Turbine Trends Tracker: Highest 1Q Orders on Record; US Market Continues to Dominate

This quarterly product is meant to provide investors with a holistic overview of all things gas turbines, including the latest global order data, our estimates of OEM capacity expansion plans, pricing trends, and aggregated installation forecasts. We rate GEV, AGX, ENR GR, BKR & CAT as Overweight.

- 1Q Global orders up 39% Y/Y. 1Q26 global gas turbine orders were ~29GW, a 39% increase y/y compared to ~21GW in 1Q25 and almost double the ~15GW of 1Q24 orders. The 1Q26 orders represent the largest seasonal 1Q orders on record and the 4th largest of any quarter on record. Sequentially, orders were down ~14% from the 34GW of orders in 4Q25, which we view as a function of seasonality and timing. North America remains the dominant market with ~18.3GW of orders (~17.2GW in the US). The next largest countries in 1Q were Oman (~2.0GW) and UAE (~1.5GW), both of which went 100% to Siemens Energy during the quarter. Advanced class turbines (H/J-class) represented ~12.4 GW of global orders in 1Q26.
- Big-3 OEMs Represent ~77% of 1Q Orders. ENR saw 10.7GW of orders, GEV saw 9.2GW of orders, MHI saw 2.7GW of orders, BKR saw 1.1GW of orders, and CAT's subsidiary, Solar, saw 555MW of orders. Since 2023, GEV has led the market with 32% share of orders, compared to 29% and 25% for ENR and MHI, respectively. In that 3-year time period, GEV represents ~45% of the North American market. ENR represents ~51% and 42% of the Middle East and Europe, respectively. MHI represents ~50% of Asia.
- JPM Capacity Forecasts Indicate ~85GW of Global OEM Capacity by 2028. In the note below, we estimate annual capacity for each of the big-three OEMs through 2028 and arrive at global gas turbine capacity of ~85GW by 2028 (in simple cycle terms). We note potential upside from further announcements.
- Channel Checks Indicate CCGT Project Costs Beginning to Push Towards $3,000 per kW. Our proprietary North American gas gen pricing tracker finds that median CCGT capex costs for 2030 CODs have risen by ~200% compared to 2025. For simple cycle plants, 2028 COD costs are up ~50% for simple cycle plants compared to 2025 (CCGTs are up ~63% in the same time period). Per our channel checks, we note CCGT project costs for CODs in the early-2030s are now pushing closer to $2,800-3,000/kW and some conversations suggest total costs above $3,000/kW, depending on the region.
- Doosan Books Record 3.8GW of Orders in 1Q. Notably, Doosan booked a record 3.8GW of orders during the quarter, including a 2.7GW data center order in the US, which is expected to ship in 2029 and reach operation in 2030. This is the largest quarterly order volume on record for the company and only the third gas turbine order in history from the US market. Prior to this quarter, the company had been awarded a cumulative 5.2GW since its first award in 2020, including ~3GW in 2025.
- Baker Hughes Books 1.1GW Data Center Order with Quanta Services.

JPM Global Gas Turbine Capacity Estimates

- GE Vernova: GEV initially announced a capacity expansion in September 2024 to reach 70-80 heavy duty units by 2H26, representing ~20GW of capacity. In addition, the company announced an additional ~4GW of capacity expansion at its December 2025 investor event, bringing heavy duty capacity to ~24GW by 2028 and total capacity to ~26GW (including aeros). The company has repeatedly mentioned efficiency gains driving incremental output at its factories, which could drive upside to our estimates.
- Siemens Energy: ENR initially announced a capacity expansion in November 2024 to upgrade production capacity for large gas turbines by 30%. At the company's November 2025 CMD, it announced ~17GW in FY24 expanding to ~22GW in FY25-27 and >30GW in FY28-30. We note the company's announcement was in combined-cycle terms, which includes power generation capacity from steam turbines and HRSGs. We make assumptions in the estimates below to arrive at a simple-cycle capacity.
- Mitsubishi Heavy: MHI initially announced a planned capacity expansion in May 2024 of ~30% by YE26. In September 2025, the CEO made public comments about potentially increasing manufacturing throughput by ~100%. On the 4Q26 earnings call, the CEO said the company had line of sight into increasing capacity beyond the 30% target. In the estimates below, we take the average order volume from FY22-24 and assume a gradual ~50% capacity increase by 2028.
- Other: We use the McCoy survey data to help inform our 2024-2026 capacity estimates and assume an annual ~1GW of capacity expansion through 2028.

JPM Gas Generation Pricing Tracker

Gas Generation Plant Costs Continue to Rise

The pricing tracker below compiles data from 78 publicly announced natural gas projects in North America where cost info was available. Disclosures vary on specifics and sometimes include other costs, though we attempt to adjust where necessary. Generally speaking, publicly announced costs for natural gas plants can vary widely based on a number of different factors. Importantly, the dates shown in the chart below are completion dates, NOT delivery dates. Construction timelines can vary significantly by project, but we generally believe it is reasonable to assume ~6-9 months from delivery date of a turbine to completion date for CCGT projects. The data behind the charts below is available to clients upon request.

Our pricing tracker finds that median CCGT capex costs for 2031 CODs have risen by ~200% compared to 2025 CODs. For simple cycle plants, we note that 2028 COD costs are up ~50% for simple cycle plants compared to 2025 CODs (CCGTs are up ~63% comparatively in the same time period).

Aggregated Gas Generation Build Forecasts

Wide Range of US Gas-Fired Addition Forecasts

We note a wide range of opinions across third-party forecasters for US natural gas-fired generation additions through the end of the decade. The expectations from EIA and Nextera Energy are in a similar ballpark, with a forecasted ~85-90GW of net gas-fired capacity additions through 2030 (in CCGT terms). BNEF's forecast is much lower, with ~46GW of net additions through 2030. We note that BNEF assumes a much higher penetration rate of renewables and peakers. The McCoy data shown below does not represent a forecast but rather represents firm awarded capacity by expected COD date. Over time, we would expect these orders to fill out closer to third-party forecasters' estimates (OEMs are currently filling order slots for 2028-2030). We note that we have modified the McCoy data and NEE forecasts below to include non-gas turbine generation capacity from CCGT plants (steam, heat recovery). We use a factor of 1.5 to convert simple cycle capacity to CCGT capacity. The data behind the chart below is available to clients upon request

The chart(s) show J.P. Morgan's continuing coverage of the stocks; the current analysts may or may not have covered it over the entire period.
J.P. Morgan ratings or designations: OW = Overweight, N= Neutral, UW = Underweight, NR = Not Rated

Explanation of Equity Research Ratings, Designations and Analyst(s) Coverage Universe:

J.P. Morgan uses the following rating system: Overweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will outperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); Neutral (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will perform in line with the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); and Underweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe). NR is Not Rated. In this case, J.P. Morgan has removed the rating and, if applicable, the price target, for this stock because of either a lack of a sufficient fundamental basis or for legal, regulatory or policy reasons. The previous rating and, if applicable, the price target, no longer should be relied upon. An NR designation is not a recommendation or a rating. Some stocks under coverage have a rating but no price target; in these cases, we expect the stock will outperform/perform in line/underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe of the relevant duration of the region. In our Asia (ex-Australia and ex-India) and U.K. small- and mid-cap Equity Research, each stock's expected total return is compared to the expected total return of a benchmark country market index, not to those Research Analysts' coverage universe. If it does not appear in the Important Disclosures section of this report, the certifying Research Analyst's coverage universe can be found on J.P. Morgan's Research website, <https://www.jpmorganmarkets.com>.
