

Korea Banks

Share price momentum to strengthen ahead of eventful 2Q26 earnings season; extended re-rating in large FGs

Korea banks have outperformed the market since July, up 8% (vs. KOSPI -15%). Going into the 2Q earnings season, we see a constructive set-up for Korean financials. 2Q26 results should be broadly solid on (i) resilient NII with modest NIM uplift and steady loan growth, (ii) stronger non-interest income on capital markets-related fees, and (iii) contained credit costs with provisioning broadly in line with full-year guidance. Beyond earnings, we expect shareholder returns to be the key catalyst: as prior buybacks conclude in July, another round of buyback/cancellation announcements looks likely—potentially larger at KB and Shinhan on stronger earnings prints—while Hana could also draw attention on a Value-Up update (introducing a shareholder return formula and refreshed ROE targets, broadly converging toward KB/Shinhan). With large FGs still trading at <1.0x P/B (vs. 11–12% mid-term ROE trajectory), we see ample upside from here and recommend investors accumulate KB, Shinhan and Hana (all OWs) to capture an extended re-rating rally on sustainable ROE trending higher lifting fair P/B.

2Q earnings preview on key earnings metrics

- Widening NIM: NIM trends should diverge across banks given different repricing cycles and base effects. Still, we expect margins to remain broadly resilient and grind higher as asset yields reprice up in a higher-rate backdrop and price competition remains contained. Compared to smaller banks, we see large FGs better positioned for NIM upside on lower funding costs, with Kakao Bank also likely to stand out with a steep NIM recovery (~6bps).
- Solid loan growth: We expect our covered banks to deliver 1–3% q/q loan growth. While household lending remains constrained by regulation, corporate loans should drive overall expansion, supported by the productive-finance initiative and relatively more attractive economics versus debt issuance. That said, we expect banks to stay disciplined on RoRWA-led lending to manage capital, keeping RWA growth broadly within 4–5% y/y.
- Robust non-interest income expansion: We expect 2Q non-interest income to strengthen sequentially, led by higher capital markets-related fees on solid brokerage and wealth management operations. While higher rates could still pressure bond trading gains, we see the drag easing (vs. depressed prior quarter) given a more moderate move in yields. The scale of the uplift should vary by the size and earnings mix of each group's securities arm, with KB and Shinhan best positioned to capture the fee-income upside..
- Credit costs under control. We expect credit costs to remain broadly contained. Banks may take some one-off provisions related to the Joongang Group's court-led rehabilitation filing, but the earnings impact should be limited given modest exposure and adequate collateral coverage. While asset quality readings are under upward pressure on rising rates, we see overall credit costs staying broadly stable and in line with full-year guidance.
- Still, progressive shareholder returns. With the previously announced buybacks set to complete in July, we expect our covered financial groups to announce another round of sizable 2Q buybacks, especially with rising expectations for KB and Shinhan on stronger earnings prints, alongside the continued rollout of quarterly dividends. We also look for Hana to update its Value-Up plan, potentially introducing a more advanced formula-based shareholder return policy and setting more ambitious operating targets to lift ROE. While ongoing KRW depreciation remains a headwind, solid earnings and disciplined RWA management should keep CET1 broadly stable, enough to support further progressive shareholder returns in terms of payout ratio and absolute amounts.

The chart(s) show J.P. Morgan's continuing coverage of the stocks; the current analysts may or may not have covered it over the entire period. J.P. Morgan ratings or designations: OW = Overweight, N= Neutral, UW = Underweight, NR = Not Rated

Explanation of Equity Research Ratings, Designations and Analyst(s) Coverage Universe:

J.P. Morgan uses the following rating system: Overweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will outperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); Neutral (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will perform in line with the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); and Underweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe. NR is Not Rated. In this case, J.P. Morgan has removed the rating and, if applicable, the price target, for this stock because of either a lack of a sufficient fundamental basis or for legal, regulatory or policy reasons. The previous rating and, if applicable, the price target, no longer should be relied upon. An NR designation is not a recommendation or a rating. Some stocks under coverage have a rating but no price target; in these cases, we expect the stock will outperform/performance in line/underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe of the relevant duration of the region. In our Asia (ex-Australia and ex-India) and U.K. small- and mid-cap Equity Research, each stock's expected total return is compared to the expected total return of a benchmark country market index, not to those Research Analysts' coverage universe. If it does not appear in the Important Disclosures section of this report, the certifying Research Analyst's coverage universe can be found on J.P. Morgan's Research website, <https://www.jpmorganmarkets.com>.
