ASMPT: Strong operating leverage, TCB continues to grow, and Photonics becoming a new driver; Stay OW

ASMPT's 2Q26 results and 3Q26 guidance were both well ahead of street consensus, helped by strong operating leverage, recovery in mainstream SEMI/SMT business and continued strong momentum in TCB and Photonics. 1H26 results are impressive, given Memory TCB revenues have been in decline YoY due to delay in HBM4-related shipments to a major Korean customer. Looking ahead, we expect Memory TCB revenues to accelerate, while C2S logic TCB revenues from OSAT customers should accelerate meaningfully. In addition, Photonics is also likely to grow meaningfully, led by pluggable optical transceiver growth. We raise our 2026/27/28 EPS estimates by 7%/12%/9% to reflect stronger revenue traction and better OP leverage and remain OW with an unchanged Jun-27 PT of HK$225. Key catalysts from here on are (1) an acceleration of memory TCB orders and billings, (2) increased presence in Logic C2W as AI accelerators adopt Chiplets and SoIC packaging, (3) further growth in Optics packaging.

- Strong TCB bookings led by Logic, C2W could be the next big breakthrough: ASMPT highlighted strong logic TCB momentum, with more than 50 TCB tools received for C2S from leading OSAT customers in July, supporting its 3Q26 bookings (guiding high-single-digit sequential growth). We believe the demand for C2S will continue to strengthen as OSATs' record high capex translates into equipment investment, with ASMPT capturing close to 100% market share in the space. Looking ahead, we believe C2W could experience a big breakthrough, with more accelerators migrating to SoIC-based Chiplet packaging, which will mandate the use of TCB for the C2W step in CoWoS, to mitigate warpage for large package sizes. AMD MI450 is the first product moving in this direction, but we believe that 2H27 could see a bigger migration as SoIC demand picks up. Intel's EMIB-T is also likely to be a key driver for C2S demand, given that embedded die placement within substrates will require high-intensity fine-pitch TCB tools, in addition to the final C2S step. In the next 2 years, we expect logic TCB to remain the main driver for TCB growth, as C2W becomes a major new vector of growth.
- Memory TCB growth should restart in 2H26 with HBM4 orders; JEDEC relaxation could extend growth trajectory: Given the delay of HBM4 tool shipment to a major Korean customer, ASMPT's memory TCB revenues have declined YoY in 1H26 (Korea revenues down 65% YoY). However, we believe memory TCB should regain momentum in 2H26, as HBM4 orders from the major Korean customer commence shipping, with continued strength entering 2027. Management also mentioned the potential stacking relaxation from JEDEC (loosen to 900-micron from current 775-micron standard), which could lead to a TCB lifecycle likely extending from HBM4 to HBM5. Based on our checks, we also see companies looking to reduce stack height for future HBM generations (e.g. some versions of NVDA Rubin and AMD MI450 could adopt 8 Hi HBM4, while 16 Hi is likely to remain niche even for HBM4e), which may limit the demand upside for TCB tools. ASMPT continues to engage with a leading memory maker (we believe SEC) for a joint evaluation program on HBM5 technology standard, using TCB, in our view. We view this as a positive signal for the adoption of its fluxless TCB in future HBM generations, cementing ASMPT's position with key Korean customers (JPMe

Summary Investment Thesis and Valuation

Investment Thesis

We are OW on ASMPT, given we expect continued growth in Advanced Packaging and a strong recovery in mainstream SEMI and SMT solutions, driven by AI server boards and PMICs. Looking ahead, we expect memory TCB revenue to accelerate as HBM4 orders from a major Korean customer commence shipping and potential stacking relaxation from JEDEC likely extend the TCB life cycle. We believe C2S logic TCB revenue from OSAT customers to accelerate meaningfully with Intel's EMIB-T likely to be a key driver for C2S demand, given embedded die placement within substrates will require a high intensity of fine-pitch TCB tools. Moreover, we see bigger breakthroughs for C2W as SoIC adoption picks up in 2H27. Photonics is also likely to grow substantially, led by pluggable optical transceiver growth, while ASMPT is well positioned for CPO to capture more value in the TAM expansion as the adoption ramps up in the long term. With strong operating leverage coming through due to disciplined cost control, we see strong earnings growth ahead for ASMPT.

Valuation

Our Jun-27 PT of HK$225 is based on ~28x 12M forward EPS, two notches lower than the previous target multiple, while we raise our 27/28 EPS estimates by 12%/9% to reflect stronger revenue traction and better OP leverage.

- Photonics a new growth driver, led by pluggable now; well positioned in CPO: ASMPT stated that its Photonics revenue has reached US$75mn in 1H26 (tripled YoY) and outlined its involvement in several process steps for pluggable transceivers (SMT for DSP and passive component attach and SEMI for transceiver attach, chip-on-submount assembly, and electrical/optical accessories) and CPO (SEMI for EIC on PIC, optical engines on substrate, and FAU/micro-lens attach). While the revenue is primarily driven by 800G/1.6T pluggable transceivers at the moment, we believe ASMPT is well positioned in CPO, as ASMPT Amicra is a dominant player in pluggable transceivers die-attach and the company has already engaged with several leading CPO players on TCB, Hybrid Bonding and Ultra-precision photonics solutions. We thus expect ASMPT's die-attach TAM to likely grow 2-3x in the next 2-3 years, as the industry embraces more CPO solutions.
- Mainstream SEMI solutions growing rapidly, led by rising OSAT utilization: Mainstream SEMI (including wire bond and die bonders) grew substantially in 1H26, supported by high utilization at leading OSATs. The primary drivers are rising AI-peripheral demand (e.g., power management) along with a recovery in traditional applications (consumer, industrial, and auto). Management expects strength across both AI and traditional segments to carry into 2H26. While we have not seen a broad-based recovery in mainstream end demand, tight OSAT supply should continue to support expansion even in mainstream, as AI demand crowds out capacity. We now expect mainstream SEMI to grow 59%/15% in 2026/27.
- Strong OP leverage coming through, should continue for the next few quarters: ASMPT delivered strong operating leverage in 2Q26, with OPM reaching ~16% (revenue up 24% QoQ while operating profit more than doubled QoQ)—significantly above our and consensus expectations of 10.6% and 10.2%, respectively. We expect ASMPT to continue benefiting from robust operating leverage over the next several quarters, underpinned by strong revenue growth and tighter OPEX control, despite 2H26 OPEX likely to increase HoH given commission expenses. Accordingly, we raise our OPM estimates to 14%/16%/17% for 2026/27/28 and lift our 2026/27/28 EPS estimates by 7–12% to reflect stronger revenue traction and improved operating leverage.
- Strategic options still open for SMT, recent improvement in backlog should result in a higher exit valuation: ASMPT's SMT continues to show strong results in 2Q26, with bookings hitting a record-high in 2Q26, primarily driven by AI server demand with a decent recovery in mainstream sectors. We expect SMT revenue momentum to keep strengthening in the near term (JPMe 31% YoY in 2026) as the backlog gets delivered. We believe that the company is still exploring strategic options for the SMT business and recent improvements in both billing and backlog should imply a higher exit valuation. The disposal proceeds should support ASMPT's accelerated investments in Advanced Packaging and other rapid-growing segments in SEMI, in our view.

Investment Thesis, Valuation and Risks

ASMPT Ltd (0522) (Overweight; Price Target: HK$225.00)

Investment Thesis

We are OW on ASMPT, given we expect continued growth in Advanced Packaging and a strong recovery in mainstream SEMI and SMT solutions, driven by AI server boards and PMICs. Looking ahead, we expect memory TCB revenue to accelerate as HBM4 orders from a major Korean customer commence shipping and potential stacking relaxation from JEDEC likely extend the TCB life cycle. We believe C2S logic TCB revenue from OSAT customers to accelerate meaningfully with Intel's EMIB-T likely to be a key driver for C2S demand, given embedded die placement within substrates will require a high intensity of fine-pitch TCB tools. Moreover, we see bigger breakthroughs for C2W as SoIC adoption picks up in 2H27. Photonics is also likely to grow substantially, led by pluggable optical transceiver growth, while ASMPT is well positioned for CPO to capture more value in the TAM expansion as the adoption ramps up in the long term. With strong operating leverage coming through due to disciplined cost control, we see strong earnings growth ahead for ASMPT.

Valuation

Our Jun-27 PT of HK$225 is based on ~28x 12M forward EPS, which is around the past 10 years' average level.

Risks to Rating and Price Target

The key downside risk is a weaker macro environment in 2026, impacting the sustainability of the mainstream semis recovery.

Key positive catalysts from here on are (1) an acceleration of memory TCB orders and billings, (2) increased presence in Logic C2W as AI accelerators adopt Chiplets and SoIC packaging, (3) further growth in Optics packaging.

ASMPT Ltd (0522) (0522.HK, 522 HK) Price Chart

Source: Bloomberg Finance L.P. and J.P. Morgan; price data adjusted for stock splits and dividends.
Initiated coverage Sep 11, 2017. All share prices are as of market close on the previous business day.

The chart(s) show J.P. Morgan's continuing coverage of the stocks; the current analysts may or may not have covered it over the entire period. J.P. Morgan ratings or designations: OW = Overweight, N= Neutral, UW = Underweight, NR = Not Rated

Explanation of Equity Research Ratings, Designations and Analyst(s) Coverage Universe:

J.P. Morgan uses the following rating system: Overweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will outperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); Neutral (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will perform in line with the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); and Underweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe). NR is Not Rated. In this case, J.P. Morgan has removed the rating and, if applicable, the price target, for this stock because of either a lack of a sufficient fundamental basis or for legal, regulatory or policy reasons. The previous rating and, if applicable, the price target, no longer should be relied upon. An NR designation is not a recommendation or a rating. Some stocks under coverage have a rating but no price target; in these cases, we expect the stock will outperform/perform in line/underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe of the relevant duration of the region. In our Asia (ex-Australia and ex-India) and U.K. small- and mid-cap Equity Research, each stock's expected total return is compared to the expected total return of a benchmark country market index, not to those Research Analysts' coverage universe. If it does not appear in the Important Disclosures section of this report, the certifying Research Analyst's coverage universe can be found on J.P. Morgan's Research website, <https://www.jpmorganmarkets.com>.
