Maldives joined the Asian Development Bank (ADB) in 1978. The country partnership strategy (CPS), 2020–2024, continues to guide ADB's engagement in the country. Its priorities include enhancing public sector efficiency and fiscal sustainability, strengthening competitiveness and diversifying the economy, and improving quality of life while ensuring environmental sustainability. The country is eligible for grants and concessional funding through the Asian Development Fund (ADF).

Recent ADB projects notably boost resilience and food security by improving flood and coastal protection and investing in local agri-food systems. ADB supports upgrading power grids to accommodate higher shares of renewable energy, while helping the government tender new solar power capacity. Efforts to advance social protection include building shelters for victims of domestic abuse and violence against women and girls. Investment in vaccine cold storage bolsters public health, while the development of an electronic single window aims to simplify export procedures. ADB also supports solid waste management through improved waste collection and converting waste to electricity, leading to lower emissions and greater energy independence.

Public sector operations. As of 31 December 2025, ADB had committed 121 public sector loans, grants, and technical assistance totaling $556 million to Maldives. ADB's current public sector portfolio in the country includes 5 loans and 10 grants worth $253.3 million.¹

¹ Public sector portfolio consists of ADB-financed loans, grants, equity investments, and public sector guarantees committed and not financially closed. Regional projects with loans/grants to multiple countries are reported separately.

In 2025, ADB approved a technical assistance project to help modernize Maldives' customs service. The country may also benefit from several regional technical assistance projects approved in 2025. These initiatives support evidence-based approaches to resilience and sustainability and accountability through stronger audit institutions. Technical assistance also emphasizes regional cooperation, supporting the regional cooperation and integration agenda of the South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation, as well as trade and transport facilitation in South Asia. Additional assistance focuses on expanding capacity development networks for government officials.

Private sector operations. Total outstanding balances and undisbursed commitments of ADB's private sector transactions in Maldives as of 31 December 2025 amounted to $23.32 million, representing 0.15% of ADB's total private sector portfolio.

Cumulative disbursements. Cumulative public and private sector loan and grant disbursements to Maldives amount to $392 million. These were financed by regular and concessional ordinary capital resources, ADF, and other special funds.

Operational challenges. A limited human resource pool limits the country's capacity to design and implement complex projects. In response, ADB provides technical assistance to strengthen the government's institutional and technical capacity. In addition, Maldives' weak business environment, small market size, and limited access to credit hinder opportunities for private-sector investments. ADB helps the country in this area through technical assistance and project financing.

KNOWLEDGE WORK

In 2025, ADB released a study identifying sociocultural obstacles to workforce participation among women and disadvantaged groups, highlighting the need for stronger social protection, childcare, inclusive urban planning, and financing for women-owned businesses. Another study using machine learning generated granular poverty indicators to help tackle spatial inequality. ADB also supported efforts to diversify the economy within and beyond the dominant fisheries and tourism sectors. In 2025, a series of workshops brought business, civil society, and government stakeholders together to explore opportunities. The Maldives Tuna Think Tank workshop looked into strengthening sustainability, efficiency, and access to financing in the tuna value chain. Stakeholder workshops and policy dialogue deepened collaboration among local actors to support creative entrepreneurship, improve the livelihoods of island communities, and introduce new services for tourists visiting Maldives.

FUTURE DIRECTIONS

ADB's strategic directions will be guided by Maldives' forthcoming long-term national development plan, which will set development objectives by 2040. This forward-looking framework will notably target structural transformation, productivity gains, and inclusive, sustainable development. ADB's action will also be guided by ADB's Strategy 2030 and its midterm review. ADB is engaging with the government on a new country partnership strategy, which will remain anchored in strengthening fiscal sustainability, development sustainability, economic growth, and resilience.
