

Taiwan ODMs

In-line May sales with initial ramp of Amazon T3 servers

Most Taiwan ODMs reported largely in-line revenue in May with sustained server momentum and flattish NB shipment trends. General server demand remains resilient with likely double-digit QoQ shipment growth in 2Q26. For AI servers, we expect double-digit NVL72 rack shipment growth in 2Q26. We also saw resumed component momentum for AWS ASIC in May, implying an uptick in Trainium 3 system shipments in the coming months. For PCs, 2Q26 NB ODM outlook appears to be largely flattish QoQ. We expect a declining trend into 2H26, dragged by price elasticity impact. VGA/MB shipments appear to be down double digit % QoQ/YoY in 2Q26 and likely to see continued weakness into 2H26, due to a lack of new product and end demand weakness. iPhone EMS revenues were resilient in May driven by m/s gains and inventory preparation ahead of the China 618 sales season, but we are cautious on the 2H26 iPhone demand on the potential memory-led price elasticity impact. In the server ODM space, we prefer Wiiwynn > Quanta > Hon Hai > Wistron. We stay OW on Delta given the growing AI datacenter power/thermal TAM and potential product price hikes. ASPEED and Lotes are key beneficiaries of general server strength. In the PC space, our top avoids are Micro-Star and ASUSTek.

- AI servers: Continued GB300 ramp, AWS ASIC to pick up in June. We saw continued GB300 shipment ramp in May and forecast double-digit NVL72 shipment growth in 2Q26. We see potential air pockets into 3Q26 due to product transition and anticipate VR200 system ramp in 4Q26. Overall, we estimate 65-70k NVL72 rack shipments this year. For ASIC servers, we saw component pull-in demand (e.g. server slide, power supply, chassis, CCL/PCB) for the Trainium 3 project in May and expect an initial system ramp in June, which bodes well for Wiiwynn.
- General servers: Robust general server momentum. We saw continued general server shipment growth in May. Server shipments appear to have grown double-digits QoQ in 2Q26, which is in line with our expectations and Lotes's 2Q26 server ODM forecast (+15% QoQ). Supply chain feedback suggests accelerating momentum into 2H26 with better CPU supply. Overall, we forecast traditional server shipments to grow 20% YoY this year (vs. 30-40% demand growth due to supply constraints) and to see sustained momentum into next year due to order backlogs.
- PCs: Demand weakness and margin pressure in coming quarters: Aggregated NB ODM shipments were up slightly MoM in May. April-May aggregated shipments were largely in line with our estimate of flattish to slightly up QoQ for 2Q26. Initial NB ODM feedback indicates a sub-seasonal 2H26 outlook (1H/2H split at ~55%/45%) and double-digit shipment decline, which echoes our cautious view from price elasticity impact. This, coupled with emerging margin pressure for PC brands in the next few quarters, could drive potential earnings downside and valuation de-rating of PC stocks, in our view.

- VGA/motherboard: Double-digit shipment declines on end demand weakness.
Micro-Star's MB/VGA shipments appear to have declined double digits QoQ/YoY in 2Q26 due to end demand weakness. ASUSTek and MSI have seen weaker-than-expected PC component demand, likely due to memory-led negative price elasticity. Looking ahead, we expect continued weakness into 2H26 due to the lack of new products and lackluster end demand. Overall, we forecast double-digit declines for MB/VGA shipments this year. This is negative for Micro-Star and ASUSTek, which have 40-50%/20% revenue exposure from PC components, respectively.
- Robust 1H26 iPhone demand, followed by sub-seasonal iPhone EMS build outlook in 2H. Hon Hai/Pegatron iPhone revenues were up double digits/ flattish MoM in May respectively, which were above-seasonal trends, likely driven by some m/s gains and pull-in demand ahead of the China 618 sales season. Our iPhone supply chain analyst, William Yang, expects a 7% YoY decline for 2H26 iPhone EMS build (vs. +9% YoY in 1H26) due to fewer new model launches and potential demand weakness.
- 800V HVDC datacenter power on track to ramp late 2026/early 2027 with small volumes. We have previously highlighted the earlier-than-expected production introduction of HVDC (800v and +/- 400v) vs. our earlier expectation of a 2H27 launch. Our industry research suggests that key power system integrators are on track to introduce HVDC (800V and $\pm 400V$) in 4Q26/1Q27. HVDC is not required for VR200 racks, so we anticipate only 10–20% penetration in the VR200 cycle (still an incremental positive vs. our prior assumptions). Early deployments should skew toward $\pm 400V$ given data center readiness, but we still expect meaningful power content uplift driven by sidecar power rack adoption.

Important Disclosures

Company-Specific Disclosures: J.P. Morgan does and seeks to do business with companies covered in its research reports. As a result, investors should be aware that the firm may have a conflict of interest that could affect the objectivity of this report. Investors should consider this report as only a single factor in making their investment decision. Important disclosures, including price charts and credit opinion history tables (if applicable), are available for compendium reports and all J.P. Morgan-covered companies, and certain non-covered companies, by visiting <https://www.jpmm.com/research/disclosures>, calling 1-800-477-0406, or e-mailing research.disclosure.inquiries@jpmorgan.com with your request.

Explanation of Equity Research Ratings, Designations and Analyst(s) Coverage Universe:

J.P. Morgan uses the following rating system: Overweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will outperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst’s, or the Research Analyst’s team’s, coverage universe); Neutral (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will perform in line with the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst’s, or the Research Analyst’s team’s, coverage universe); and Underweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst’s, or the Research Analyst’s team’s, coverage universe. NR is Not Rated. In this case, J.P. Morgan has removed the rating and, if applicable, the price target, for this stock because of either a lack of a sufficient fundamental basis or for legal, regulatory or policy reasons. The previous rating and, if applicable, the price target, no longer should be relied upon. An NR designation is not a recommendation or a rating. Some stocks under coverage have a rating but no price target; in these cases, we expect the stock will outperform/perform in line/underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst’s, or the Research Analyst’s team’s, coverage universe of the relevant duration of the region. In our Asia (ex-Australia and ex-India) and U.K. small- and mid-cap Equity Research, each stock’s expected total return is compared to the expected total return of a benchmark country market index, not to those Research Analysts’ coverage universe. If it does not appear in the Important Disclosures section of this report, the certifying Research Analyst’s coverage universe can be found on J.P. Morgan’s Research website, <https://www.jpmorganmarkets.com>.
