New Market Share Strategy

WHAT'S CHANGED

Contemporary Amperex Technology Co. Ltd. (300750.SZ)	From	To
Top Pick Added	3750.HK	300750.SZ

CATL is turning more aggressive on share. Accelerating capacity expansion targets new lower-end markets...yet still contributes incremental profits. Overall $/Wh margin should not be the focus in this deliberate strategic shift – it's mix-driven, not structural erosion for products more broadly.

The dollar-margin softness observed in 1H appears non-structural in nature, primarily driven by product mix volatility and CATL's incremental market share gains in lower-priced segments, rather than any broader erosion in pricing power or a signal of structural margin compression.

Management explicitly addressed the dollar-margin dynamics on the 2Q results call, clarifying that like-for-like product margins remained stable, with ESS product margins even showing improvement in 1H. A greater share of higher-margin overseas volumes should get recognized as revenue in 2H.

CATL's market share strategy has turned notably more aggressive, with management willing to leverage capacity expansion and cost/technology advantages to penetrate previously underserved lower-end market segments. The company's recent market share gains, volume outperformance, and strong beat in the 1Q results (consensus rose materially afterward) demonstrate that sales in these lower-end markets are still generating incremental earnings, even if the associated products carry lower margins than CATL's premium offerings.

Thus, we do not believe the recent softness in blended $/Wh margin should be the primary focus for investors. Rather, it reflects a deliberate mix shift accompanying share gains and industry consolidation. The more meaningful takeaway is that CATL is successfully converting incremental volume into incremental profit while simultaneously expanding its competitive footprint across a broader addressable market, despite near-term margin dilution from mix effects.

Switch Top Pick to CATL-A from CATL-H: The newly announced substantial share repurchase should support the A-shares' outperformance over the H-shares. The liquidity absorption by AI-related stocks should be also more or less done in the A-share market, in our view. Also, the H-A premium is now 33%. We maintain OWs on both.

Earnings Estimate Revisions after 2Q

With the new market share strategy, we lower our overall $/Wh margin forecast but raise our volume assumptions for energy storage given the volume beat in 1H. We raise our 2026 earnings forecast ~1% but trim our 2027 and 2028 forecasts 2.6% and 2.7%, respectively, reflecting the new consumption tax (see here).

More aggressive on share while also expanding competitive footprint

PRICE TARGET HK$815.00

Base case, EV/EBITDA. We use this methodology to remain consistent with the approach taken by our global battery analysts for international peers. We assign a 17.5x EV/EBITDA multiple to 2027E EBITDA, which implies a 25.4x P/E for 2027E. For the CATL H-shares, we assign a 20% H/A premium. Our A-share target multiple is 15x, on par with the five-year average level and in line with global peers' average.

- CATL is turning more aggressive on share. Accelerating capacity expansion targets new lower-end markets, yet still contributes incremental profits.
- Overall $/Wh margin should not be the focus in this deliberate strategic shift – mix-driven, not structural erosion for broader products.
- We find it meaningful that CATL is simultaneously expanding its competitive footprint across a broader addressable market, despite near-term margin dilution from mix effects.
- CATL-H remains rated OW, but the A-shares are now our Top Pick.

BULL CASE

HK$925.00

20x 2027e EV/EBITDA

We think CATL will stay on the path of multi-fold R&D investment vs. peers, leading technology iteration, and generating high ROE. Therefore, we think that under this scenario, valuation may jump to 20x EV/EBITDA in 2027, anchoring to LGES's average EV/EBITDA multiple over the past three years.

BASE CASE

HK$815.00

17x 2027e EV/EBITDA

We expect EBITDA growth of ~24% in 2026-27, driven by robust ESS demand, electric truck adoption, and market share gains.

BEAR CASE

HK$325.00

6x 2027e EV/EBITDA

Battery competition becomes severe owing to technology breakthroughs by Tier 2 battery makers; CATL faces market share loss and margin pressure.

Morgan Stanley uses a relative rating system using terms such as Overweight, Equal-weight, Not-Rated or Underweight (see definitions below). Morgan Stanley does not assign ratings of Buy, Hold or Sell to the stocks we cover. Overweight, Equal-weight, Not-Rated and Underweight are not the equivalent of buy, hold and sell. Investors should carefully read the definitions of all ratings used in Morgan Stanley Research. In addition, since Morgan Stanley Research contains more complete information concerning the analyst's views, investors should carefully read Morgan Stanley Research, in its entirety, and not infer the contents from the rating alone. In any case, ratings (or research) should not be used or relied upon as investment advice. An investor's decision to buy or sell a stock should depend on individual circumstances (such as the investor's existing holdings) and other considerations.
