Investor Feedback: positioning turns more selective Post-1Q, awaiting 2Q confirmation for execution and margin delivery

Based on our recent investor interactions, sentiment has turned more selective after the strong 1Q performance for CDMO, amid the sector rotation into technology/ semiconductor names. In CDMOs, investors generally stepped back to the sidelines, citing a lack of near-term catalysts and preferring to await clearer evidence of demand recovery and order visibility from 2Q results before turning more constructive. Meanwhile, recent headlines—including proposed US restrictions on China clinical data and discussions around adding China biotech companies to the COINS Act—have added to sentiment overhang, although near-term fundamental impact is generally seen as manageable. This cautious stance persists despite announced share buybacks from WuXi Biologics (up to US$400mn) and WuXi XDC (up to US$100mn). For MedTech and Healthcare Services, investor engagement remains relatively light overall, with interest largely concentrated in companies with clear, near-term idiosyncratic developments. In particular, the “going-global” thesis continues to be debated, with investors seeking more tangible evidence on execution, profitability, and disclosure before increasing exposure. We have also noted growing concerns around a soft domestic in-hospital environment, with reimbursement controls still tightening and the implementation of new anti-corruption measures in May potentially weighing on near-term activity. We revise our earnings estimates by -1.8%/-2.1%/-0.1% on average for FY26–28E, reflecting both evolving industry trends and company-specific developments following the 1Q26 results. For additional takeaways on 1Q wrap-up, please refer to our China Healthcare Pulse sector update.

Looking ahead, investors broadly expect 2Q results to serve as an important checkpoint for rebuilding confidence, particularly on order trends, margin trajectory, and management guidance. Positioning into 2H26, our preferred names include: 1) CDMOs / CROs: WuXi AppTec (potential 2Q guidance upside), Asymchem-H (GLP-1-related order momentum), Samsung Biologics (awaiting clarity on strike impact and order inflows/capex), XDC (Singapore site order ramp), and Tigermed (post clarity on CSRC investigation); 2) MedTech & Services: continued focus on the going-global theme, including surgical robotics (MedBot, Edge Medical), clear aligners (Angelalign), and TCM services (Gushengtang).

Key investor debate and our view

Exhibit 1: We prefer CDMOs on the structurally positive demand recovery

Company (Ticker, Rating)	Investor feedback	GS view	Key things to watch (earnings / near-term)
WuXi AppTec (2359.HK/ 603259.SH) B/B	Investors are increasingly focused on the specific product / pipeline drivers of growth, given crowded positioning. While near-term execution has improved, conviction still hinges on sustained multi-quarter delivery to strengthen earnings visibility and support valuation normalization.	We see 1Q26 as a key validation of diversified growth beyond GLP-1, with strong order momentum and broad-based backlog expansion. A higher mix of late-stage and commercial projects should underpin margin resilience and earnings visibility.	1) Guidance upgrade in 2Q; 2) Order intake trend and backlog conversion; include GLP-1 / TIDES contribution; 3) margin trajectory
Asymchem (6821.HK/ 002821.SZ, B/N)	Investor focus has shifted increasingly toward margin trajectory, particularly in the context of utilization ramp-up for the expanded TIDES capacity. Investors debate whether current multiples already price in much of the medium-term upside	We remain positive on operating momentum, supported by emerging platforms (peptides, ADCs, oligonucleotides) driving both growth and margin expansion, alongside early stabilization in small-molecule demand.	1) Commercial revenue mix; 2) Margin progression; 3) Visibility on GLP-1-related projects
Samsung Biologics (207940.KS, B)	Investor discussions center on near-term labor-related disruption and quarterly order timing, with focus on sustainability of order inflow and timing of Plant 6 expansion to support medium-term capacity growth.	We see the long-term investment case intact, supported by high utilization, portfolio-based global client orders, and continued capacity expansion. Near-term labor and order timing volatility do not alter the structural growth trajectory, with US expansion and potential Plant 6 providing upside optionality.	1) Labor union negotiation; 2) Capex announcement for plant 6 and new client orders
WuXi XDC (2268.HK, B)	Valuation concerns have moderated post share price correction, with attention shifting to commercial order visibility and order ramp-up for the Singapore site to underpin medium-term revenue certainty.	We view WuXi XDC as well positioned for the ADC upcycle, supported by capacity-constrained demand and improving late-stage / commercial visibility. Near-term margin volatility during ramp-up should be transient, while recent share buyback provides incremental support to sentiment.	1) Orders / backlog conversion (late-stage ADCs); 2) Singapore ramp-up (utilization, initial orders) and margins during capacity absorption; 3) Client concentration & pipeline progression;
Tigermid (3347.HK/ 300347.SZ, B/B)	Investors acknowledge solid order momentum, but near-term confidence is tempered by earnings miss and concerns over AI-related investment drag and ongoing pricing pressure, in addition to the CSRC potential investigation on major shareholder	We see early signs of a demand recovery, with order intake accelerating meaningfully into March and April, led by domestic innovative drug activity and improving project mix. Near-term margins remain under pressure from legacy contracts, pricing lag and increased AI investment, but operating leverage should improve as revenue scales.	(1) Sustainability of MNC China-only POC trial momentum; (2) RFP conversion and backlog build; (3) Results of the CSRC investigation
Pharmaron (3759.HK/ 300759.SZ, B/N)	Investor sentiment remains neutral, with Pharmaron still viewed as a relative laggard in the CDMO recovery. While there are early signs of stabilization, clients continue to question the durability and pace of recovery versus peers, pending clearer evidence from order growth and commercial conversion.	We see improving order visibility, led by small-molecule CDMO under the CRDMO model, while margins face near-term pressure from FX headwinds and pricing competition in clinical development. LLY's partnership reinforces Pharmaron's position in local GLP-1 supply chain, improving strategic visibility while limited near term revenue contribution	(1) Disclosure on commercial model and order volumes; (2) Timing of orforglipron China approval; (3) Margin sustainability post-prelims; (4) Broader GLP-1 related capacity utilization.
WuXi Biologics (2269.HK, N)	Investors remain focused on commercial execution and margin sustainability, with key debate around PPQ conversion and overseas delivery (incl. Middle East exposure) to validate scalable and profitable revenue growth.	We expect growth acceleration into 2026 as order onboarding normalizes. Increasing contribution from milestone and royalty income supports structurally higher margins, partially offsetting near-term capacity ramp pressure. Execution on PPQ and commercial delivery remains key to rebuilding confidence.	1) New order momentum; 2) Capacity utilization; 3) 2026 revenue growth outlook.

Exhibit 2: Maintain neutral stance on Medtech – in hospital volume recovery constrained by cost control

Company (Ticker, Rating)	Investor feedback	GS view	Key things to watch (earnings / near-term)
Microport Medbot (2252.HK, B)	Investors acknowledge strong overseas order momentum, supported by group-level channels, but focus has shifted to the visibility of order delivery and execution — particularly how order backlog translates into installation, utilization, and revenue realization over the near to medium term.	We remain constructive, supported by solid overseas execution and a differentiated platform model. Diversified global order traction underpins scaling of the “equipment + consumables + services” model, with increasing utilization and mix improvement expected to drive a gradual but visible path to profitability.	Overseas order disclosure in July; Margin progression and path to profitability; Procedure volume growth and hospital adoption;
Edge Medical (2675.HK, B)	Investors generally acknowledge strong product quality and competitive positioning, particularly in the surgical robotics segment. That said, engagement remains measured, with a focus on commercialization progress, procedure ramp-up, and the timeline to meaningful revenue/margin contribution.	We are positive on Edge Medical's positioning within the surgical robotics landscape, supported by solid early overseas commercialization progress and competitive product capabilities. The company has established initial presence across multiple regions with meaningful installed base growth, providing a foundation for subsequent utilization ramp and recurring revenue generation	Overseas order disclosure in July; Margin progression and path to profitability; Procedure volume growth and hospital adoption
AngelAlign (6699.HK, B)	Investors increasingly focus on overseas execution quality and margin trajectory, with stronger confidence following clearer case volume guidance and earlier-than-expected overseas breakeven. Attention is also shifting to pricing discipline and sustainability of margin improvement alongside ongoing domestic VBP impact	We remain constructive on AngelAlign, with overseas expansion increasingly driving both growth visibility and margin scalability. Strong case volume guidance (~25% in 2026) and earlier-than-expected overseas breakeven support confidence in operating leverage, while ongoing mix improvement helps mitigate domestic VBP pressure	1) Overseas case growth; 2) Margin inflection timeline.3) Patent litigation update; 4) domestic VBP progress
AK Medical (1789.HK, B)	Investors are divided: long-term positive on surgical robotics strategy, but measured by lack of near-term monetization and slow rebound in high-value, non-VBP volumes.	We are increasingly constructive following a clear reset in execution and margin delivery. Improved profitability driven by overseas mix, cost discipline and digital solutions enhances earnings quality and reduces dependence on volume recovery alone. At the same time, a clearer robotics roadmap reinforces medium-term strategic optionality, supporting a more visible pathway for re-rating despite gradual near-term monetization	(1) Inflection in non-VBP / revision volumes; (2) Robot installations vs actual procedure monetization; (3) SG&A trajectory; (4) Reimbursement clarity for robot-assisted surgery.
Shandong Weigao (1066.HK, N)	Investors broadly acknowledge that VBP headwinds are largely digested, with focus shifting toward pace of volume recovery and margin stabilization. However, sentiment remains measured given gradual recovery trajectory and continued attention on input cost pressure and earnings visibility relative to peers.	We view Weigao as transitioning into a more balanced risk-reward profile, with margin pressure from lingering VBP impact and rising raw material cost from middle east tension. Ongoing efforts in portfolio upgrading and capital discipline, alongside undemanding valuation, should provide downside support.	1) Post-VBP volume recovery; 2) Overseas expansion progress; 3) Margin trajectory vs. input cost (oil) pressure; 4) Progress in higher-value platforms and selective overseas expansion.
MicroTech Medical (2235.HK, N)	Investors acknowledge better CGMS traction (domestic + early overseas), but remain cautious on profitability timing, sustainability of share gains, and overseas execution risk.	We take a more balanced stance as downside risks appear increasingly contained. Strong FY26 guidance (≥35% revenue growth) and improving profitability driven by operating leverage reinforce a clearer earnings trajectory, while early overseas commercialization success and moderating domestic pricing pressure improve confidence in sustainable share gains. Continued execution on overseas ramp and cost efficiency will be key to further re-rating.	(1) CGMS volume growth vs. pricing discipline; (2) Pace of overseas contribution; (3) Opex intensity and breakeven trajectory; (4) Competitive dynamics in domestic CGMS.

Exhibit 3: Relatively cautious on Healthcare Services - Lingering DRG/DIP pressure and diverging discretionary consumption

Company (Ticker, Rating)	Investor feedback	GS view	Key things to watch (earnings / near-term)
Gushengtang (2273.HK, B)	Investor sentiment has improved, supported by management's clearer pivot back to growth, accelerating industry consolidation, and visible progress in overseas (Singapore) execution.	We prefer Gushengtang among healthcare services names, given its resilient demand profile and scalable overseas expansion with Singapore stores to reach 50 by YE26, with overseas revenue reaching c.Rmb300mn by year-end (on an indicative basis, excluding M&A timing impact)	1) Pace and returns of domestic M&A; 2) Post-integration performance of acquired clinics; 3) Overseas store rollout and contribution to growth.
Hygeia (6078.HK, N)	Investor sentiment remains neutral with focus on utilization recovery under DRG/DIP, lack of visible upside from M&A, and the ramp-up pace of new hospitals/beds, while see FCF provide good ground for potential dividend	Operations have stabilized, but recovery visibility remains limited. Management has shifted to a disciplined, wait-and-see M&A stance, prioritizing balance-sheet strength and policy clarity. New hospitals add medium-term capacity optionality, while overseas initiatives are positive but early-stage, with revenue impact yet to be proven.	1) Oncology patient flow recovery and utilization trends; 2) DRG/DIP impact on case economics and margins; 3) New bed / hospital ramp-up breakeven trajectory; 4) Progress and revenue contribution from overseas initiatives.
Jinxin Fertility (1951.HK, S)	Investor focus has shifted more constructively following disclosures showing early-2026 volume recovery, particularly in Shenzhen and US operations, though concerns remain around margin sustainability given higher opex during ramp-up.	We see early signs of demand recovery, supported by Shenzhen capacity expansion and US insurance coverage (SB729). However, we remain cautious on near-term profitability, pending clearer evidence on sustained volume and margin normalization.	1) Sustainability of IVF cycle growth in Shenzhen and the US; 2) Margin impact from new campus opex; 3) 2026 guidance clarity at results.
Topchoice Medical (600763.SH, S)	Investor sentiment has turned more cautious, with increasing focus on the pace and sustainability of revenue recovery amid a still-soft consumption environment. While the low-pricing strategy has improved affordability post-VBP, investors are questioning its effectiveness in driving meaningful volume uplift and operating leverage.	We see risk-reward as increasingly less compelling relative to peers, as revenue re-acceleration remains uncertain despite strategy adjustments. While fundamentals remain stable, limited visibility on volume recovery and operating leverage constrains near-term upside, in our view, with stronger conviction opportunities elsewhere in the sector	1) Dental implant volume recovery; 2) Share trends post-VBP renewals; 3) Margin stability as pricing resets mature.

GS Factor Profile

The Goldman Sachs Factor Profile provides investment context for a stock by comparing key attributes to the market (i.e. our universe of rated stocks) and its sector peers. The four key attributes depicted are: Growth, Financial Returns, Multiple (e.g. valuation) and Integrated (a composite of Growth, Financial Returns and Multiple). Growth, Financial Returns and Multiple are calculated by using normalized ranks for specific metrics for each stock. The normalized ranks for the metrics are then averaged and converted into percentiles for the relevant attribute. The precise calculation of each metric may vary depending on the fiscal year, industry and region, but the standard approach is as follows:

Growth is based on a stock's forward-looking sales growth, EBITDA growth and EPS growth (for financial stocks, only EPS and sales growth), with a higher percentile indicating a higher growth company. Financial Returns is based on a stock's forward-looking ROE, ROCE and CROCI (for financial stocks, only ROE), with a higher percentile indicating a company with higher financial returns. Multiple is based on a stock's forward-looking P/E, P/B, price/dividend (P/D), EV/EBITDA, EV/FCF and EV/Debt Adjusted Cash Flow (DAFCF) (for financial stocks, only P/E, P/B and P/D), with a higher percentile indicating a stock trading at a higher multiple. The Integrated percentile is calculated as the average of the Growth percentile, Financial Returns percentile and (100% - Multiple percentile).

Financial Returns and Multiple use the Goldman Sachs analyst forecasts at the fiscal year-end at least three quarters in the future. Growth uses inputs for the fiscal year at least seven quarters in the future compared with the year at least three quarters in the future (on a per-share basis for all metrics).

M&A Rank

Across our global coverage, we examine stocks using an M&A framework, considering both qualitative factors and quantitative factors (which may vary across sectors and regions) to incorporate the potential that certain companies could be acquired. We then assign a M&A rank as a means of scoring companies under our rated coverage from 1 to 3, with 1 representing high (30%-50%) probability of the company becoming an acquisition target, 2 representing medium (15%-30%) probability and 3 representing low (0%-15%) probability. For companies ranked 1 or 2, in line with our standard departmental guidelines we incorporate an M&A component into our target price. M&A rank of 3 is considered immaterial and therefore does not factor into our price target, and may or may not be discussed in research.

Quantum

Quantum is Goldman Sachs' proprietary database providing access to detailed financial statement histories, forecasts and ratios. It can be used for in-depth analysis of a single company, or to make comparisons between companies in different sectors and markets.

Ratings, coverage universe and related definitions

Buy (B), Neutral (N), Sell (S) Analysts recommend stocks as Buys or Sells for inclusion on various regional Investment Lists. Being assigned a Buy or Sell on an Investment List is determined by a stock's total return potential relative to its coverage universe. Any stock not assigned as a Buy or a Sell on an Investment List with an active rating (i.e., a stock that is not Rating Suspended, Not Rated, Early-Stage Biotech, Coverage Suspended or Not Covered), is deemed Neutral. Each region manages Regional Conviction Lists, which are selected from Buy rated stocks on the respective region's Investment Lists and represent investment recommendations focused on the size of the total return potential and/or the likelihood of the realization of the return across their respective areas of coverage. The addition or removal of stocks from such Conviction Lists are managed by the Investment Review Committee or other designated committee in each respective region and do not represent a change in the analysts' investment rating for such stocks.

Total return potential represents the upside or downside differential between the current share price and the price target, including all paid or anticipated dividends, expected during the time horizon associated with the price target. Price targets are required for all covered stocks. The total return potential, price target and associated time horizon are stated in each report adding or reiterating an Investment List membership.

Coverage Universe: A list of all stocks in each coverage universe is available by primary analyst, stock and coverage universe at <https://www.gs.com/research/hedge.html>.

Not Rated (NR). The investment rating, target price and earnings estimates (where relevant) are removed pursuant to Goldman Sachs policy when Goldman Sachs is acting in an advisory capacity in a merger or in a strategic transaction involving this company, when there are legal, regulatory or policy constraints due to Goldman Sachs' involvement in a transaction, and in certain other circumstances. Early-Stage Biotech (ES). An investment rating and a target price are not assigned pursuant to Goldman Sachs policy when this company has neither a drug, treatment or medical device that has passed a Phase II clinical trial nor a license to distribute a post-Phase II drug, treatment or medical device. Rating Suspended (RS). Goldman Sachs Research has suspended the investment rating and price target for this stock, because there is not a sufficient fundamental basis for determining an investment rating or target price. The previous investment rating and target price, if any, are no longer in effect for this stock and should not be relied upon. Coverage Suspended (CS). Goldman Sachs has suspended coverage of this company. Not Covered (NC). Goldman Sachs does not cover this company.
