

Richemont

The sparkles: raising forecasts by 7-8%

Richemont kicked off the H1/Q2 26 reporting season yesterday morning with, once again, a stellar performance. Momentum was solid not just in the Jewellery Maisons division (which was up an incredible +24%!) but also in the Specialist Watchmakers and Other divisions, which also came in ahead of expectations. As we have been arguing, structural tailwinds in jewellery are clearly benefiting the Group (see more in our deep-dive note Richemont: 18 Karats of strength); still, the broad-based nature, magnitude, and consistency of growth also reflect, in our view the superior quality of execution. This should be increasingly rewarded by investors, notably in the context of a luxury backdrop that remains highly polarised and volatile. Banking in the solid beat on Q1 27 numbers, faster momentum and better operating leverage, we have raised our forecasts by 7-8%, taking our price target to CHF220 (CHF200). Despite and already solid outperformance YTD (+14% vs sector around -10%), we think the story has further legs thanks to sustained momentum and earnings growth acceleration from here. Hence, Richemont remains our top pick in luxury.

- Superior business quality, delivering best results. The key highlight of the trading update was clearly the outstanding performance in Jewellery Maisons, +24% ex-FX in Q1, accelerating from an already exceptional +16% in Q4. Positively, all regions and all brands contributed to this, with balanced momentum among domestic consumers and tourists. This balanced growth in our view is very important. In fact, looking at such high level of growth, the fear could be on the sustainability of these numbers and whether penetration is being pushed too far. Such a balanced delivery, by nationality, brand, family line, different SKUs in our view dilutes the risk of over penetration and over reliance on a key best seller, leaving the growth journey more sustainable for longer (as we have explored for instance for Van Cleef Alhambra here). To support this, we think that the level of newness and innovation across all jewellery maisons have been carrying on (if anything seemingly accelerating in recent months) has been instrumental in feeding the momentum and supporting growth in such a robust way. While growth should not sustain at such high levels as we move on tougher comps, we still expect very sustained trends throughout the years, standing at a whole other level vs the rest of the sector (we model at +17% ex-FX in both Q2 and for the FY). Importantly, we think this proactive brand and product management is increasingly spreading to the broader portfolio, with sharper collections also at some of the brands in the other divisions (e.g. Piaget recent drops for both jewellery and watches), leading to healthier results there too.
- Where does this leave us for the rest of reporting? We think this outperformance is, to a large extent, driven by category- and company-specific dynamics. Having said this, the extent of the acceleration, also at brands where momentum is more mixed (notably in the Other division) in our view sends a generally positive read to the rest of the sector. As we discussed in our preview book last week, we think the luxury backdrop is not as unfavorable as some of the broader narrative would suggest; Richemont trading update clearly confirmed this. With luxury share prices reacting positively to this print, the

Summary Investment Thesis and Valuation

Investment Thesis

Richemont is the global leader in branded jewellery and one of the leaders in high-end watches. It is strongly positioned with Cartier and VC&A to tap into the jewellery segment's long-term strong fundamentals. The Group has evolved meaningfully over the past 15 years, increasing exposure to the jewellery category and a higher retail mix, and has been working on its cost base to make it increasingly variable. Further, we think the jewellery space in general has also changed structurally in the last few years, with more attractive value for money propositions vs leather goods, more wearable designs and stronger marketing campaigns increasingly driving traction with self-purchasing women. These features and changing dynamics should benefit Richemont the most globally and help it navigate through a slowdown better than in the past, smoothing out historical operational and financial volatility, possibly better than what is perceived by investors currently and what is priced in at current valuation levels. We rate the stock Overweight.

Valuation

Our Dec-27 DCF-based target price of CHF220 is based on the following factors: March 2027-31 explicit forecast, medium-term growth of 5.5%, terminal growth of 3.5% and WACC of 9% reflecting the current cost of equity.

'bar' should have clearly gone up now. Still within the mix, we think polarisation of performance and specific category dynamics (notably the leather goods fatigue) will continue to drive a visible divide between winners and laggards. Within the winners, we expect Zegna and Brunello to report particularly strong results. While the former is up almost 30% YTD, Brunello stock has lagged and hence we see the current share price level as particularly attractive and we would be positive into the next update (on the 30th of July, recall we have placed the stock on Positive Catalyst Watch into this).

Valuation

Our Dec-27 DCF-based target price of CHF220 is based on the following factors: March 2027-31 explicit forecast, medium-term growth of 5.5%, terminal growth of 3.5% and WACC of 9% reflecting the current cost of equity.

Risks to Rating and Price Target

We believe that the key risks to our OW rating and target price include the following:

- Deterioration in the macro-economic environment
- Deceleration in the jewellery category top-line growth
- The SF strengthening vs the euro (sourcing base)
- Sustained heavy investments in the downturn
- Acquisition risk, given the cash pile and a different time horizon for the returns on those than the market

Richemont (CFR.S, CFR SW) Price Chart

Source: Bloomberg Finance L.P. and J.P. Morgan; price data adjusted for stock splits and dividends.
Initiated coverage Feb 05, 2002. All share prices are as of market close on the previous business day.

The chart(s) show J.P. Morgan's continuing coverage of the stocks; the current analysts may or may not have covered it over the entire period. J.P. Morgan ratings or designations: OW = Overweight, N= Neutral, UW = Underweight, NR = Not Rated

Explanation of Equity Research Ratings, Designations and Analyst(s) Coverage Universe:

J.P. Morgan uses the following rating system: Overweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will outperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); Neutral (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will perform in line with the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); and Underweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe. NR is Not Rated. In this case, J.P. Morgan has removed the rating and, if applicable, the price target, for this stock because of either a lack of a sufficient fundamental basis or for legal, regulatory or policy reasons. The previous rating and, if applicable, the price target, no longer should be relied upon. An NR designation is not a recommendation or a rating. Some stocks under coverage have a rating but no price target; in these cases, we expect the stock will outperform/perform in line/underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe of the relevant duration of the region. In our Asia (ex-Australia and ex-India) and U.K. small- and mid-cap Equity Research, each stock's expected total return is compared to the expected total return of a benchmark country market index, not to those Research Analysts' coverage universe. If it does not appear in the Important Disclosures section of this report, the certifying Research Analyst's coverage universe can be found on J.P. Morgan's Research website, <https://www.jpmorganmarkets.com>.

Coverage Universe: Battistini, Chiara : Brunello Cucinelli (BCU.MI), Burberry (BRBY.L), EssilorLuxottica (ESLX.PA), Ferragamo (SFER.MI), Ferretti Group (F3T1.F), Hermes International (HRMS.PA), Hugo Boss (BOSSn.DE), Kering (PRTP.PA), LVMH (LVMH.PA), Moncler (MONC.MI), PANDORA (PNDORA.CO), PRADA Group (1913.HK), Richemont (CFR.S), Swatch Group (UHR.S), Zegna Group (ZGN)
