Thoughts on restructuring news and Everllence transaction; revising estimates ahead of 2Q26

VOWG_p.DE 12m Price Target: €89.00 Price: €71.88 Upside: 23.8%

Remaining cautious on execution of Future Plan: We remain cautious on VW's latest "Future" restructuring plan, given the group's organisational complexity and the internal hurdles to closing capacity. Historical plant closures have been rare, small, and geographically distant, including Audi Brussels and Dresden's Transparent Factory (both 2025), Australia (1977), Pennsylvania (1988), and various LATAM/Argentina sites in the 1990s. Nevertheless, we acknowledge management's restructuring efforts, including four ongoing programmes targeting >€6bn pa. of savings, yet the path to 8-10% RoS remains unclear.

Everllence transaction P&L lift bound on details: Volkswagen (June 24, 2026) announced the sale of a 51% stake in Everllence to Bain Capital for ~€7.4bn, with a retained 49% stake limiting. Our illustrative pro-forma framework implies an EPS uplift of €3.84–€21.42 (at 100% gain accounted) or €0.23–€11.94 (at 51% accounted). We note that key assumptions on leverage, tax treatment, accounting of the retained stake, and timing remain unconfirmed and materially influence both the realized uplift and the timing of it. See our illustrative methodology below.

Revising VW estimates ahead of 2Q26: VW continues to advance its competitive positioning through restructuring and strategic tie-ups, but structural governance layers and organizational complexity lead us to question the company's ability to respond in a timely manner to persistent headwinds. We believe investors will require evidence of sustained underlying earnings' improvement before any re-rating. We revise our reported EPS estimates by -7%/-14%/-13% for FY26E/FY27E/FY28E (we do not incorporate the Everllence transaction), incorporating our latest China views, and updated estimates for Porsche AG and Traton SE. Applying an unchanged 4.0x multiple to our blended FY27E/FY28E EPS, we derive a 12-month price target of €89 (previously €97); we reiterate our Neutral rating.

Restructuring optimism overdone; execution remains the key hurdle

Recent restructuring headlines have driven a rebound in investor sentiment but, in our view, the market is likely mispricing the execution risk inherent to Volkswagen's organizational complexity. Press coverage ahead of the CEO's July 9, 2026 proposal to the Supervisory Board outlined a materially more aggressive restructuring package than that which was ultimately detailed in consecutive company releases on the proposal. The initial press speculation talked to personnel reductions of up to 100k globally, and the potential closure of four German plants, said to be Hanover, Emden, Zwickau, and Audi's Neckarsulm, with phased shutdowns between 2031 and 2034. Per the subsequent company announcements, VW is now targeting a reduction of the model line-up of up to 50%, a cut in its offering complexity of up to 75%, and a resizing of its global production capacity to approximately ~9m units per year (from ~12m pre-COVID). The press release following the presentation of the proposal to the Supervisory Board also reconfirmed Volkswagen Group's commitment to a RoS margin of 8%-10% by 2030.

Exhibit 1: Volkswagen is currently executing four separate restructuring programmes simultaneously and aims to realise a total of >€6bn pa of cost savings

VW restructuring overview

Programme	Targets
Future Volkswagen (Zukunft Volkswagen)	• €1.5bn p.a. labor savings from the wage settlement by 2029 • Technical capacity reduction by ~730k units by 2028E • >35k employee reduction by 2030 • Net cost effects >€4bn p.a by 2030
Audi "Agreement for the Future"	• Workforce reduction ~7,500 positions • ~25% German site capacity reduction • Brussels site closure reduces capacity by ~120k units • >€1bn p.a. mid-term savings
Porsche AG strategic realignment	• 15% total workforce reduction by 2029 (~3,900) • Rescale China dealerships from 150 to 80 by 2027 • Near-term double-digit margin recovery; medium-term up to 15%
CARIAD transformation	• ~30% of workforce reduction by end of 2025 equalling ~1,450 positions • Refocus to brand led software supplier • Entity level EBIT breakeven in 2027 and CF breakeven in 2028

We believe that the restructuring announcements have strategic merit, but maintain our cautious stance (held since our initiation in November 2025): scale and organizational complexity make delivering meaningful restructuring outcomes difficult. In Volkswagen's case, complexity is amplified by the Volkswagen Law, which grants the State of Lower Saxony (which controls 11.8% of VW's capital and 20.0% of its voting rights) an effective blocking minority via the >80% qualified-majority threshold, alongside Porsche SE's 53.3% voting control (31.9% of the capital) and Qatar Holding's 17.0% of voting rights. Under Germany's co-determination regime, employee representatives occupy 10 of 20 supervisory board seats, with the Chairman's casting vote ordinarily breaking ties.

Volkswagen's restructuring track record over the past 10 years reinforces our reservations. The group has run consecutive restructuring programs, including the 2016 Zukunftspakt (€3bn annual savings target, 14k job reductions by 2020), the 2023 Accelerate Forward program (€10bn cumulative earnings' contribution by 2026), and most recently the December 2024 Zukunft Volkswagen agreement, when management took the most dramatic step, demanding a 10% pay cut and openly floating plant closures, ultimately canceling the long-standing employment guarantees. Following labour negotiations and strikes, the guarantees were reinstated, with the final agreement delivering >€15bn pa in medium-term savings, a 734k unit reduction in capacity, and >35k job cuts by 2030 through socially responsible measures rather than compulsory redundancies. Meanwhile, since FY22 we have seen VW's operating margin deteriorate, from 8.1% to 2.8% in FY25. While we believe VW can achieve some of its factored cost-measures, recent history suggests that restructuring announcements alone are not always sufficient meaningful financial performance improvement.

We remain cautious on the latest restructuring plan and emphasize focusing on the follow-up execution. The Supervisory Board's reported rejection of the CEO's latest restructuring proposal by 12 votes to 7 on July 9, 2026 highlights this issue. Opposition from labour and Lower Saxony representatives, coupled with a temporarily vacant shareholder seat following a recent resignation, likely drove the outcome. The CEO will resume negotiations over a revised proposal after the summer break, which we see as a challenging task: the workers' council has already noted that it may escalate to work strikes if proposals continue to consider factory closures. In short, we see the announced actions of the Future Plan as significantly more modest than those previously speculated in the press, and as insufficient, in isolation, to deliver the 8%-10% margin target for 2030, as reiterated by management.

The Everllence transaction

Everllence stake sale to Bain Capital announced: On June 24, 2026, the Volkswagen Group entered into an exclusive arrangement with Bain Capital to sell a 51% majority stake in Everllence, a leading global manufacturer of large engines, turbomachinery and decarbonization solutions, while retaining a 49% stake over the medium term. Structured as a leveraged buy-out, the transaction generates proceeds of approximately €7.4 billion for Volkswagen, per the company, with a decision on the use of proceeds to be taken at a later date. Completion remains subject to the information and consultation processes required by law in France, alongside other customary conditions and regulatory approvals, which are targeted for fulfillment by the end of 2026.

51% stake sale without Porsche Holding: We note that the 51% stake excludes the Porsche Holding Family despite prior news flow suggesting an additional 10% participation by Porsche Holding alongside any majority P/E buyer. The announced decision to retain a 49% stake over the medium term, rather than pursue a fuller divestment, limits the immediate portfolio-streamlining impact in our view.

Illustrative calculation implies a meaningful EPS/DPS uplift but missing details complicate assessment of the gain:

Our illustrative transaction analysis (based on a range of Everllence EBITDA margins and EBITDA leverage ratios) indicates an EPS uplift from the book gain of €3.84–€21.42 (on a 100% accounted sale basis) or €0.23–€11.94 per share (on a 51% basis). Assuming the low end of VW's payout ratio (30%), this would equate to a DPS uplift of €1.15–€6.43 at 100% and €0.07–€3.58 at 51%. However, we note that several critical details, including leverage, tax treatment and accounting treatment remain unconfirmed, representing key uncertainties in our analysis of the implications of the transaction for EPS and DPS.

Our EPS uplift analysis in the preceding exhibit flexes assumptions for Everllence's FY25 EBITDA margin and the level of leverage taken on by Everllence as part of the transaction. We flex EBITDA margin across a 12%–17% range, reflecting historical EBITDA ranges of public peers (Wartsila, Cummins). Our assumption for Everllence's leverage is flexed across a range of 4.0x–6.5x, reflecting commonly used industrial LBO leverage rates.

We lay out below our illustrative transaction framework, to help investors assess the underlying enterprise and equity valuation of the Everllence business, the value of the 49% stake retained by VW, and the nuances of the transaction-related book gain and the EPS/DPS uplift. Exhibit 5 shows our framework and the calculations we make. Note that red values are as reported in the transaction press release, while blue values denote the key assumptions we make that drive the calculations.

Based on our illustrative assumptions (pre-existing net cash of €100mn and post-transaction net debt of €2.45bn-€5.41bn (4.0x-6.5x EBITDA, with 100% of the new debt-financed recap attributable to VW) for the whole of Everllence, we estimate that the equity sale price paid by Bain Capital would equate to €1.89bn-€4.95bn (of the €7.4bn proceeds earned by Volkswagen disclosed in the release). We derive a Transaction EV of €5.51bn-€14.5bn. Using the reported €3.4bn Everllence book value and assuming €100mn of transaction costs and compliance with KStG §8b Abs. 2, which materially reduces tax on share disposals by German corporates selling subsidiaries, we derive a post-tax capital gain of €1.93bn-€10.7bn (on a 100% accounting basis) or €114mn-€5.96bn (on a 51% basis; note capital gain is not 51% of Transaction EV but 51% of Transaction EV – 49% of Everllence equity value). We note that whether 100% or 51% of the gain is booked depends on the accounting treatment of the retained 49% stake within VW, which is yet to be disclosed.

Per our illustrative calculations (based on a range of Everllence EBITDA margins and EBITDA leverage ratios) this indicates an EPS uplift from the book gain of €3.84-€21.42 (on a 100% accounted sale basis) or €0.23-€11.94 per share (on a 51% basis). Assuming the low end of VW's payout ratio (30%), this would equate to a DPS uplift of €1.15-€6.43 at 100% and €0.07-€3.58 at 51%. However, we note that several critical details, including leverage, tax treatment and accounting treatment remain unconfirmed, representing key uncertainties in our analysis of the implications of the transaction for EPS and DPS. We highlight that, while VW has stated its intention to finalise the transaction by the end of fiscal year 2026, there is a chance that the accounted gains could fall into fiscal year 2027.

Estimate changes and GSe vs. consensus

We revise our reported EPS estimates by -7%/-14%/-13% for FY26E/FY27E/FY28E (we do not incorporate the Everllence transaction), incorporating our latest China views, and updated estimates for Porsche AG and Traton SE.

Valuation and key risks

Valuation & key risks

We value Volkswagen using a P/E-based approach, applying an unchanged target multiple of 4.0x (in line with our approach to its European mass-market peers) to our blended FY27/28 EPS, to derive a 12-month price target of €89 (previously €97). We remain Neutral rated on the stock.

Upside risks to our view and price target:

- Stronger improvement in European demand
- Macro concerns, notably with respect to Europe, do not materialise
- Accelerated BEV adoption and cost curve benefits
- Corporate reorganisation
- Tariff relief or regulatory easing
- China performance stabilisation
- Investors start to take a SoTP approach to valuing VW, thereby crediting the equity value of Porsche AG

Downside risks to our view and price target:

- Software and BEV production issues
- New products less well-received than recent products
- Supply-chain constraints
- Commodity and energy prices
- Geopolitics
- China slowdown
- Pricing pressure and increased competition

GS Factor Profile

The Goldman Sachs Factor Profile provides investment context for a stock by comparing key attributes to the market (i.e. our universe of rated stocks) and its sector peers. The four key attributes depicted are: Growth, Financial Returns, Multiple (e.g. valuation) and Integrated (a composite of Growth, Financial Returns and Multiple). Growth, Financial Returns and Multiple are calculated by using normalized ranks for specific metrics for each stock. The normalized ranks for the metrics are then averaged and converted into percentiles for the relevant attribute. The precise calculation of each metric may vary depending on the fiscal year, industry and region, but the standard approach is as follows:

Growth is based on a stock's forward-looking sales growth, EBITDA growth and EPS growth (for financial stocks, only EPS and sales growth), with a higher percentile indicating a higher growth company. Financial Returns is based on a stock's forward-looking ROE, ROCE and CROCI (for financial stocks, only ROE), with a higher percentile indicating a company with higher financial returns. Multiple is based on a stock's forward-looking P/E, P/B, price/dividend (P/D), EV/EBITDA, EV/FCF and EV/Debt Adjusted Cash Flow (DACF) (for financial stocks, only P/E, P/B and P/D), with a higher percentile indicating a stock trading at a higher multiple. The Integrated percentile is calculated as the average of the Growth percentile, Financial Returns percentile and (100% - Multiple percentile).

Financial Returns and Multiple use the Goldman Sachs analyst forecasts at the fiscal year-end at least three quarters in the future. Growth uses inputs for the fiscal year at least seven quarters in the future compared with the year at least three quarters in the future (on a per-share basis for all metrics).

M&A Rank

Across our global coverage, we examine stocks using an M&A framework, considering both qualitative factors and quantitative factors (which may vary across sectors and regions) to incorporate the potential that certain companies could be acquired. We then assign a M&A rank as a means of scoring companies under our rated coverage from 1 to 3, with 1 representing high (30%-50%) probability of the company becoming an acquisition target, 2 representing medium (15%-30%) probability and 3 representing low (0%-15%) probability. For companies ranked 1 or 2, in line with our standard departmental guidelines we incorporate an M&A component into our target price. M&A rank of 3 is considered immaterial and therefore does not factor into our price target, and may or may not be discussed in research.

Ratings, coverage universe and related definitions

Buy (B), Neutral (N), Sell (S) Analysts recommend stocks as Buys or Sells for inclusion on various regional Investment Lists. Being assigned a Buy or Sell on an Investment List is determined by a stock’s total return potential relative to its coverage universe. Any stock not assigned as a Buy or a Sell on an Investment List with an active rating (i.e., a stock that is not Rating Suspended, Not Rated, Early-Stage Biotech, Coverage Suspended or Not Covered), is deemed Neutral. Each region manages Regional Conviction Lists, which are selected from Buy rated stocks on the respective region’s Investment Lists and represent investment recommendations focused on the size of the total return potential and/or the likelihood of the realization of the return across their respective areas of coverage. The addition or removal of stocks from such Conviction Lists are managed by the Investment Review Committee or other designated committee in each respective region and do not represent a change in the analysts’ investment rating for such stocks.

Total return potential represents the upside or downside differential between the current share price and the price target, including all paid or anticipated dividends, expected during the time horizon associated with the price target. Price targets are required for all covered stocks. The total return potential, price target and associated time horizon are stated in each report adding or reiterating an Investment List membership.

Coverage Universe: A list of all stocks in each coverage universe is available by primary analyst, stock and coverage universe at

Not Rated (NR). The investment rating, target price and earnings estimates (where relevant) are removed pursuant to Goldman Sachs policy when Goldman Sachs is acting in an advisory capacity in a merger or in a strategic transaction involving this company, when there are legal, regulatory or policy constraints due to Goldman Sachs' involvement in a transaction, and in certain other circumstances. Early-Stage Biotech (ES). An investment rating and a target price are not assigned pursuant to Goldman Sachs policy when this company has neither a drug, treatment or medical device that has passed a Phase II clinical trial nor a license to distribute a post-Phase II drug, treatment or medical device. Rating Suspended (RS). Goldman Sachs Research has suspended the investment rating and price target for this stock, because there is not a sufficient fundamental basis for determining an investment rating or target price. The previous investment rating and target price, if any, are no longer in effect for this stock and should not be relied upon. Coverage Suspended (CS). Goldman Sachs has suspended coverage of this company. Not Covered (NC). Goldman Sachs does not cover this company.
