Xiaomi: SkyNomad N90 Max & N70 Max Debut - Our thoughts

Xiaomi unveiled its SkyNomad EREV SUV series earlier today, with the N90 and N70 as its first models. Both vehicles were priced below expectations, which could support stronger demand. We estimate N90 monthly deliveries of over 10k units, and N70 at c. 15k units.

Highly competitive pre-sale price: Full-size 7-seater SUV at RMB 299.9k only. The N90 is a full-size 7-seater SUV, offering up to 464km electric range and 1,705km combined range. Beyond range, Xiaomi emphasized spaciousness and flexible cabin configurations for the N90. For e.g., the third row seats can be folded down, and the front seats can rotate 180 degrees to face the second row to create a “small living room.” While the practical use cases for some of these features may be niche, we are impressed by the vehicle's pricing. The N90 Max carries a pre-sale price of RMB299.9k. Given recent industry practice, final launch pricing could come in RMB10k or more below the pre-sale level, while lower-spec trims should be available at even more attractive price points. The N70 is a mid-large 5-seater EREV SUV, offering an electric range of up to 505km and has a pre-sale price of RMB259.9k.

We believe SkyNomad pose the greatest competitive threat to Li Auto and AITO, whose EREV SUVs currently dominate the premium family SUV segment. Xiaomi's pricing is particularly disruptive. For comparison, compared to N90 that is priced at RMB 299.9k, the Li L9 and AITO M9 EREV start at RMB459.8k and RMB479.8k, respectively.

SkyNomad strengthens Xiaomi's path toward its 550k volume target, assuming SU7 and YU7 can achieve combined monthly deliveries of 35-40k units, and SkyNomad contributes c.30k units per month from September. Execution will be tight however, given the likely production ramp-up and limited September deliveries. Also, production capacity visibility remains limited. Xiaomi has yet to receive official approval for Phase 2 factory, although management has previously indicated there is room to add production lines within the existing plant.

Investment Implications

We rate Xiaomi Outperform with price target of HK$43.00.

VALUATION METHODOLOGYXiaomi Corp

Our HK$43.00 PT is based on our SOTP valuation. To value its Smartphone and IoT business, we apply 10x 2026E P/E and 8x 2026E EV/EBIT multiples. For Internet Services, we apply 15x 2026E P/E and 12x 2026E EV/EBIT multiples. For the EV business, we analyze its valuation with DCF, P/E, and EV/sales methods. RISKSXiaomi Corp

Key risks to our price target relate to hardware sales volume missing expectation, unsuccessful premiumization at smartphones and IoT products, sales of current and future vehicles, issues arise with product quality, potential recalls and public relations management, soft domestic or global consumer demand due to weak macroeconomics backdrop, deteriorating competitive landscape, technological disruption, unfavourable Chinese government policies and geopolitical tensions
