DataDig: Sovereign Supply to Counter Sovereign Demand?

Charts, analysis and comparables for the global mining sector.

With the establishment of CMRG as a central buying agency to provide China with increased buying power, a new sovereign demand/supply trend seems to be gathering pace. Indonesia is centralising commodity exports, starting with coal, palm oil, and ferroalloys, through a state-linked export agency, PT Danantara Sumberdaya Indonesia or DSI. The policy aims to improve export transparency, reduce under-invoicing/transfer pricing and keep more proceeds onshore. Indonesia accounts for ~55% of global palm oil exports, and 45% of traded thermal coal supply for 2026. Australia represents ~59% of seaborne iron ore exports, 38% and 20% for met and thermal coal, and 24% for lithium (by our estimates). Currently, Australian miners have limited scope to coordinate directly, and cannot agree on pricing, terms, allocation, production, or marketing strategy without creating competition law risk. Although a state-linked export desk for Australian IO and other commodities would create trade and sovereign risk concerns, it could also give Australian producers a way to tackle concentrated buying by governments in markets where Australia has sizable supply. For our IO coverage, BHP (OW) implies an IO price of ~US$82/t, preferred over RIO.AX (EW); US$89/t (see our global insight). UW on FMG, implying US$98/t. OW on DRR (FY27e yield 5.1%, US$98/t).

ASX Miners Relative Preference Table

Exhibit 2: ASX Miners – Investment thesis, upside/downside to share price, financial metrics and consensus ratings

Rank	Code	Rating	Index	Consensus (Buy, Hold, Sell)	Last Price	Target	Upside / Downside	EV/EBITDA 1yr fwd	FCF Yield 1yr fwd	Div. Yield 1yr fwd	Gearing 1yr fwd	12 Mth move	Investment Thesis
1	WHC	OW	100	64% 21% 14%	9.37	9.55	2%	4.3	13%	6%	12%		WHC has seen improving operational performance across assets, which we think could continue into FY26e. FID Winchester South would boost valuation further, while generating strong operating cash flow following cost-out initiatives at Queensland assets.
2	PDN	OW	200	53% 27% 20%	11.05	13.65	24%	15.5	4%	0%	-7%		We expect production issues faced during ramp up of Langer Heinrich to be rectified in FY26. PDN also has strong growth potential through Patterson Lake South, a 9.1 Mtpa project in Canada with first production expected in CY31e, which could make PDN a sizeable uranium player.
3	S32	OW	50	69% 25% 6%	4.63	4.85	5%	6.5	2%	3%	-2%		S32 has potential to continue generating significant cash flow, enabling strong shareholder returns along with potential to grow base metals production through its Hermosa project in the US.
4	BHP	OW	20	25% 75% 0%	61.24	67.50	10%	7.6	5%	4%	13%		BHP has an attractive commodity mix (iron ore, copper, met coal), resilient FCF and potential for shareholder returns, while maintaining a strong balance sheet for favourable growth and/or increasing cash shareholder returns.
5	ILU	OW	200	56% 44% 0%	7.75	7.95	3%	24.9	-11.4%	2%	41%		We see ILU's rare earth downstream strategy well positioned to benefit from establishment of an ex-China rare earths supply chain. We also see any near-term weakness in the mineral sand market as being fairly priced in.
6	BOE	OW	N/A	33% 33% 33%	1.28	1.80	41%	2.4	8%	0%	-11%		We see potential for an improved production scenario from a revised Honeymoon Feasibility Study expected 3QCY26. Although uncertainty remains, we see risks and opportunities skewed to the upside, and we remain constructive on the outlook for Uranium.
7	DRR	OW	200	50% 50% 0%	4.40	4.45	1%	10.5	6%	5%	31%		We like DRR's high-grade iron ore exposure, primarily from the MAC asset. Deterra's yields are less sensitive to change in iron ore prices being a royalty company.
8	PLS	EW	50	47% 27% 27%	5.91	5.60	-5%	11.8	2%	1%	-30%		PLS has expansion optionality at Pilgangoora, and we also see potential for a near-term restart at Ngungaju to capitalise on the strong rebound in spodumene prices. P2000 FID could boost valuation, with study results expected CY26-end.
9	LYC	EW	50	62% 23% 15%	18.16	20.45	13%	16.4	3%	0%	-67%		LYC stands to benefit from rare earths supply chain diversification, and is also expanding its separated HRE product offerings through a new separation facility in Malaysia which we expect will drive earnings growth, however we see the stock as fairly valued currently.
10	RIO	EW	20	47% 47% 7%	184.58	171.50	-7%	8.6	4%	4%	13%		The company maintains a robust balance sheet, giving flexibility to pursue growth and/or increase cash shareholder returns. We see company offering volume growth prospects for iron ore and lithium in particular, however this comes with some execution risk.
11	FMG	UW	20	6% 50% 44%	20.53	18.85	-8%	6.4	4%	4%	5%		FMG continues to have strong cash generation through its Hematite operations, supporting attractive dividends yields, however we think this is more than fairly valued currently.
12	SFR	UW	100	69% 15% 15%	19.28	16.00	-17%	4.9	10%	4%	-34%		Despite opportunities to extend reserve lives at Motheo and MATSA, and development potential at Black Butte, we see the market more than pricing this in with downside to our base case valuation and probability-weighted price target.
13	IGO	UW	100	31% 62% 8%	8.98	6.85	-24%	26.9	1%	0%	-79%		IGO offers diversified exposure to clean energy metals, and despite seeing value in this theme, we think this is more than accounted for in the current stock price. We also remain cautious on acquisition risks, with the Nova Operation end of life fast approaching in CY26 and minority Greenbushes stake.

Investors should carefully read the definitions of all ratings used in Morgan Stanley Research. In addition, since Morgan Stanley Research contains more complete information concerning the analyst's views, investors should carefully read Morgan Stanley Research, in its entirety, and not infer the contents from the rating alone.
