KLA’s near-term numbers were underwhelming as previewed, but we’re more confident on the 2027 story.

Key Takeaways

- 2026 WFE+AP revised up from $140bn+ to low-$150bn (25%+)
- Now see 2026 advanced packaging of $1.1bn (2025 $650mn).

What happened? KLA’s SepQ guide came in a touch below MSe (KLA Corp: Long-term positive, near-term cautious \(9 Jul 2026\)). On the outlook the company revised its 2026 WFE forecast, including AP, from $140bn+ to low-$150bn (25%+), and talked toward ensuring that KLA themselves can prepare to supply and support the more bullish 2027 WFE views out there ($190bn+). 2026 advanced packaging revenue was revised up from $1bn to $1.1bn (+70% y/y), with growth rate 2x the market (KLA’s estimate).

Mixed bag (again). Similar to last quarter, we think this print offered something for both bulls and bears, but with the negatives concentrated in the near term, and vice versa. The bull case (primarily CY27): KLA’s confidence on outgrowing WFE in 2027 is based on backlog, as the company spoke of $12.5bn in RPO (vs FY25-end $7.86bn). We feel more confident in our thesis that process control intensity will improve in 2027 led by 1D and 1.4nm and were also encouraged by the company’s commentary around capturing share in advanced packaging on the back of hybrid bonding in logic and SolC. The bear case (primarily CY26): Near-term numbers for KLA were uninspiring as the company wasn’t able to beat and raise vs intra-quarter commentary. Given KLA’s lead-times (12-months+), numbers in-line with intra-quarter commentary aren’t a surprise, but earnings does serve as a reminder that mix has been a significant headwind for process control intensity in 2026 and KLA is a share donor this year.

Where does this leave us? KLA’s earnings have been underwhelming vs etch/dep peers who have continued to show significant near-term upside. While there is a longer term debate around whether AI is a tailwind or not for process control (more N-1/2 wafers vs larger die/broader customer base), we are strong believers that process control intensity will be a tailwind for KLA in 2027. We stand by our analysis of process control intensity at TSMC by node, as well as industry DRAM wafers, which suggest that KLA's leading-edge logic revenue at TSMC should accelerate in 2027, while DRAM growth rates should sustain despite a deceleration in DRAM WFE growth rates. These tailwinds should complement the broadening of leading-edge spend across Intel, Rapidus, and TeraFab, supporting our view that KLA will outgrow WFE in 2027, with growth of 36% versus WFE at 31%.

Changes to our estimates. We fine tune our CY27 forecast from $20.2bn/$6.12 to $20.4bn/$6.23 as we marginally revise up our system growth forecast from 34.7% to 35.7%. Our CY28 forecast of $23.4bn/$7.22 is largely unchanged.

Thoughts on the stock: We understand the bear thesis around KLA (2026 underperformance) and we agree that KLA will under grow WFE this year. We remain OW KLA; however, we're anticipating the quarter when KLA materially beats street numbers and CY27/28 estimates come up. In the mean time, we nudge down our target multiple for KLA from 38x to 36x given derating across the cohort, which brings down our PT from $274 to $253. We shifted our valuation base year to 2028 for most US SPE names in Semiconductor Capital Equipment: Rolling over PTs to 2028 \(6 Jul 2026\). In the near-term we favor other OWs (AEIS, MKSI) given the magnitude of CY27/28 estimate revisions.

PRICE TARGET $253.00

36x CY28e EPS of $7.22, a 15% premium to US SPE peers LAM & AMAT to reflect growth prospects in foundry logic and DRAM.

OVERWEIGHT THESIS

- KLA's fundamental story has gone from strength to strength: 1) Process control intensity: to structurally increase going forward due to larger die sizes and increased design starts, both causes of lower yield. 2) Share increase: KLA should continue to gain market share in process control given the company is first to inflections and has the fundamental technology to enable that.
- We believe a premium multiple to SPE peers is justified given KLA's growth prospects (outperformance vs WFE) as well as its superior gross margin.

BULL CASE

$325.00

40x CY28e EPS of $8.12

KLA gains more market share than expected on the back of leading edge logic spending accelerating and process control intensity in DRAM increasing greater than expected.

- In this scenario we assume a considerable premium to US SPE peers (AMAT/LAM) as KLA's growth prospects are more appreciated.

- Revenue grows 25.1% in CY28 as KLAC sees outsized growth due to increased market share.

- GM expands to 63.5% and EPS grows to $8.12 in 2028.

BASE CASE

$253.00

36x CY28e EPS of $7.22

KLA grows ahead of WFE in 2027 due to increased process control intensity in leading edge logic and DRAM.

- In this scenario we assume a premium to US SPE peers (AMAT/LAM) that is slightly higher than historic due to KLA's growth prospects.

- Revenue grows 13.8% in CY28 and KLA slightly increases market share.

- GM expands to 62.8% and EPS grows to $7.22 in 2028

BEAR CASE

$165.00

25x CY28e EPS of $6.59

KLA's market share contracts due to leading edge logic and DRAM investment slowing down. KLA faces increasing competition in mask inspection, pressuring valuation multiple.

- In this scenario we assume multiple in-line with US SPE peers (AMAT/LAM)

- Revenue growth of 5.2% in CY28 as leading edge logic growth is limited.

- GM declines to 61.8% and EPS slightly increases to $6.59 in 2028

Valuation Methodology and Risks

Advanced Energy Industries Inc. (AEIS.O)

We use a 24x PE multiple on the company's CY28 EPS of $17.54. Multiple is a slight premium to MKS but at a discount to SPE OEMs, which we believe is warranted based on AEIS's lower GM% profile.

Risks to Upside

- AMAT/LAM gain more share than expected.
- 800v transition leads to more than expected content.
- Data Center customer broadens

Risks to Downside

- AMAT/LAM lose share
- Share loss to Delta in data center

MKS Inc. (MKS.O)

22x FY28 EPS of $20.08. Multiple is a larger discount to front-end SPE vs historic to reflect balance sheet concerns and business mix shift to packaging.

Risks to Upside

- Stronger than expected WFE spend
- Market share gains in semis on the back of NAND growth
- PC, smartphone, and server strength
- Debt paydowns progress quicker than anticipated

Risks to Downside

- WFE growth slows and NAND makers continue to be disciplined on capex
- PC, smartphone, and server extended weakness
- Debt paydowns slow due to slow revenue growth and higher rates
