than in the past, when most of its revenue was coming from smartphones only. The changes include our intermediate growth rate assumption increasing from 8% to 12% and terminal growth from 2.0% to 3.0%. We also update cost of equity to 8% (beta of 1.0, equity risk premium of 6%, risk-free rate of 2%), vs. 9.2% previously.

Our bull case value rises from NT$250 to NT$650 and our bear case value from NT$75 to NT$175, implying 73x and 20x our 2027 EPS estimates, respectively.

UNDERWEIGHT THESIS

- Stronger iPhone demand appears likely in the near term, but the smartphone growth is still too mature compared to AI demand.
- We expect to see more GaAs wafer consumption as we migrate to the WiFi 7 era, as WiFi 7 has three bands (2.4 GHz, 5 GHz and 6 GHz) vs. WiFi 6 at just two (2.4 GHz, 5 GHz).
- We think optical transceivers and robotics may become future drivers, as WIN Semi has the technology to enable products like EML, CW-DFB and DML, but InP substrate remains a bottleneck.
- We are UW on the stock as the company is facing pricing competition from both China peers and AWSC, and we think current investor expectations for the optical business are a bit high.

BULL CASE

NT$650.00

73x 2027e EPS

3D sensing, WiFi 7 and 5G take-off: AR adoption rate beats expectations in 2026 and beyond. Smartphone demand appears to be stronger than expected, while 5G and WiFi 7 implementation starts at a healthy speed. Power amplifier (PA) customers such as Murata and Broadcom continue to work with WIN Semi, while PA customer Qualcomm's RF demand beats expectations. Win Semi also achieves significant market share in optical transceiver and 3D sensing production.

BASE CASE

NT$300.00

33x 2027e EPS

Orders from Chinese smartphone customers and iPhone start to pick up: WiFi 7 demand grows as forecast in 2026 and beyond. Key communications PA customers continue to work with WIN Semi, while Chinese smartphone demand starts to show recovery. AI related products such as optical transceivers and 3D sensing might also drive up its utilization rate. We expect UTR to remain at 60-70% in 2026.

BEAR CASE

NT$175.00

20x 2027e EPS

3D sensing, 5G and WiFi 7 adoption freeze: 3D sensing adoption rate declines without killer applications in 2026. EM smartphone demand does not recover, while 5G and WiFi 7 commercialization is further delayed. Major communications PA customers find alternative partners with similar GaAs technologies, while PA customer Qualcomm's RF demand misses our base case expectations significantly.

AWSC: Estimate Revisions And Quarterly Financials

We raise our 2026, 2027, and 2028 EPS estimates by 95%, 105% and 85%, respectively: We raise our revenue forecasts for 2026 to 2028 due to better than expected market share gains in Android smartphones, which could be sustainable. Our margin assumptions are also slightly raised on better anticipated utilization.

AWSC: Valuation Methodology

Our price target (base case value) increases from NT$85 to NT$130: This factors in our EPS estimate changes for 2026-28.

We continue to derive our price target from a residual income model as we believe it best presents the value of the company. All of our other key assumptions are unchanged, including a cost of equity of 9.2% (beta of 1.2, equity risk premium of 6% and risk-free rate of 2%), intermediate growth rate of 12%, and terminal growth rate of 2.5%. However, we update our dividend payout ratio assumption from 21% to 30%, which we believe better captures the company's future payout capability.

Our bull case value increases from NT$120 to NT$210 and our bear case value from NT$42 to NT$65, implying 4.0x and 1.2x 2027e BVPS, respectively.

UNDERWEIGHT THESIS

- Overall China's Android phone RF demand remains slow in 2026, but the company is gaining share against peers.
- We believe AWSC's customers still prefer rush orders due to low business visibility.
- We expect spec migration (such as WiFi 7) and share gain opportunities to sustain growth in 2026.
- However, the stock is trading at 2027e P/B of 3.0x, vs. 1.6-9.2x since 2012, still unattractive compared to other purer AI stocks.

Morgan Stanley does not assign ratings of Buy, Hold or Sell to the stocks we cover. Overweight, Equal-weight, Not-Rated and Underweight are not the equivalent of buy, hold and sell. Investors should carefully read the definitions of all ratings used in Morgan Stanley Research. In addition, since Morgan Stanley Research contains more complete information concerning the analyst's views, investors should carefully read Morgan Stanley Research, in its entirety, and not infer the contents from the rating alone.
