

Japan Transportation/Shipbuilding/Travel: Investor visit feedback: Organizing main points of debate and future catalysts for each sector

Based on our visits to investors in Hong Kong from July 8 to 10, we summarize below the coverage sectors (shipping/shipbuilding/airlines/inbound tourism/logistics) that have been particularly discussed with investors recently.

- Shipping: Overall, the majority view is that if the unstable situation in Middle East continues, the shipping market will rise due to the diversification of procurement routes, while if the situation improves, the market will deteriorate due to increased supply including the resumption of passage through the Suez Canal. In the short term, as the containership market is improving mainly due to better cargo volumes, there were many opinions expecting an upward revision to full-year profit guidance centered on containerships at the April-June earnings results, and a dividend hike based on a 40% payout ratio for Nippon Yusen (our FY3/27 estimate is ¥210/share, guidance is ¥200/share). On the other hand, there are also concerns about the possibility of supply-demand loosening from 2027 onward against the backdrop of an increase in containership completions. Furthermore, the upward trend in car carrier charter rates and the asset value of owned vessels that we pointed out are not widely recognized, and we believe they will remain as medium-term stock valuation catalysts.
- Shipbuilding: There were many discussions on the trends of the Japanese government's support measures for the shipbuilding industry, the competitive environment with China/South Korea, and recent share price trends. As to the background of the share price correction over the past 3 months, a significant money flow from defense/geopolitics-related stocks, including shipbuilding, to AI tech stocks was most frequently cited. The FY3/27 P/E for Namura Shipbuilding/Mitsui E&S (for both, we are Buy rated) is around 10X, and we believe their undervaluation will become even stronger as earnings expand going forward. Tokyo Keiki (we are Buy rated), on which we recently initiated coverage, is in a position to capture overseas defense demand as a major supplier of defense equipment, and our impression is that the story of expanding domestic and overseas defense demand over the medium to long term had no particular pushbacks.
- Airlines: Our impression was that there were many positive opinions toward the sector against the backdrop of the crude oil market peaking out. On the other hand, with investors' perspectives that share prices are pricing in normalized earnings, there was also interest in looking for further earnings upside. From that viewpoint, we consider structural reforms in the domestic passenger business and the improvement in the international air cargo market as upside, and we had the impression that the latter, in particular, is not yet widely recognized. For ANA Holdings (we are Buy rated), the top-line upward elasticity is higher than in past cycles due to the consolidation of NCA in the most recent fiscal year, and we believe there is a high possibility that earnings expectations will be raised further.

- Inbound tourism: Against the backdrop of the crude oil market peaking out, concerns about soaring fuel surcharges on flight tickets have receded, and our impression is that positive views have increased somewhat compared to 3 months ago. On the other hand, there were many views that Kyoritsu Maintenance/Kotobuki Spirits (for both, we are Buy rated) have seen quick share price recoveries, and that the earnings improvement for FY3/27 is largely priced in. We believe that short-term earnings are trending above guidance, and we can also expect medium-term catalysts (loyalty point program for Kyoritsu, and the launch of emerging brands for Kotobuki). For Japan Airport Terminal (we are Sell rated), although there are few catalysts to lift medium-term earnings, there were also points made to be aware of the positive impact from the introduction of the refund method for downtown duty-free shopping toward the second half of the fiscal year.
- Logistics: Following the recent price revision for Yu-Pack/Yu-Packet by Japan Post, although there were some opinions expecting an improvement in the competitive environment of the parcel delivery industry, our impression was that the prevailing view was that the competitive environment remains severe given the recent fluctuations in volume share, and a sustained price hike cycle is still hard to envision. For SG Holdings (we are Sell rated), which has relatively high profitability, we maintain a cautious stance as we see lingering risks of profitability deterioration due to intensifying competition in the parcel delivery industry.

Price Target Risks and Methodology - Nippon Yusen KK

Our 12-month target price of ¥5,300 is based on applying a target P/B of 0.65X to end-FY3/27E shareholders' equity per share. Key risks include forex fluctuations, fluctuations in the US consumption environment, changes in the dividend, and fluctuations in dividend income from subsidiary ONE.

Price Target Risks and Methodology - Mitsui OSK Lines Ltd.

Our 12-month target price of ¥6,500 is based on applying a target P/B of 0.73X to end-FY3/27E shareholders' equity per share. Key risks include yen appreciation against the US dollar, a slowdown in the US consumption environment, lower-than-expected shareholder returns, and lower-than-expected dividend income from subsidiary ONE.

Price Target Risks and Methodology – Kawasaki Kisen Kaisha Ltd.

Our 12-month target price of ¥1,900 is based on applying a target P/B of 0.65X to end-FY3/27E shareholders' equity per share. Key risks include forex fluctuations, fluctuations in the US consumption environment, changes to the dividend, and fluctuations in dividend income from subsidiary ONE.

Price Target Risks and Methodology – Namura Shipbuilding Co.

Our 12-month target price of ¥5,600 is based on a target P/B of 2.6X applied to our end-FY3/30E BPS estimate, discounted back to FY3/27E using a cost of equity of 9.8%. Key risks include a sudden increase in production capacity in the shipbuilding industry, higher steel prices, production problems, and a decline in vessel prices.

Price Target Risks and Methodology – Mitsui E&S Co.

Our 12-month target price is ¥7,000. Using a Sum of the Parts (SOTP) model, we apply target P/E multiples of 10X-19X to our net profit estimates for each segment and the respective reference years we use for them, and discount the sum back to FY3/27 using a cost of equity of 9.8%. We apply a P/E of 19X on FY3/31E for marine propulsion systems, 14X on FY3/30E for logistics systems, 14X on FY3/28E for new business development, and 10X on FY3/28E for peripheral services. Key risks include a sharp increase in input costs, deterioration in container transport demand, production problems, and a decline in prices.

Price Target Risks and Methodology – Tokyo Keiki

Our 12-month target price is ¥8,800. The target price is derived applying a target P/E multiple of 23X on our FY3/31E EPS estimate and discounting the value back to FY3/27 using a cost of equity of 10%. Key risks include a deterioration in defense demand, a decline in shipping demand, and a decline in prices caused by competition and other relevant factors.

Price Target Risks and Methodology – Japan Airlines Co.

We are Neutral rated on Japan Airlines with a 12-month target price of ¥2,850 based on a target FY3/27E EV/GCI multiple of 0.83X (-0.5 standard deviation from the past 10-year average). Key risks include upside/downside in passenger yield due to changes in passenger mix, larger-/smaller-than-expected earnings contributions from the non-airline and LCC businesses, changes in fixed costs, and swings in crude oil prices.

Price Target Risks and Methodology – ANA Holdings

We are Buy rated on ANA Holdings with a 12-month target price of ¥3,500 based on a target FY3/27E EV/GCI multiple of 0.85X (+1.5 standard deviation from the past 10-year average). Key risks include higher crude oil prices, an increase in foreign currency-denominated costs due to ongoing yen weakness, and larger-than-expected fixed-cost increases.

Price Target Risks and Methodology – Kotobuki Spirits

Our 12-month target price of ¥2,650 is based on a target 3/27E EV/EBITDA of 18X. A comparison with other Japanese food companies shows a strong correlation between EV/EBITDA and EBITDA margin. Given that the company has a higher profit margin than similar companies, we use a multiple that is higher than the sector average. Key downside risks include a temporary decline in travel demand due to natural disasters, margin deterioration due to rising raw material prices, delays in the expansion of international airports, and a slowdown in demand for inbound travel to Japan.

Price Target Risks and Methodology – Kyoritsu Maintenance

Our 12-month target price is ¥3,800. Our target price is based on a target 3/27E EV/EBITDA of 11X. We consider this valuation appropriate in view of similar global hotel stocks and the company's historical range. A comparison with similar global hotel stocks shows a strong correlation between EV/EBITDA and EBITDA growth + EBITDA/total assets. Key downside risks include a temporary decline in travel demand due to natural disasters, tougher competition, a significant rise in domestic interest rates, and a slowdown in inbound demand.

Price Target Risks and Methodology – Japan Airport Terminal

Our 12-month target price is ¥4,700. This is based on a target FY3/27E EV/EBITDA of 7.0X, which takes into account that the company's EBITDA/total assets and its EBITDA growth is in line with similar sectors. A comparison with global airport-related stocks shows a strong correlation between EV/EBITDA and EBITDA/total assets and EBITDA growth. Key upside risks include greater shareholder returns than we anticipate, easing of competition in the duty-free market, a larger-than-expected decrease in fixed costs, and an increase in duty-free demand owing to a weaker yen.

Price Target Risks and Methodology – SG Holdings

We are Sell-rated on SG Holdings with a 12-month target price of ¥1,550 based on a FY3/27E target EV/EBITDA multiple of 7.5X. Key risks include growth in the outsourcing of delivery business at major e-commerce operators, a greater-than-expected decline in fixed costs, higher prices in the overseas forwarding business, and earnings growth in non-parcel delivery businesses.

Price Target Risks and Methodology – Yamato Holdings

We are Neutral rated on Yamato Holdings with a 12-month target price of ¥1,900, based on an FY3/27E target EV/EBITDA multiple of 5.0X. Key risks include changes in parcel delivery volume, ASP, and costs.

Price Target Risks and Methodology – Japan Post Holdings

Valuation methodology: Our 12-month target price of ¥2,550 is based on a SOTP model incorporating values for Japan Post Bank (68% of our valuation, using a target P/B of 1.21X), Japan Post Insurance (8%, using a target P/E of 9.0X), and Japan Post Co. (~1%, using DCF), as well as the real estate business (16%, using NPV), and Aflac (9%, using market cap of stake), to which we apply a conglomerate discount of 20%. Our SOTP uses FY3/28E for Japan Post Bank, FY3/27E-FY3/29E for Japan Post Insurance, and a 5-year DCF (FY3/27E-FY3/31E, WACC of 10% and terminal growth rate of 0%) for Japan Post Co. excluding the real estate business which is valued based on NPV. We are

Buy-rated.

Key risks: Lower-than-expected shareholder returns and unsuccessful M&A.

GS Factor Profile

The Goldman Sachs Factor Profile provides investment context for a stock by comparing key attributes to the market (i.e. our universe of rated stocks) and its sector peers. The four key attributes depicted are: Growth, Financial Returns, Multiple (e.g. valuation) and Integrated (a composite of Growth, Financial Returns and Multiple). Growth, Financial Returns and Multiple are calculated by using normalized ranks for specific metrics for each stock. The normalized ranks for the metrics are then averaged and converted into percentiles for the relevant attribute. The precise calculation of each metric may vary depending on the fiscal year, industry and region, but the standard approach is as follows:

Growth is based on a stock's forward-looking sales growth, EBITDA growth and EPS growth (for financial stocks, only EPS and sales growth), with a higher percentile indicating a higher growth company. Financial Returns is based on a stock's forward-looking ROE, ROCE and CROCI (for financial stocks, only ROE), with a higher percentile indicating a company with higher financial returns. Multiple is based on a stock's forward-looking P/E, P/B, price/dividend (P/D), EV/EBITDA, EV/FCF and EV/Debt Adjusted Cash Flow (DACF) (for financial stocks, only P/E, P/B and P/D), with a higher percentile indicating a stock trading at a higher multiple. The Integrated percentile is calculated as the average of the Growth percentile, Financial Returns percentile and (100% - Multiple percentile).

Financial Returns and Multiple use the Goldman Sachs analyst forecasts at the fiscal year-end at least three quarters in the future. Growth uses inputs for the fiscal year at least seven quarters in the future compared with the year at least three quarters in the future (on a per-share basis for all metrics).

For a more detailed description of how we calculate the GS Factor Profile, please contact your GS representative.

M&A Rank

Across our global coverage, we examine stocks using an M&A framework, considering both qualitative factors and quantitative factors (which may vary across sectors and regions) to incorporate the potential that certain companies could be acquired. We then assign a M&A rank as a means of scoring companies under our rated coverage from 1 to 3, with 1 representing high (30%-50%) probability of the company becoming an acquisition target, 2 representing medium (15%-30%) probability and 3 representing low (0%-15%) probability. For companies ranked 1 or 2, in line with our standard departmental guidelines we incorporate an M&A component into our target price. M&A rank of 3 is considered immaterial and therefore does not factor into our price target, and may or may not be discussed in research.

Ratings, coverage universe and related definitions

Buy (B), Neutral (N), Sell (S) Analysts recommend stocks as Buys or Sells for inclusion on various regional Investment Lists. Being assigned a Buy or Sell on an Investment List is determined by a stock's total return potential relative to its coverage universe. Any stock not assigned as a Buy or a Sell on an Investment List with an active rating (i.e., a stock that is not Rating Suspended, Not Rated, Early-Stage Biotech, Coverage Suspended or Not Covered), is deemed Neutral. Each region manages Regional Conviction Lists, which are selected from Buy rated stocks on the respective region's Investment Lists and represent investment recommendations focused on the size of the total return potential and/or the likelihood of the realization of the return across their respective areas of coverage. The addition or removal of stocks from such Conviction Lists are managed by the Investment Review Committee or other designated committee in each respective region and do not represent a change in the analysts' investment rating for such stocks.

Total return potential represents the upside or downside differential between the current share price and the price target, including all paid or anticipated dividends, expected during the time horizon associated with the price target. Price targets are required for all covered stocks. The total return potential, price target and associated time horizon are stated in each report adding or reiterating an Investment List membership.

Coverage Universe: A list of all stocks in each coverage universe is available by primary analyst, stock and coverage universe at <https://www.gs.com/research/hedge.html>.

Not Rated (NR). The investment rating, target price and earnings estimates (where relevant) are removed pursuant to Goldman Sachs policy when Goldman Sachs is acting in an advisory capacity in a merger or in a strategic transaction involving this company, when there are legal, regulatory or policy constraints due to Goldman Sachs' involvement in a transaction, and in certain other circumstances. Early-Stage Biotech (ES). An investment rating and a target price are not assigned pursuant to Goldman Sachs policy when this company has neither a drug, treatment or medical device that has passed a Phase II clinical trial nor a license to distribute a post-Phase II drug, treatment or medical device. Rating Suspended (RS). Goldman Sachs Research has suspended the investment rating and price target for this stock, because there is not a sufficient fundamental basis for determining an investment rating or target price. The previous investment rating and target price, if any, are no longer in effect for this stock and should not be relied upon. Coverage Suspended (CS). Goldman Sachs has suspended coverage of this company. Not Covered (NC). Goldman Sachs does not cover this company.
